HUSBAND AND WIFE SUITS TO MATCH IS SARTORIAL DECREE

LONDON, Oct. 19—It is the fashion for husbands and wives, particularly those who spend a good deal of their time in the country, to have clothes which match. The Duke and Duchess of York on several occasions recently have appeared in tailored blue suits, the cloth apparently having been cut from the same roll.

A prominent Saville row tailor last week had a client who chose a suit from a smart pattern. He was told there was just enough of the goods to make his suit.

"Is that all?" asked the customer. "Then I am afraid it won't do. My wife wants a skirt and coat off the same roll from which my suit comes."

GROWING AMERICA NEEDS MORE MEAT, PACKER DECLARES

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—Stocks of meats in storage and press of cure will fill the need of the United States for only 12 days, if immediately available, according to government bureau figures, Oscar G. Mayer, president of the Institute of American Meat Packers, told his organization today at the twentieth annual convention. He estimated American meat production in 1925 will be twenty billion pounds, with a per capita allotment of nearly 160 pounds; exports will be about one and a half billion pounds.

Continued growth of population in the United States at an estimated annual increase of 1,500,000 persons, will require additional supplies of meat in this proportion:

200,000 cattle, 200,000 sheep and lambs, and one million hogs.

JAZZ OPERA SOON TO HAVE PREMIERE IN UNITED STATES

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—Jazz, the ragged waif that only a few years ago was timidly begging shelter in the musical family, at last is knocking at the Olympian portal of grand opera.

Graduating from tin pan alley and but lately molded to the forms of rhapsody and symphony by such moderns as George Gershwin and Leo Sowerby, a jazz opera is now in the making.

Tito Shipa, famous tenor of the Chicago Civic Opera company, announced that he had made plans for the production of the first work of this character and had employed a 24 year old Chicagoan, Ted Fiorito, to write the score.

"The typically American motifs in jazz and syncopated music are capable of carrying symphonic or grand opera significance," said the tenor.

Fiorito is composer of "Dreamer of Dreams," "Toot, Toot, Tootsie," and "Oh Mabel."

OREGON'S SECOND STRING ENOUGH TO SHUT OUT PACIFIC

EUGENE, Ore., Oct. 19.—With the dawn of a new week, grim determination today settled down over the University of Oregon Athletic field where Huskie football warriors are training for the tilt Saturday in Portland with the University of California.

For several weeks the players have been keeping California in mind as they trained, but with actual arrival of the week in which the game will occur a new feeling crept over. To hold California down is a hard task for any team, and the Oregon men are determined that they will be the ones to do it, if they can.

Oregon won Saturday from Pacific university by a small score of 13 to 0, in a slow and uninteresting game.

Oregon's second string played the game through with the exception of the first quarter, when the Oregon points were all gathered in so the mere points don't mean anything to the Oregon fans.

When California faces the Webfooters Saturday, she will face every Oregon player, in good condition, according to the present outlook. The biggest cause of worry has been big Lynn Jones, fullback, who has been carrying a badly damaged wrist since the Idaho game. He will be back in the lineup, however, the trainers say.

When the game is called, protegees of two Smiths will face each other. Coach Andy Smith is of California. Coach Dick Smith is of Oregon. There will be no brotherly feeling, however, for they are not related.

NORTHWEST COAST FOG TAKES TOLL ON LAND AND WATER

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 17.—As fog that Tuesday laid thick gloom over the Pacific coast from Alaska to Oregon broke slowly today, reports reaching eSattle brought two deaths attributed to low visibility.

Other items in the toll were a $170,000 fire in Seattle and stranding of the Dutch motorship Eemdyk, which still hung to the rocks on which she caught near Victoria, B. C., Wednesday night. Dispatches received by the Seattle Times from Centralia, Wash., told of the death of Gordon Foster, 17 year old, of Centralia, and the injury of Fay Wilkins, 15, recently from Texas.

They were hurt in automobile accidents on the Pacific highway near Grand Mound, 70 miles southwest of here, blamed on the fog.

The Times had previously reported the death Wednesday of Otto Jensen, of Clear Lake, Wash., as he was filling the gasoline tank of his car, when struck by Goldie Henry, Burlington, Wash., who drove up in the fog.

ASK STATESMEN TO COME FORWARD LEST ENGLAND MAY SINK

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Almost the entire English press is wailing for statesmanship to come forward, lest this country lose her traditional greatness. One and all the papers seem to conclude that economically and otherwise the nation is bogging down, and that something must be done.

The editorial writers have even ceased their post-war practice of looking around for some foreigner on whom to put the blame for England's woes. They no longer lecture the French morning and evening, nor growl of "unfair competition" from Germany. For the moment they have even ceased to complain of America's attitude toward the war debts. There is evidenced a growing realization that England has her own house to put in order.

The papers are beginning to pan the Prime Minister. That is one straw showing how the wind blows. The cheaper, noisier and most widely circulated ones opened their offensive against him weeks ago. They did not like his "surrender" in the mining dispute, in which the government bought a truce between coal diggers and coal owners at the cost of 2,000,000 pounds a month. Then Mr. Baldwin went to Aix-les-Bains for a holiday. When he came back, after four weeks of rest, he gaily remarked that he hadn't read an English newspapers for a month.

None of the newspapers took kindly to this, or saw any joke in it. A great many things of importance happened while he was gone, they have been informing Mr. Baldwin. For one thing, unemployment became still worse. And under the surface there is a great deal of talk about Bolshevik uprisings and all sorts of possible trouble next May when the coal truce ends. And more talk of mobilizing the manhood of the country to protect "British standards and traditions." Youngsters and grown-ups of the middle classes, ex-army folk and such, are organizing branches of the British "Fascisti."

The serious journals are beginning to cry for statesmanship, and to inform Mr. Baldwin that he has not lived up to the hopes they placed in him when Labor was thrown out and Conservatism put back in power. G. K. Chesterton, in his weekly, has been pounding away at a campaign for small ownership, for the return of English peasantry to till a rich soil that is more and more neglected while the country keeps buying larger proportions of foodsfrom overseas.

Sir Philip Gibbs, writing in the Sunday Times, inquires "Is England Done?" and says the Government policy has been one of drifting, of temporary makeshifts in emergencies; niggling measures to reduce unemployment (which hasn't been reduced), returning to the gold standard without counting its cost in impairing trade, "subsidizing laziness," as an American termed the dole. Sir Philip thinks the "rot in our social state" can be stopped only by an all-around reduction in the standard of life, "not asking labour to get back below the poverty line while we keep all our luxury." Someone, he said, must show how to get a few million to emigrate out of England.

His call for leadership is echoed by J. L. Garvin, the distinguished editor of the Sunday Observer. The country does not want to replace the government, for the alternative is probably labor with a working majority, he contends, but "the country intends without mistake to awaken the Government to a more real sense of the magnitude and urgency of the public crisis, to invigorate its action, and to force it out of conventional habits of mind."

Other journals and lesser men are expressing the same thought daily.

Mr. Garvin, who confesses that he joined heartily in the "Te Deum" that welcomed the Conservative government less than a year ago, writes:

"Unless the Baldwin Government as regards trade and unemployment, can rise above nullity or mediocrity of attempt or the subsidy spirit, John Bull will resort to the newspapers and advertise a vacant situation."

COYOTE SLAIN IN CHICKEN PEN AT THE STATE SCHOOL

SALEM, Ore Oct. 19.—William McCarroll, engineer at the state school for the blind, located in the heart of one of Salem's residential districts, this morning shot and killed a coyote in the state school's chicken pens at the rear of the school. Mrs. Mildred Mortenson, laundress at the institution, was directly responsible for the slaying of the coyote. She saw the animal in the pens and slammed a gate on it. McCarroll was called and dispatched the animal with a rifle.

The coyote was a young one, apparently five or six months old, and is believed to be responsible for depredations on the chicken pens over a period of several days. The animal is believed to have been living in the brush along a creek bed back of the school on state property.

GENEVA, Oct. 19.—If the next session of the Council of the League of Nations is held at Madrid, the selection may have been made by the wives of the Council members.

The Spanish Ambassador was asked by a friend whether he thought the Spanish invitation to meet in Madrid would be accepted.

"What do you think?" rejoined the Ambassador.

"Well, all I know is that Mrs. Hymans (the wife of the Belgian member of the Council) says she wants to go to Madrid," said the friend.

"Then it is all set," said the Ambassador with a laugh. "If the wives of the Council members have decided on Madrid than we shall certainly go there."

LOBSTER BOOTLEGGERS ARE ACTIVE OFF JERSEY COAST

HIGHLANDS, N. J., Oct. 19.—Lobster bootleggers are active off the New Jersey coast. Lying outside the three-mile limit of state jurisdiction, they buy "shorts" and smuggle their contraband ashore to resorts and even to the larger cities. A "short" is a lobster measuring less than four and one-eighth inches from butt to tail to tip of the horn at the head.

This traffic has reduced the average weight of the lobster caught in these waters from five pounds to one.

It is an icy day that keeps the lobstermen ashore. Working usually two to a boat, 25 feet 11½ inches over all, open, cabinless and unprotected from the weather, the fishermen in their quest anywhere from 3 to 10 miles out are lucky if they net an average of $10 a day.

Four lines each containing from 20 to 30 pots keep two men busy. The pot is a wooden frame covered with laths one inch apart and containing an opening through a knitted cord arrangement which narrows from the entrance. Decaying menhaden, caught by the fishermen of Sandy Hook bay, are threaded to the inside of the pot with copper wire and among the inedible sea crabs and unpopular ling,—a quick dying fish,—is found an occasional crustacean. Sometimes it is a "short."

Occasionally a heavy lobster is brought up, one taken this year having weighed seven pounds. Sometimes the pots yield a "shedder" in his annual round of casting off the old shell and putting on a new one. A prime delicacy, the latter die quickly and are of little commercial value to the lobstermen.

BALFOUR-GUTHRIE WINS INCOME TAX SUITS

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 19.—Balfour-Guthrie company, of which the Balfour-Guthrie Trust company of Portland is a subsidiary, will be saved $97,000 as a result of a reversal on the decision of revision of 1918 income tax.

The deficiency in the concern's 1918 income was from the charging off of a debt to the Portland Trust company through property loans to F. B. Waite of Sutherlin, Ore., and the Ashland Orchards company of Ashland, totaling $220,878.91.

Security for the loans to Waite included the stock of the Ashland Orchards company and a promissory note for $170,000, by L. D. Kinney of Coos Bay. Waite become insolvent in 1918 and the same year Kinney's property was sold at auction. The assets of the Ashland Orchards company were then estimated at but $50,000 and these were transferred to the trust company. The balance of the debt was still $170,879 and this was charged off as a bad debt and was charged off the income tax returns.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19.—Athletes in the local schools under no circumstance may exercise more than two hours in an afternoon. No student may try out for more than one major sport team a semester.

The Board of Education, "alarmed at the steadily increasing displacement of studies by athletics in the minds of students," set these and other rules for high schools here. Post-season contests for sectional titles and contests with university or college freshman teams were also tabooed.

Only two practice games in each sport will be permitted to precede the regular season.
