SUNDAY AT THE CHURCHES

Church of Christ — of Myrtle Creek. Rainy weather and warm blankets caused old man slump to appear last Sunday morning, but this coming Sunday let us all try to reach our goal of 100. And remember, "IT PAYS TO GO TO SUNDAY SCHOOL!" At the regular preaching hour there is to be a program that is different from the regular routine program. The young people are to have charge of the service. They will lead the singing, have charge of the offering and will preach the sermon. Three of the young ladies of the church will deliver a three fold sermon on the subject of, "God's Great Desires." This will be a message worth hearing. Bring your friends and come to this service. The young folks will give you something worth while. You can't afford to miss it. The Christian Endeavor at 6:30. The C. E. is keeping up fine and let all the young people continue to show their loyalty to the program of the society and the church program as well. The sermon in the evening will be on the subject, "The Fall of Man." It should be heard by all. Bring your neighbor and come.
LUKE ELLIOTT, Minister.

International Bible Students Association — Bible Study at the Moose Hall, Sunday at 10:30 a. m. The subjects for study Sunday will be "The Necessity for the Atonement—The Curse." And There Shall Be No More Curse—Rev. 22:3. What is implied by this statement of Scripture. All interested in Bible Study are cordially invited to come and study with us.

Catholic Church — Kane and Oak streets. Rev. B. Clery, Pastor. November 22nd. Mass and Sermon at 8:00 a. m. Catechism Classes at 9:45 a. m. High Mass and Sermon at 10:30 a. m. Rosary and Benediction of the M. B. S. in the evening at 7:30.

First Methodist Church—Corner of Main and Lane streets. Rev. Joseph Knotts, pastor. A parent's duty is not fulfilled until the parent has shown a real interest in the spiritual development of the child. The best way to do that is to come with your children to Sunday School and stay for church. Regular attendance is a great help to efficiency. Come Sunday morning at 9:45. The Junior League meets at 3 p. m. The Senior Epworth League meets at 7:30. The morning sermon theme is "Our Neighbors." This is a special sermon preached by the request of the ladies of the W. H. M. S. The evening sermon theme is "Drifters." Do not miss hearing these sermons. Good music by the choir. A cordial invitation is extended to all, particularly strangers.

Methodist Church, South — C. S. Coberly, pastor. Sunday school at 9:45 a. m. W. L. Cobb, Supt. Preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Wednesday evening prayer meeting at 7:30. Senior Epworth League's devotional meeting at 6:30 p. m., led by Miss Valma Poe. Junior League Sunday afternoon, 2:30. The public is cordially invited to worship with us.

The First Baptist Church — Corner of Lane and Rose streets; H. L. Caldwell, Minister. 9:45 a. m. The Church School; Carlos Page, Supt. This service is the church in a teaching and character building function. Are you doing your part in this work by being present and assisting your children or other people's children to receive this unmeasured benefit? If not, begin now. You are invited to be in this splendid school, 11:00 a. m. Morning worship. A Thanksgiving Message by the pastor. Two special Thanksgiving numbers by the choir. Orchestra. A welcome to the public. 6:30 p. m. Young People's Meetings. Three societies: Senior, Intermediate and Juniors. A place for every young person to express themselves in activity for Christ. An invitation to all young people. 7:30 p. m. Evening Service. Message by the pastor on "The Lure of Goodness versus The Lure of Evil." It is a message that young people especially will be glad to hear. Music by the choir and orchestra. A quartet will be featured in the service of music. You will enjoy the music and the message. Invite your friends. The public is always invited.

First Christian Church—There will be great services at the church on Sunday. We are counting on a big Bible School. Be sure to be in your place next Sunday. We have been having some great services. Have you attended any yet? Evangelist Kellens will bring to you the gospel message on the Lord's Day. Let's crowd the church to the gutter and pray for a great harvest. You will enjoy the singing of Mr. Fildew. Come morning and evening. Remember we start at 9:45.
H. E. MOW.

Bible Standard — Rev. L. E. Burrow, pastor. Have you been attending the services at the big tent on Rose street? If you have not, you have been missing something good and you had better plan to attend some of these good

The Origin and Operation of SKAGGS Stores

From the beginning of this explanation of the essentially cooperative plan of operation that has made the phenomenal growth of Skaggs stores possible it must be clearly understood that this concern does not and never has posed as a philanthropic institution. Perhaps, because of early influences, the executive heads have been possessed of a more than ordinary deep sense of justice and fair play toward their associates and the public, and these, in turn, may have inspired many of the seemingly revolutionary policies that have been put into practice. But these policies have only been made operative after it had been determined that they would prove sound. It may seem a cynical thing to say, but it is a scientific fact that practically everything anyone does is based on his conception of self-interest or self-gratification. And this applies to our noblest as well as to our meanest actions. We do the things which we consciously or subconsciously believe will satisfy our spiritual or material desires. This is as it should be and upon a little thought will be seen to harmonize perfectly with the loftiest teachings and the most altruistic ambitions. Even unselfishness is selfish.

Therefore, when our men work overtime they do so because it is distinctly to their own personal advantage as well as from a sense of loyalty to the organization and the enjoyment they get out of their work. And the organization, in turn, has made it possible for the individual to profit from extra effort, not only from a sense of justice and fairness, but also as a means of insuring its own successful operation.

Ofentimes the things which we do as a means of satisfying our own sense of fairness will react unexpectedly, to our own material advantage and it will be found that we have accidentally uncovered a principle which, if intelligently applied will solve many of our most serious problems. Such a thing happened with the opening of the second Skaggs store.

When the second store was opened it became necessary to employ someone to operate it and the owner of both stores—believing earnestly in the principle that every man is entitled to share in the profits he helps to create and desiring, sincerely, to provide the new man with every opportunity and incentive—hit upon the plan of paying the manager of the new store a nominal salary plus 10 per cent of the net profits of his store, such share of the net profits to be paid every three months.

It should be made clear that the plan of compensation decided upon for the first Skaggs manager resulted, primarily, from the owner's desire to be absolutely fair with his associate. However, it was also obvious that such an arrangement would make the manager's personal earnings dependent, to a large extent, upon his own effort, intelligence and efficiency and tend to insure his enthusiastic cooperation in the methods which the success of the first Skaggs store had demonstrated to be fundamentally correct.

That this plan of sharing the profits with the men who helped to earn them was the result of a more or less idealistic impulse did not, in the least, detract from its practical value both to employer and employee, and its emotional and educational to the present time constitutes one of the most important foundation stones upon which this vast organization rests. The spirit which it exemplifies has attracted to us the highest type of men and women to be found in any similar business in the world, but for whose loyalty, interest and intelligence it would be impossible for us to successfully operate our more than 300 widely scattered stores.
