SOVIET NEWSPAPERS DECREASE 32 PER CENT IN TWELVE YEARS

MOSCOW, Oct. 16.—(A. P.)—The number of newspapers in Soviet Russia in comparison with 1913 has deceased by 32 per cent. There are now published throughout the federation 586 newspapers, as against 870 in pre-war times, but the circulation of the Soviet papers exceeds the pre-war time circulation by 110 per cent, having reached by July 1 this year nearly 8,000,000. The large political papers, like Pravda and Izvestia have a circulation of more than 1,500,000 each.

The present number of magazines published in Russia is about the same as before the revolution, but owing to their high prices, they are practically average reader. The magazines seldom find their way to the villages.

THE DANGER SIGNAL!

When a passenger train was speeding along in the night, unaware of a broken bridge ahead, a boy climbed out on the bridge, waved a lantern and saved the train from wreck. Over fifty years ago, Dr. R. V. Pierce, a distinguished physician, knew of the danger symptoms that threaten humanity—loss of appetite, languor, lack of strength, and, being a student of the medicinal value of herbs, compounded a wonderful remedy, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a tonic and blood purifier. Vim, Vigor, Vitality follow its use. Try it! Don't forget the Danger Signal.

INFERIOR FORCE TAKES SHANGHAI WITHOUT A SHOT

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

SHANGHAI, Oct. 16.—Shanghai, gateway port of China, fell into the hands of a new military ruler today, General Sun Chuan-Fang, the Chekiang commander. Without firing a single shot, 10,000 of his troops took possession of the city, while 15,000 troops of General Chang Tso-Lin, who have held the city for many months, withdrew toward Central China.

More than 80 Chinese sentenced to death were turned over to foreign authorities by General Shing Shi-Lien, the retiring commander, who was unable to execute the offenders after sentences had been imposed by mixed courts.

The change of military rulers in Shanghai was not without disorder, however. A train on the Shanghai-Nanking railway, on which Silas H. Strawn of Chicago, American delegate to the Chinese customs conference at Peking, was riding, was seized by Chinese soldiers. Mr. Strawn, his daughter and Mahlon F. Perkins, technical expert of the state department, were forced to return to Shanghai before they were allowed to proceed on their journey.

Authorities at the international settlement's here tody, started adopting precautionary measures. All defense units were ordered to stand by and barricades of barbed wire were erected about the settlement boundaries.

While Shanghai is the center of a muelstrom of militarist activity, it appeared evident tonight that any real warfare would be fairly remote. Late messages tonight reported that Fengtienese troops (of General Chang) were continuing their retreat beyond Soochow, where the railway line meets the grand canal. It apparently was their purpose to establish a defense line no claser to Shanghai than Wusih, 80 miles away.

The retreating troops were reported blowing up bridges and tearing up rails to impede the following Chekiang forces. The retreat also was said to be accompanied by considerable looting. Traffic between populated centers was wholly suspended, due to the troop movements.

Mr. Strawn and his party arrived in Nanking safely and intended to depart for Peking tonight, taking the train at Pukow, across the river from the Kiangsu capital.

The foreign settlements here were tranquil tonight.

ROOF OF DEER CREEK BRIDGE IS DAMAGED BY FIRE

Fire starting from a burning brush pile caused considerable damage to the roof of the Deer Creek bridge east of town yesterday evening. Embers from the burning brush fell on the roof of the covered structure and within a few minutes a serious blaze had developed. Residents with the aid of several small boys formed a bucket brigade, holdin gthe blaze in check while a call was sent in for the Roseburg fire department. Chief Fletcher answered the alarm and took the small truck to the scene. He found the fire a stubborn one and it was necessary to cut a hole through the roof and rip off the shingles from a large section of the bridge before the fire could be extinguished.

LACK OF BUSINESS COMPELS BANK AT COBURG TO CLOSE

Not enough business to justify the existence of a bank was given as the reason for the liquidation.

L. F. Longcoy is president of the bank. A. G. Pirtle is vice-president and J. M. Sencenbugh is cashier.

THEATRES

Majestic Theatre

"The Battling Orioles," Hal Roach's new feature Pathecomedy, which comes to the Majestic theatre tonight and Saturday can probably boast of more heroes than any picture yet produced. There are ten to be exact, the combined ages of nine of them is said to be 653 years. Glenn Tyron, who is featured in the comedy is 25 but the others tilt the calendar at from seventy to eighty.

These aged contenders for the heroic laurel wreath are members of what was once "The Battling Orioles," a baseball team that in 1874 had the enviable reputation of being the hardest hitting flock of gay birds that ever sent an umpire home on a stretcher.

However, time has wrought changes and the story next shows them fifty years later. They are now aged and wrinkled, wheezy and dissatisfied, suffering from imagined ills and nursing a perpetual grouch, their luxurious club is like a manusoleum. Into this mortuary atmosphere comes Tommy Tucker, played by Glenn Tryon, who appoints himself rejuvenator of the human relics.

Liberty Theatre

A new he-man hero who seems destined to leave a trail of broken hearts strewed along his primrose path to stardom appears at the Liberty theatre, for a two-day run on tonight when "Let's Go, Gallagher," featuring Tom Tyler, F. B. O.'s new western find, is given its local premier. From its first showing in Hollywood the production has been hailed as uncovering a star of the first magnitude. With a magnetic personality vouchsafed to few, a wonderful smile, a magnificent build and a striking resemblance to George O'Brien, Mr. Tyler cannot fail to land and land hard with picture fans who are always looking, and usually in vain, for a new face in the heroic roles of action pictures. "Let's Go, Gallagher" also brings to public notice two new young directors, James Gruen and Robert DeLacey, who have collaborated to put over a corking production. The scenario, by Percy Heath, has a lot of good original stuff, many sympathetic touches and plenty of comedy; while the supporting cast is all that could be desired.

Antlers Theatre

While the biggest thrills of "The Freshman," in which Harold Lloyd is now appearing at the Antlers theatre, take place at a football game and some of the heartiest laughs are aroused by practice at tackling when Harold substitutes for a dummy, this Pathe picture is not to be classified as a football comedy. Rather it is a college story, being entirely concerned with the adventures that befall a freshman who is a "little you" going to college with "Big I" ambitions.

He throws his heart and soul into the task of winning highest popularity honors, and, in the fond hope that he is achieving his ideal, he does everything he is told to do, never realizing that his simplicity and sincerity are being taken advantage of by every upperclass bully in the school and that, behind his back, his rah, rah gets the merry ha! ha!

Harold makes speeches, buys ice cream cones, fights for a place on the football team, is host of the Fall Frolic and believes the flattery of every fair co-ed—all in the name of popularity! Then comes disillusionment and the truth! But it takes heartache and tears to make a hero, and Harold winds up by saving the day for the college that thought he was its booby prize!
