EX-KAISER LIVES IN ATMOSPHERE OF FORMER GRANDEUR

(Associated Press Leased Wire.) LONDON, Nov. 19.—Doorn House in Holland, where former Emperor William of Germany has his abode, may not be a palace, but nevertheless it is beautifully furnished and withal, it smacks of the regal. The one time ruler of Germany does not suggest the weary exile, pining to return to his home land. Notwithstanding his white beard, which becomes him well, he looks younger than he did in 1913, a year before the commencement of the World war, which culminated in his undoing.

This is what Alexander Montgomer Carlyle, an old time friend, who has paid a visit to Doorn House, has to say of William II. Mr. Carlyle said he stands erect, talks vivaciously and retains his old dignity and bearing. In his exile William continues to wear his showy uniforms and decorations, and there is much of the old Potsdam regularity at Doorn House. Age has mellowed him somewhat and there appeared a tendency on his part to forget the bitterness of the World war. It seemed natural, as his visitor was an Englishman, that William in his talk mostly referred to England, for he said he always had friendly feelings.

Blames Lawyers For War. "I am confident," William told Mr. Carlyle "that if honest diplomacy had been used, and if certain members of the British cabinet had visited Berlin before the war, things would have been very different. To some extent it was a war of lawyers, and I always have disliked the lawyer."

Then referring to Great Britain's outlook, the former kaiser said: "Her future is terribly insecure; her financial burden would appear to be intolerable. She has to pay untold millions to the United States each year, while her allies are not paying her their debts."

Mr. Carlyle described Princess Hermine, the wife of William II, who was magnificently gowned when he saw her, as a charming woman and devoted to her husband. He said the two daughters of the princess were splendid children and that the former emperor was most happy in the company of Hermine and the girls.

All the staff of William II at Doorn House wear full uniforms. His lord chamberlain was even more dignified than the days at Potsdam before the war.

STARKEY AND TRAMBITAS BATTLE 10-ROUND DRAW

(Associated Press Leased Wire.) KLAMATH FALLS, Ore., Nov. 19.—Kid Starkey of Klamath Falls and Johnnie Trambitas of Portland, lightweights, went 10 rounds to a draw here last night. The decision of the judges was unpopular as a majority of the fans thought Trambitas had a slight shade. In a furious six-round semi-wind-up, Wilbur Harrington, Klamath Indian, outpointed Jack Crim, Modoc Indian. The boys are lightweights. Substituting for Bobby Allen, an Indian, "Dummy" Poole, Weed welter, fought a slashing draw with Tommy Murphy of San Francisco.

COOLIDGE OFF FOR NEW YORK TO DELIVER SPEECH

(Associated Press Leased Wire.) WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—President Coolidge left Washington early today for New York, where tonight he will address the New York State Chamber of Commerce. The party included Secretary Sanders, Frank W. Stearns, Dwight W. Morrow, chairman of the President's air board, George Harvey, former ambassador to Great Britain, Major James F. Coupal, the military and naval aides. Colonel Harvey's name was not among those originally announced as members of the party. The President had received no late word today from the bedside of his father, who is ill at Plymouth, Vt. He was prepared to go to Plymouth if necessary.

TO ONE IN DEATHLESS LIFE.

The following poem by Alden Harness, which was written for a gentleman who furnished the theme, appeared in the November issue of The Realty Magazine.

I read in mystic and immortal light Which shines before me in the darkness here, That thou hast passed with death beyond the night And I shall meet thee on another sphere.

My soul has shown me death cannot remove A single tie that binds thy life to mine. In boundless and eternal lands above, Dear girl, forever shall my heart be thine.

When I shall reach the shores I now discern No more shall limitations fetter me, Attaining Cosmic Forces, I shall learn To leave my body and ascend to thee.

Above a thousand million worlds afar On wings of thought my unseen self shall rise, Till I shall gain some undiscovered star Which wheels through endless depths of unknown skies.

Then I shall seek and find thee in that land Eternal Truth has made forever free. The deep soul-love which I shall understand, Whilst I am there, thou shalt unfold to me.

When I shall know the perfect laws which guide And ever fill the universe with light, I shall return to earth and there abide In knowledge that shall mold my life aright.

I know, as over matter I prevail, That thou wilt aid me on this plane below. The mountains of obstruction I shall scale, And to reality my dream shall grow.

No longer am I bound by grief and strife: In meditation I have found release. Thy holy thoughts have reached my earthly life; Thy love sustains me and has brought me peace.

AGED FATHER OF COOLIDGE LOSING FIGHT WITH ILLS

(Associated Press Leased Wire.) PLYMOUTH, Vt., Nov. 19.—Colonel John C. Coolidge, father of the President, has lost ground in his fight against "heart block" and bladder trouble.

Dr. Albert M. Cram, who last night admitted that his patient had failed slightly, hopes that the suggested consultation which aided Colonel Coolidge to quick recovery after an operation last June will again stand him in good stead. Major James F. Coupal, presidential physician, who came to Plymouth in connection with the earlier illness of the 82-year-old patient, is keeping in touch with Dr. Cram.

The guard that watches the road that leads to the porch of the quaint old farm house has been kept busy answering anxious questions, but to all except those whose ailments are urgent, he refuses admission. There will be no departure from this procedure until Mr.
