MARTIANS FIND HOME BREW NECESSITY, SAYS SCIENTIST

PASADENA, Cal., Oct. 15.—(A. P.)—Home brew is a necessity on the planet Mars, provided there is life there and also provided that life requires moisture to live, in the opinion of Dr. Charles E. St. John, astronomer and physicist of the Mount Wilson observatory near here.

The water supply on Mars, as revealed in a series of tests just completed by Dr. St. John, is about one-twentieth that found on the tops of the semi-arid mountains of southern California.

Besides being on perpetual emergency rations of water, the Martians, if there are any such creatures, also are short of what this planet calls air. The oxygen supply there is only 60 per cent of that on the heights of Mount Everest in the Himalayas, and on Mount Everest explorers must use oxygen tanks to keep alive.

In the matter of heat Mars is better off than was formerly supposed. In fact, says Dr. St. John, the Mars temperature, often described as excessively cold, may be nearly the same as that of this earth, since Mars absorbs all but about fifteen per cent of the light and heat reaching it from the sun. As a basis of comparison, it is stated that this planet absorbs only one-half the light and heat received from the sun, and reflects the remainder.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

STAIN ON CHURCH WALL SHAPES MARY AND CHRIST CHILD

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

MINEOLA, N. Y., Oct. 17.—Visitors by the thousands are flocking to St. Martins' Roman Catholic church at Central Park, a hamlet near here, and there is talk of making the little whitewashed building a shrine church.

A stain on the plaster wall, the visitors say, has assumed the shape of a Madonna and child. They point out a light spot at her throat as the halo above the child's head, a cross held by the child, and a halo appearing above the Virgin's head.

The Rev. Daniel H. Dwyer, pastor of the church, is seeking an explanation of how the stain assumed this shape.

"I see no more than any one else does," he said, "but certainly the image of the Christ child is clear."

Some of the parishioners say the details are becoming more distinct with the passing days. One suggestion is that the stain itself was a natural result of exposure to storm when the building was under construction a year ago. The supernatural element figures largely in the parishioners' discussions. Already among the numerous visitors are cripples and invalids hoping for miraculous cures, although as yet no cures have been reported. As many as 200 automobiles have been counted before the church at one time.

More persons have visited the church in one day since the image appeared than live in the entire parish.

A. Banks, an official of the company.

The acreage purchased includes three orchards and forty acres of cleared land suitable for orchard planting, all located near the company packing plant at Voorhies. The consideration, which is said to be approximately $100,000, is one of the largest local deals in recent months.

LAWS RELATING TO FUR ANIMALS ARE MEANT TO CONSERVE SUPPLY

"Taking an unprime pelt is a deliberate waste of one of nature's most valuable and beautiful gifts, and not until trappers and raw-fur men learn to look upon it as such will the best use of our valuable resources in fur be realized." Speaking on the subject of necessity for careful fur conservation, Frank G. Ashbrook, in Farmers' Bulletin 1469, laws relating to fur animals for the season 1925-26, points out that if the unprime animals now killed every year were left for breeding stock, the annual catch would probably not be decreased more than 5 per cent, while the supply of wild fur animals would without doubt be increased 50 per cent in five years.

Fur is in prime condition for harvesting at one brief season only. An open season of more than three months' duration is not justifiable anywhere in the United States. The average quality of pelts would be much higher if laws made seasons shorter and uniform for areas having the same climatic conditions. If the fur business is to maintain its position among the great industries of the country the continued source of supply must be assured.

The maintenance of the fur supply is primarily the business of the state. The United States department of agriculture administers the Lacey act, regulating interstate commerce in wild animals, and supplements state legislation in efforts for conservation of fur animals. The attitude of the department is one of cooperation and not of federal control.

This bulletin contains a complete list of all the laws in the various states and Canada relating to fur animals and effective for the coming year. Regulations affecting the interstate shipment of pelts are explained, and the legislation enacted during the year is reviewed, with all important changes noted. A recommendation is made that trappers be required to turn in an annual report of furs of each species taken, from which an estimate could be made of the total number and value of the furs taken annually. The status of fur-farming in this country and Alaska is steadily improving and is discussed in another section.

The bulletin may be obtained while the supply lasts by addressing the United States Department of Agriculture, at Washington, D. C.

Varicose Veins Reduced or Your Money Back

Simple Home Treatment That Is Giving Amazing Results.

The world progresses. Today ailments that took weeks to cure can now be ended in a few days. If you have varicose veins or bunches you can start today to bring them back to normal size, and if you are wise you will do so.

Just get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil at any dispensing pharmacist and apply it night and morning to the enlarged veins. It is very powerful and penetrating, and only a little is required.

After a few days' treatment the veins will begin to grow smaller and by regular use will soon reduce to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil is also a marvelous healing agent. One application for instance stops the itching of eczema, and a few applications causes the eruptions to dry up, scale off and completely disappear. It is equally as effective in barber's itch, salt rheum, redness and inflammatory skin trouble.

People who want to reduce varicose veins, or get rid of eczema, ulcers, or piles in a few days should not hesitate to get a bottle at once. It is powerful that a small bottle lasts a long time. Any pharmacy can supply you.

ROSEBURG WINS FROM OAKLAND BY SCORE 43-0

The Roseburg high school football team won a lop-sided victory from Oakland high school yesterday evening, defeating the visitors by a score of 43 to 0. In the game yesterday the Roseburg team displayed considerable improvement over its former games, although several weaknesses were still in evidence. The exceptionally light line was very weak at times, although in the pinches it held up well. There was also a bad weakness in the passing of the ball back from center. Considerable improvement was shown by the whole, however. Tackling was much harder and more sure, and the boys did good work in their blocking on offensive and defensive play. Their forward passes were better also. They showed considerable improvement in giving interference for runners and their end runs were worked for good gains.

The Roseburg team has been working against a bad handicap of inexperience. Only four members of the squad have had previous football experience and consequently the team is unable to play with the same effect as an experienced eleven. This shows up particularly in their failure to take advantage of the breaks of the game, lacking the knowledge necessary to take advantage of the many little opportunities which arise. The coaches are endeavoring to give the boys as much experience as possible this year for next year with the added knowledge and weight Roseburg should be able to make a good showing.

NEW YORK POLICE NET GATHERS IN NOTORIOUS GANG

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Police today arrested a woman and seven men as leaders of a band of criminals responsible for may crimes, including murder and robberies, over a period of six years. The leaders are alleged to have made a specialty of providing their subordinates with pistol silencers.

A bank robbery, at least one murder and numerous holdups, are attributed to the band by the police. The roundup was considered one of the most important in many years. Other arrests are expected.

One murder for which police say the gang was responsible was that of a furrier, who was shot and killed in a robbery last July. One of the men under arrest is alleged to have participated in the robbery of a bank in Freeport, Long Island, in 1919.

The woman, Rose Hemeline, engaged in a running gun fight with police on October 6, police said, in which fifteen shots were exchanged. Men confederates were with the woman.

GARDINER PIONEER VISIT SCOOS BAY

When J. W. Reed, of Gardiner came to the bay country there was a trail connecting Marshfield and Empire that one might travel on foot or horseback, the sole connecting link between the two places. That was in 1872. Mr. Reed, nearing his 78th birthday, came here yesterday with his wife on a shopping trip and returned to Gardiner last night on the train.

Mr. Reed established the first regular stage line between Empire and Winchester Bay along the beach. That was about 1876 and he ran it for three and one-half years. At that time, says the pioneer, it required at least three or four days to go from here to Portland, depending largely on the tides, a part of the trip being made in sail boats and the remainder on the train. The overland route was much longer.

In 1872 the Pelican, an accident tron vessel, formerly a blockade runner of the Rebellion, was carrying passengers between San Francisco and Coos Bay, stopping in at every port along the coast. It was in this old steam propelled vessel that Mr. Reed came here. Marshfield boasted but a single thoroughfare, vastly different from its present condition, and of the two places, Empire was the larger.

Saw mills and coal mines were in operation. Mr. Reed says he has seen a dozen ships loaded with lumber and coal waiting to get out. This in the early 70's.

Save for 12 years spent at Grays Harbor, Mr. Reed has lived at Gardiner since 1872. His hair apparently refuses to become gray.—Coos Bay Times.
