

Vegetable Soup and Tru-Bake Crackers

What a satisfying combination they do make. How gloriously invigorating on chilly October days.

They supply the system with iron, iodine and needed mineral salts in their most palatable form.

And provide the vitamins so necessary to growth and health.

GOOD TASTE at table demands the serving of a slenderized cracker like Tru-Bakes. They fit the bite, "eat" neater—make soups taste better.

PROSPECTS ARE GOOD FOR PARADE ARMISTICE DAY

Prospects are excellent for a fine parade on Armistice Day, Nov. 11. The parade committee has been given excellent cooperation and if weather is good there is no question but that the parade will be one of the best ever seen. M. S. Hamm, city school superintendent, has promised cooperation from the schools on a basis to be worked out in the near future. County Judge Quinn will serve as marshal of the day and State Traffic Officer Thurber will also aid.

The Douglas County Concert Band, Umpqua Chiefs and Squaws, G. A. R., W. R. C., Reserve Corps, and other patriotic and civic organizations have signified their intention of participating. Entries are also promised by C. A. Lockwood Motor Company, Hanson Motor Company, Roy Catching, Buick Agency, Oldsmobile Agency, Weather Auto Supply Company, Roseburg Steam Laundry and Roseburg Soda Works. Other commercial entries are urged and an open invitation is extended to all firms in Douglas county to put entries in the parade. E. A. Britton, chairman of the committee, will supply any information desired by persons wanting to enter in the parade.

The American Legion members will march and the drum corps will also be featured.

bed, weather conditions, and possibly the seed used.

To store potatoes so they will keep well good circulation of air must be provided. Potatoes in storage are not completely dormant, considerable cell activity taking place and warming up the tuber. To prevent the potatoes from getting warm it is necessary to remove the warm moist air as rapidly as possible. Circulation, which keeps the tubers cool and dry with little loss by shrinkage, and less damage from rot, is favored by storing on a slatted floor.

Raspberry canes should not be topped back at this time of year, says the O. A. C. station. Such heading back may result in a strong, succulent lateral growth that would very easily winter kill, thus affecting the older parts of the cane. The cane had best be allowed to keep their growth till spring, and then headed back.

Cleanliness of houses and feed is essential to continued good health of the laying flock, says the O. A. C. station. Dirty houses further spread of disease, and musty or moldy feed knocks production as well as causes sickness and death in the flock.

Caulliflower grows so rapidly in these mild moist days of fall that the heads often get beyond the best condition for marketing, warns the vegetable gardening section at O. A. C. They must be watched carefully for cutting at a most desirable time. "Better cut the heads while they are smaller yet compact and white, than somewhat later when they may be larger, but have a divided curd."

If pullets have been properly bred and reared six to six and one-half months is soon enough for them to come into egg production, the O. A. C. experiment station reports. Their bodies are good sized and strong enough to stand a little forcing if they had good summer range and are given plenty of grain. They are best changed gradually from the developing mash to the laying mash over a period of ten days. Some of the laying mash moistened with buttermilk is then given them at noon for two weeks at the rate of five pounds of mash per 100 birds. They are in their permanent quarters during this period.

Cull potatoes may be used to cheapen the hog ration, as 425 pounds of cooked or 600 pounds of raw potatoes will replace 100 pounds of average feeding grain. They are best fed in combination with grain at the rate of 4 pounds cooked or 3 pounds raw to 1 pound of grain. The grain should not be cooked but added ground, to the potatoes when nearly cooked. Potatoes do not give the best results when fed without grain.

Growers of pears and beans can insure themselves of a weevil free crop if they kill all the weevils in the peas and beans they hold over winter for food or seed. The weevils fly from these infested products to the growing plants and lay their eggs on the peas and beans in the field. Fumigation by carbon bisulphide is the best way to kill these pests.

A barred rock hen has just completed a record on the O. A. C. poultry farm which gives her the distinction of being the first daughter of a 200-egg hen to reach the 300 mark herself on an experiment station farm. So far as known this record has been made only once before anywhere.

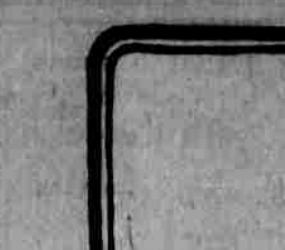

The new champion, 6778, laid her 304th egg October 13, completing the year. Her mother laid 305 eggs in her first year. Her sire was from a 277-egg hen, while four generations back two 303-egg hens appear in the pedigree.

Garden land now through prodded so the weeds cannot get a foothold this fall. Parts of the garden that produced such crops as sweet corn, snap beans, dry onions and other vegetables about finished, should also be worked. Too many gardens remain through the winter just as they were in late summer and fall says an O. A. C. station report. "Others become a weed patch by spring, to say nothing of the soil packed by the gardener during the season, and by the winter rains."

The purchase of a good grade laying mash for a small flock of 25 pullets rather than buying and mixing the materials, is recommended by the experiment station. In order to have anything by making his own mixtures the poultryman would have to buy the materials in lots too large to provide them in a fresh state. Although the bought mash may cost more, it will make a better feed.

DORMANT OIL SPRAYS. (By B. W. Cooney.) Many orchardists are now looking forward to the time when they will apply their fall or early winter sprays. Since dormant sprays are applied in the majority of cases for insect pests the county agent wishes to call attention at this time to oil sprays. The use of emulsified oil sprays are comparatively new to horticulturists. Nevertheless we have collected considerable data of what we can and cannot expect from its use.

Demonstrational work with the use of emulsified oils in the county the past year brought out a number of interesting facts. A close check of field work indicated clearly that four to five per cent emulsified oil could be depended upon to kill a high per cent of such scales as San Jose, Oyster Shell and Brown or Lecanium scales. It is in this class of fruit tree scales which have caused growers the most concern. There are many brands of emulsified oils upon the where water seeps out may be protected from drowning out by plowing furrows from these points to drainage channels. Such contour furrows should be at frequent intervals and have enough fall to keep themselves clear.

The neat corn maggot, a small white maggot that works in the sprouting seed of cucumbers, melons, and other plants, was responsible for considerable damage last spring. In a cold, damp season like we had last spring this pest is most injurious. The loss caused by this insect may be largely prevented by shallow planting of the seed delaying planting until the soil is dried out considerably, and avoiding soils containing considerable vegetable matter, such as recently plowed clover and alfalfa sod.

OAKLAND WOMAN BADLY INJURED IN AUTO WRECK

Mrs. Otto Lucterhand, of Oakland, was injured, perhaps fatally last night when the car in which she was a passenger went over the grade on Rice Hill. She and her husband were returning home from Cottage Grove and the car went over the grade near Isadora, rolling down about 75 feet. The woman was still in the machine when it came to a stop at the bottom of the grade, and when extricated from the wreckage was bleeding badly. She sustained a badly crushed chest and shoulders, and was also crushed about the head. She was rushed to Mercy hospital in this city and Dr. Waincoat called to attend her. She was in a precarious condition through the night and was still suffering from shock today, but appeared somewhat improved. It will be several days before the full extent of her injuries can be determined.

Gale (Batling) Mitchell, well known local boxer, and an employee of the S. P. shops, received a painful injury this morning when a heavy iron bar, weighing several hundred pounds, fell on his left ankle. He was taken to the office of Dr. Waincoat where an X-ray examination revealed that no bones had been broken, but that the ankle was sprained and bruised. Mitchell is scheduled to box a semi-final with Henry Brown of Oakland on the 30th and it is feared that the injury will prevent him from participating in the match.
