The Looking Glass high school is a pretty poor lot.

NOTED GIRL POET

JEST TARGET FOR EDWIN MARKHAM

Over his signature in the Brookly Eagle, Mr. Markham wrote yesterday:

"Unquestionably the whole thing is a great hoax, fabricated, perhaps by four young men and two women while lingering over the wine and walnuts—all of them distinguished poets, with dexterous pens and all determined to brood the monotony of the hour with this delectable deception.

"This is a moment in merry America.

"The sophisticated viewpoint of sex, and in life, the special knowledge of history and archaeology, places them beyond the reach of any juvenile mind."

Later Mr. Markham, in a statement to the New York World, qualified his views by saying:

"And yet it is entirely possible that Nathalia Crane has written these poems with her own mind and pen. In that case she is the most extraordinary girl in America and I wish her good fortune in the path of poetry."

Some doubters have been trying to locate William Rose Benet, who wrote the introduction to the first book. but he could not be found to throw any light on the subject.

"Mrs. Crane, Nathalia's father said, 'Mr. Markham, an old man and dean of poets of the United States, has made an unprovoked attack upon my daughter, treating her work as a jest and subjecting her to the whim of his opinion.

"If this is the way great poets are supposed to act and if this is the courtesy of the craft, then I must conclude that the whole brood of poets is a bunch of fools."

Mr. Markham's attack on the poetess was published in the Brookly Eagle, a leading literary magazine, and has since been reprinted in many other places.

ANNUAL XMAS SEAL SALE TO BE STARTED SOON

County Health Association Elects Officers to Direct Work

COUNTY RATIO LOW

Douglas County Has Fewer Deaths From TB Than Any County West of the Cascades

The annual Christmas Seal Sale, sponsored by the National Tuberculosis Association, will start in the near future. This sale is being managed locally by the Douglas County Health Association, which has organized for the work, and is preparing to appoint the necessary officers and committees to handle the sale.

New officers have been elected, those chosen to direct the work of the association being Glenn Wimberly, president; Mrs. F. M. Compston, of Sutherly, vice-president; J. H. Booth, treasurer; Marion Porter, secretary; Mrs. H. C. Boyle, chairman of supply committee; Miss Agnes Pitchford, chairman of the nurse committee; Mrs. Ben Zidler, publicity chairman; Mrs. L. J. Barnes and Mrs. Albert Minturn, finances committee.

Miss L. Grace Holmes, director of the bureau of surveys and clinics of the Oregon Tuberculosis Association, told the members of the county health association that Douglas county has the lowest death rate from tuberculosis of any county west of the Cascade mountains. This should be all the more reason for a successful seal sale, she says as the county has an opportunity by working hard for the next few years, to completely stamp out the disease.

"The National Tuberculosis Association was the first great national organization that set out to bring health out into the open as a national issue," Miss Holmes says. "We have many national organizations now, all combining their efforts to keep us well, and among them all they have managed to increase our average length of life from 35 to 58 years, all within a quarter of a century. To the N. T. A., however, belongs the proud distinction of starting the whole movement for better health."

"First, we turned the spot light on all the gruesome and shocking things about T. B. That system brought us up standing and got results, but it kept us with a lump in our throats all the time, and we didn't like that, especially we didn't like it for the children. So we set out to eliminate the note of sadness as far as we could and throw the emphasis on positive health. A healthy child needn't fear tuberculosis. He needn't even know that he is trying to escape it. He is happy and well. That is all he needs to know. When he starts out to sell Christmas seals he knows that wherever that little double-barred cross goes there goes the fight for health and joy. That is the crusade he is working in, bringing health and joy to all the children in the land."

"The rest of us need to know more than that. For example, that in the past few years the tuberculosis death rate in the United States has been cut down from 290 per 100,000 of the population to 90. That in Oregon we have reduced the TB rate per cent since 1915, when the O. T. B. association was organized. That Douglas county has a lower death rate from tuberculosis than any county west of the Cascades. 32 as compared with 68 in Oregon and 99 in the United States, and that, therefore, a wonderful advantage and a remarkable opportunity to stamp out the disease before it gets too prevalent in the county."

"This does not mean that Douglas County has not a tuberculosis problem. There were seven deaths from tuberculosis in Douglas County in 1924 and four in two county nurses were visiting 53 different patients during that time. It is of

Changing the Lines of the Bobbed Hair

The Smart Coiffure Frequently Adds Strands of Hair for a New Effect or Uses Appropriate Ornaments

The time has come when the simple bob is no longer quite the thing for all and every occasion. It is now necessary to dress the hair to suit the costume, and the hair either changes its lines to fit the mode or it adds to itself a few strands of artificial hair and so acquires a masterly coiffure.

The boyish bob, which is smart for daytime, does not quite fit the spirit of the evening mode, and so it is changed in line and appeal to meet fashion's demands upon it.

The ear, which threatened to become totally unseen for the remainder of feminine years, has come into its own again and is now very much in the fore of correct coiffures.

The very new, and very boyish bob, shows the ear very distinctly. The hair is combed well away from the lobe and, when the occasion demands, a chignon effect is used at the back.

The hair, which is softly combed away from the ears, frequently is softly waved at the temples and so relieves a too boyish effect.

While in general the hair is more closely clipped, the trend is toward an addition of hair for formal and evening appearances. A strand of hair is taken at full length, which the end turned underneath to create this effect.

With the hair cut close to the head in the back, an unusual line is given when the hair from the side is rolled up over the ears and forms a V at the nape of the neck.

Three curls at one side is a new form of dressing which appeals to the younger set and which is very smart for evening wardrobes.

Jewelry which is correct or incorrect may make or mar a coiffure. When the hair is worn simply and parted in the center, with but a few carefully trained strands at the cheekbone, the earring, which is selected with care and is of long lines and intricate design, lends the last note of chic to the headpiece.

A rope of pearls, cleverly entwined, is charming in the youthful coiffure of curls and puffs, while it is most effective in boyishly bobbed and trimly outlined hair.

In general, the hair without ornament is smartest. The lines of the hair should be sufficient to make a chic and elegant appearance.

Blanche Sweet, who does such splendid work in her latest First National picture, "The New Commandment," is wearing her hair in a new and most becoming coiffure. Simplicity and beauty have been combined most effectively in the daytime appearance of Miss Sweet's coiffure, while for evening a few simple twists manage to transform the head in more fitting lines of beauty and softness.

absolutely basic to our success, both individually and as a community.

"Health is as basic as roads. It is as basic as education and as basic as agricultural success and courts. It is as basic as government itself. Health touches every one of us. Why shouldn't we be willing to pay for health? Think what it would be like if every member of our community were well and peppy all the time."

MOOSE HAS LIKING FOR CURTAINS OF HUNTERS' AUTO

Tuesday, Hobart Durbin and Dan Fiske, his guest from Oregon, Utah, had a most exparting experience, says the Port Umpqua Courier. They started out hunting for Tabernash Lake. After arriving at the hunting field, they went a way from the car, leaving it parked. They had been away about five minutes and returned for their guns, when they were startled by the sight of one of the Moose, pets of the game commission, poking its horns through the top of the car and eating the curtains. They tried every conceivable trick to distract the Moose's attention from his feast, but to no avail. They now realize their error in not bringing an apple along. It is customary for Fred Scheeling, when passing through that section with his car to take an apple along. When the Moose puts in an appearance, he feeds it the apple and is permitted to go unmolesed. Mr. Durbin's regret was his inability to prevent such wanton destruction of his property.

CLAUDE WISE IS AGAIN IN JAIL ON BOOZE CHARGE

Claude Wise, of Tionola, who has frequently been in the courts of the county to answer to charges of violating the prohibition laws, was arrested again on Saturday night at Astoria and is now in the county jail, charged with drunkenness. Wise was arrested during the summer, and was given a 30-day jail sentence. When brought to Roseburg he asked to be allowed to work on the road gang, but first sought permission to go to a barber shop for a shave and haircut. He was taken through the back door and disappeared. He claims that he went to Portland and then returned to Cottage Grove. He appeared at the Astoria place on Saturday night and was placed under arrest by Deputy Sheriff Daugherty. He still has his 30 days to serve on his previous sentence in addition to the penalty that will be imposed if he is found guilty of another offense as charged.

POLICE DOUBT STORY OF WOUNDED FARMHAND

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 14.—O. Sherman Edgington, 29, a farm hand, employed near Linnton, was brought to a hospital here with a wound in his side and told officers he had been shot by an unknown assailant. He also said he had been attacked three weeks ago and that on Wednesday of this week he had received a note ordering him to leave the country. Officers who questioned Edgington discovered that there was no bullet hole in his underwear at the spot where the bullet entered his side, and finally announced their belief that Edgington had shot himself.
