

ROSEBURG NEWS-REVIEW

Member of The Associated Press. The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to the use for republication of all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise credited to this paper and to all local news published here. All rights of publication of special dispatches herein are also reserved.

Entered as second class matter May 17, 1920, at the post office at Roseburg, Oregon, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Subscription Rates: Daily, per year, by mail $4.00; Daily, six months, by mail $2.00; Daily, three months, by mail $1.00; Daily, single month, by mail .50; Daily, by carrier, per month .50; Weekly News-Review, by mail, per year 2.00.

ROSEBURG, OREGON, SATURDAY, NOV. 21, 1925.

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE.

During the recent observance of National Education Week, the people were constantly told that they must help promote educational progress. But many of them do not know of any special thing they can attempt for the benefit of the schools, much as they would like to do something.

It was refreshing to note the attitude of President Calvin Coolidge in his address to New York business men Thursday night, when reference was made to government interference with legitimate channels of private business.

The agricultural economic conference, just closed in this city, was of paramount importance to the agricultural interests of the county and it is to be hoped that all those who took advantage of the session will be more than repaid for their efforts.

Immediately after the holidays—starting January 2, 1926—state candidates will be ushered into the arena for a diagnosis in reference to their ability as subjects for the primary election.

Pretty soon, when you drive your car to Portland, it will be necessary to park the vehicle somewhere away out in the tall timber.

"It's a wise boy that knows his own father." And it's a wise old dad that has made the acquaintance of his own son since the advent of automobiles, gasoline and paved highways.

Down at Medford the other day a still operator was given five years for his activities in making and dispensing moonshine. This sentence ought to give a thrill to a lot of imitators, who sooner or later will appear before the bar of justice for a like offense.

The Grangers in session at their national convention held at Sacramento, Calif., have gone on record favoring a $500 tax yearly on all aliens engaged in business in this country.

One finding we are glad to note concerning the unearthing of King Tut's body. There will be no "gnawing of bones." The "stuck 'em" used three thousand years ago still holds good.

"Tickle babies to make them strong," is the edict of a baby specialist. Another new job for a new daddy.

This old world seems to be a give and take game—with the taker taking all he can get.

PRUNE PICKIN'S BEAUTY CHATS

BY BERT G. BATES THE ARMS AGAIN

GOOD EVENING FOLKS—While the writer waits absent from the Village the other day. They christened Finlay Field. And they're still soppin' Up the blood of the Martyrs arena. The saddest arena.

DUMBLELL DORA THINKS All panhandlers come from Texas.

Women learn to swim sooner than men because the men have to teach themselves.

Men's trousers seldom bag at the knees and the pockets at the same time.

The reason that many don't have great minds is that we can't make 'em up.

Saint Peter stood at the pearly gates. The candidates crowded around. Said one, "Now when I was in college—"

And Saint Peter smacked him down.

"You say the prisoner was very much interested in the jury's verdict?"

"Yes, why he actually hung on their words!"

"I'll give you just three days to pay your rent."

"All right, I'll take Christmas, Easter and Fourth of July."

Many a married man knows what a tedious job it is to carry the heir male at night.

A bunch of Californians were whooping it up. A girl shyly remarked to one of her sisters: "That bunch of prunes is raisin' cane again."

Most of the world's big jobs are handled by men who don't know what kind of a tie is becoming to them.

There is a man in town who hangs a quarantine sign on the front of his house the first of every month and hasn't been interviewed by a bill collector in three years.

A lot of otherwise pleasant people never seem to buy any of their own matches.

One nice thing about having a grouchy husband is a woman doesn't mind when he has to work late.

We learn from a trade association that 2,500,000 men in America are now wearing silk underwear, proving among other things that there's darn little privacy left in this country.

Cheer up, you dyes. Some day the bootleggers may have to drink the same kind of stuff they sell.

Quar that a man should take up a life of crime when there are so many legal ways to be dishonest.

One of the best drawing instruments going is a corkcraw.

"Growing old" is just a slow process of shedding enthusiasm.

We have two electric light plants at half price. Whattoo Bros.

DEATH CAR DRIVER FACING CHARGE OF HAVING BEEN DRUNK

(Associated Press Local Wire.) KLAMATH FALLS, Ore., Nov. 21.—Deo Jackson, Indian youth who is alleged to have driven the auto in which Mabel Lawver was instantly killed Thursday evening, was ordered held to the grand jury on a charge of driving while intoxicated in the report of a coroner's jury last night.

Other occupants of the car testified that Jackson was driving, while Sheriff's deputies declared the youth was under the influence of liquor when they reached the scene of the fatality.

Poultry tonic and sprays at Wharton Bros.

DAILY WEATHER REPORT

U. S. Weather Bureau, local office, Roseburg, Oregon, 24 hours ending 5 a. m.

Precipitation in ins. & Hundredths Highest temperature yesterday 47

Lowest temperature yesterday 46

Precipitation last 24 hours 0

Total precip. since last month 2.94

Normal precip. for this month 4.37

Total precip. from Sept. 1, 1925, to date 5.35

Average precip. from Sept. 1, 1925 6.65

Total deficiency from Sept. 1, 1925 1.30

Average precipitation for 46 wet seasons, (September to May inclusive) 31.48

Fair tonight and Sunday, frost tonight.

WM. BELL, Meteorologist.

Are your arms graceful? The best shaped arms in the world will not show their beauty if they are not gracefully used whereas arms, ugly in themselves, will seem beautiful if the woman knows how to manage them.

Don't ever lean with your elbows on your knees, no one could look beautiful that way. Don't sit with your hands and arms. Don't carry your arms stiffly.

Don't fold your arms with the hands tucked under the elbows. This is a trying position for anyone. Your arms cannot look badly when you are sitting idly, if your hands lie clasped in your lap, or along the arms of a chair.

Miss Sue B. C.—Basketball was originally a boys' game, but now it is played even more by girls than by boys. Mrs. J. H. L.—It is best not to form the habit of using depilatories as they merely act as a shave, and the hair will grow in again coarser than formerly.

The conspicuous hairs can be extracted with tweezers, and the finer hair rarely disfigures. Most women who are troubled with superfluous hair rid themselves of it in this way when-ever it becomes noticeable.

Extreme cases will require professional treatments to destroy the life of the hair in the follicle. Tomorrow—Answered Letters.

Efficient Housekeeping

BY Laura A. Kirkman FURNISHING THE APARTMENT

port—even if they couldn't afford them! So they had these two pieces first. The brown mahogany buffet cost them $65, and the rattan sofa with tapestry back and seat, automobile springs) cost them $75.

Their next purchase was a three-foot-wide iron bedstead for the mother, enameled gray and costing $24.75; its separate spring cost $8 and its mattress $13.50. The daughter felt that she could get along with a three-foot-wide iron divan couch-bed (springs attached) which cost $12; the mattress for this bed was also $11.

Although they were buying their furniture on the budget basis, ($25 each month), they decided to keep the total within $400. With the pieces mentioned above, they had now spent $208.25. How were they to spend the remainder?

Of course they had to have a dining table and at least three straight chairs. They found a brown-mahogany gate-leg table at $50 and three chairs each at $8. That brought the total up to $282.35. A living room rug cost them $12 and two rattan arm chairs $12 each—making the total now $318.25.

With the remainder they bought a small living room center table, a cheap dining room rug, a plant stand or two (how a potted fern does help out in a sparsely-furnished room) and some rag rugs and a bureau for the bedroom. They already owned bedding and kitchen utensils. The gas range came with the kitchen. This is how one little family managed to furnish their apartment.

Even Grangers Desert. It must have been rather embarrassing to Governor Walter M. Pierce last week when farmers from the Cloverdale and Sisters section left the hall as he rose to speak at the Deschutes county Pomona grange meeting.

The withdrawal of the grangers was a protest against the governor's policy of pardoning criminals, exemplified when he freed Jack Weston, murderer of Robert H. Krug.

It must have been a deep seated feeling which prompted the grangers' action. Pierce, the governor of their state, was their guest. He was there on invitation. Members of the order knew he was to be there. Yet, such was their antagonism that instead of merely staying away from the meeting which he was to attend, they seized the opportunity of offering him a deliberate affront.

The farmers who left the hall last Saturday knew Krug; they knew Weston, too. They objected seriously to the governor casting himself in the role of partisan judge after three impartial juries have returned verdicts of guilty. What is more to the point, these grangers who left the hall know Governor Pierce. A very few years ago they helped elect him. They thought they knew him then. Their withdrawal Saturday may be symbolic of what will happen when Pierce's former supporters go to the polls to pick Oregon's next executive.

With such a possibility the incident at the Pomona grange meeting should be so ably embarrassing to the governor. — Bend Bulletin.

The latest in photo frame Colonial panel mirror. Clark's Studio, Clatsop St.

Feed grinders in all sizes at Wharton Bros. Special prices on tractor size.

God could not be everywhere; therefore He made mothers.— Jewish Proverb.

FRESH AIR FOR BABIES—A constant supply of fresh air is one of the most important things to keep a baby healthy and resistant to colds and other infections. It is just as important as the proper food.

During the spring, summer, and fall, most mothers realize the importance of fresh air and the babies do not suffer for need of it, but during the winter, especially in the localities where it is very cold, I know that many of you are afraid that if you have good ventilation, the babies will take cold; and you allow the air in the home to become stuffy and impure, not realizing that impure air itself is a big factor in lowering resistance to colds. So you defeat your purpose.

In extremely cold weather it is not necessary to have the windows wide open. There is such a difference between the temperatures of the air outside and that indoors that a small opening, top and bottom, will keep the room ventilated. A good window ventilator is a board six inches wide, fitted in under the lower sash. This leaves a space between the upper and lower window for the air to come in. Another method is to have a framework covered with five or six layers of cheese cloth, to put in under the lower sash.

If it is extremely cold and you cannot have the windows open a little all of the time, then open them every two or three hours for a little while so that all the air in the room is completely changed. Be sure that you all, especially the babies, are protected by extra clothing while you are doing this. It is a common mistake to overheated living rooms and nurseries, and babies especially suffer from this. We all sleep better in the cold air. If living in a steam heated apartment, the steam should be turned off at night. The babies' rooms, however, should not be allowed to get below the zero point.

The outdoor airing is just as necessary in the winter-time as in the summertime, and unless it is very windy or stormy otherwise the babies should be taken out daily at the warmest part of the day. All babies over a month old should have a daily outdoor airing, unless the weather is too severe. When it is too cold or stormy to be out, the children should be dressed just as though they were going out and placed near enough to an open window so that they get the fresh air. Do not let the sun shine directly on the babies.

Thanksgiving Sale Of DINING SERVICE

Dining Furniture 8-Piece Combination American Walnut Dining Suite at the Special Price of $108.00 Italian Pattern

8-Piece Combination American Walnut Dining Suite Regular $221.00, at the Special Price of $176.00

Library Extension Tables Either Combination American Walnut or Combination Mahogany. Regular $23.75. Special $18.00

These dining suites are not cheap woods finished in Walnut and Mahogany, but are the genuine woods used in the exposed places and a cheaper wood used for core stock.

McKean, Darby & Baldwin Complete House Furnishers Roseburg, Oregon

State Press Comment

Vote Or Answer. If the people of Oregon lived in Australia and failed to vote, they would have to answer to their government for the failure. A law to that effect has just been passed in the Antipodes. It is the first compulsory voting act ever adopted by a nation.

For several years Australians have operated under a compulsory enrollment act. It has not come up to expectations. But in spite of it, the system has gone on to its logical conclusion by requiring every adult citizen to vote.

In theory, at least, the Australian system is correct. Every citizen should take advantage of his boyhood right. Every citizen should meet his obligations of citizenship. Otherwise, he is taking no part in his government and may some day find himself oppressed as a result of his own negligence.

Again, however, it would do no good for a man to vote who knew nothing about what he was voting on. Voters who are led by a sign or hurrah instead of knowing what they are voting for and why, are at least an equal danger with the man who does not vote at all.

A compulsory voting law likely would encourage citizens to study their government and the man who administers it. Such a statute would likely result in greater interest in governmental matters. In that event, it would prove highly desirable. Otherwise, it would be a dud. — Portland Journal.

Even Grangers Desert. It must have been rather embarrassing to Governor Walter M. Pierce last week when farmers from the Cloverdale and Sisters section left the hall as he rose to speak at the Deschutes county Pomona grange meeting.

The withdrawal of the grangers was a protest against the governor's policy of pardoning criminals, exemplified when he freed Jack Weston, murderer of Robert H. Krug.

It must have been a deep seated feeling which prompted the grangers' action. Pierce, the governor of their state, was their guest. He was there on invitation. Members of the order knew he was to be there. Yet, such was their antagonism that instead of merely staying away from the meeting which he was to attend, they seized the opportunity of offering him a deliberate affront.

The farmers who left the hall last Saturday knew Krug; they knew Weston, too. They objected seriously to the governor casting himself in the role of partisan judge after three impartial juries have returned verdicts of guilty. What is more to the point, these grangers who left the hall know Governor Pierce. A very few years ago they helped elect him. They thought they knew him then. Their withdrawal Saturday may be symbolic of what will happen when Pierce's former supporters go to the polls to pick Oregon's next executive.

With such a possibility the incident at the Pomona grange meeting should be so ably embarrassing to the governor. — Bend Bulletin.

The latest in photo frame Colonial panel mirror. Clark's Studio, Clatsop St.

Feed grinders in all sizes at Wharton Bros. Special prices on tractor size.

God could not be everywhere; therefore He made mothers.— Jewish Proverb.

FRESH AIR FOR BABIES—A constant supply of fresh air is one of the most important things to keep a baby healthy and resistant to colds and other infections. It is just as important as the proper food.

During the spring, summer, and fall, most mothers realize the importance of fresh air and the babies do not suffer for need of it, but during the winter, especially in the localities where it is very cold, I know that many of you are afraid that if you have good ventilation, the babies will take cold; and you allow the air in the home to become stuffy and impure, not realizing that impure air itself is a big factor in lowering resistance to colds. So you defeat your purpose.

In extremely cold weather it is not necessary to have the windows wide open. There is such a difference between the temperatures of the air outside and that indoors that a small opening, top and bottom, will keep the room ventilated. A good window ventilator is a board six inches wide, fitted in under the lower sash. This leaves a space between the upper and lower window for the air to come in. Another method is to have a framework covered with five or six layers of cheese cloth, to put in under the lower sash.

AROUND THE COUNTY

GLENGARY NOTES

We are certainly thankful for the sunshine after the rain of the past week. We have so many things to be thankful for and we should take time to count our many blessings and thank the Giver of all good things.

The Glengary Sunday school is doing very well, there were twenty-eight present last Sunday. Mrs. Frank Wilson of Klamath Falls, is visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. McGehee.

Mr. and Mrs. John Betts and son, Frank, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Groves. The Glengary W. C. T. U. gave a chicken dinner Armistice Day and cleared over fifty dollars. The money will be used for W. C. T. U. work and Children's Farm Home.

Clinton McGehee has returned home after spending several months with his sister, Mrs. Frank Wilson near Klamath Falls, Ore. Mrs. Paul Spain's sister is visiting her for a few weeks.

Mrs. T. P. Caries is able to be up and walk around with the aid of a cane. C. W. Groves has been courting the past week.

The parents who attended high school Monday night enjoyed school life again very much. School did not last long enough. Hope it will be Educational Week again soon.

The Glengary P. T. A. will meet next Friday evening, November 20. A contest for new members has been going on for the past month between the boys and girls of the school. Contest closes Friday noon. We hope every parent in the district will be a member.

The Glengary W. C. T. U. met at the home of Mrs. E. D. Lewis Wednesday afternoon. It was decided to pay our budget for this year and part of the amount for co-work. After the business meeting refreshments were served by the hostesses Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Krug.

It must have been a deep seated feeling which prompted the grangers' action. Pierce, the governor of their state, was their guest. He was there on invitation. Members of the order knew he was to be there. Yet, such was their antagonism that instead of merely staying away from the meeting which he was to attend, they seized the opportunity of offering him a deliberate affront.

The farmers who left the hall last Saturday knew Krug; they knew Weston, too. They objected seriously to the governor casting himself in the role of partisan judge after three impartial juries have returned verdicts of guilty. What is more to the point, these grangers who left the hall know Governor Pierce. A very few years ago they helped elect him. They thought they knew him then. Their withdrawal Saturday may be symbolic of what will happen when Pierce's former supporters go to the polls to pick Oregon's next executive.

With such a possibility the incident at the Pomona grange meeting should be so ably embarrassing to the governor. — Bend Bulletin.

The latest in photo frame Colonial panel mirror. Clark's Studio, Clatsop St.

Feed grinders in all sizes at Wharton Bros. Special prices on tractor size.

God could not be everywhere; therefore He made mothers.— Jewish Proverb.

FRESH AIR FOR BABIES—A constant supply of fresh air is one of the most important things to keep a baby healthy and resistant to colds and other infections. It is just as important as the proper food.

During the spring, summer, and fall, most mothers realize the importance of fresh air and the babies do not suffer for need of it, but during the winter, especially in the localities where it is very cold, I know that many of you are afraid that if you have good ventilation, the babies will take cold; and you allow the air in the home to become stuffy and impure, not realizing that impure air itself is a big factor in lowering resistance to colds. So you defeat your purpose.

In extremely cold weather it is not necessary to have the windows wide open. There is such a difference between the temperatures of the air outside and that indoors that a small opening, top and bottom, will keep the room ventilated. A good window ventilator is a board six inches wide, fitted in under the lower sash. This leaves a space between the upper and lower window for the air to come in. Another method is to have a framework covered with five or six layers of cheese cloth, to put in under the lower sash.

36-piece English Dinner Set, regular $22.50, Special $14.95

39-piece English Dinner Set, regular $21.50, Special $15.00

21-piece Nippon Tea Sets at a saving of 20%

21-piece English Tea Sets, at $11.50

10% discount on all open stock Dinner Ware from Saturday, Nov. 21 to Saturday, Nov. 28.

Several close out patterns at half price. Wm. Rogers and Sons, 26-piece sets of Silverware, carrying an unlimited guarantee. Former price $31.00, Special $13.50

A SUBSCRIBER'S RIDDLE NEWS

D. S. Beals returned the first of the week from a two weeks' stay at Camp Lewis.

George Rhodes, signal maintainer on the S. P., spent Sunday visiting his mother here. He was accompanied by his wife and baby.

Mrs. Jacoby and son Lester, of Jasper, have been visiting at the home of Mrs. Elsie Logsdon this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Amos Cripps returned Tuesday from Portland where they have been visiting their daughter, Mrs. John Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Sletler are the proud parents of a baby daughter, born Nov. 15th. She has been named Dorothy Ruth.

The funeral of Mrs. L. Le Jacques who died at the Albany hospital, was held here Wednesday morning.

The Riddle school gave a patriotic program at the Guild Hall, Wednesday evening as part of the program of education week. An address by Dr. E. B. Stewart and a short talk by John Flurry of Roseburg, were much appreciated by the audience. At the close of the program a parent-teacher association was organized and the following officers elected: Mr. Eldier, president; Mrs. H. Horton, vice-president; Miss Alma Kullander, secretary-treasurer.

Miss Helena Riddle entertained the Thimble Club at her home on Thursday last. The rooms were dressed by Mrs. E. B. Stewart and bright with bowls of Barbe chrysanthemums. Light refreshments were served at the close of the afternoon. Present were Mesdames C. F. Sowersby, O. Houser, H. H. Crow, G. L. Grant, Ernest Riddle, Geo. Aikins, O. V. Logsdon, Ed Hart, Jess Lawrence, O. L. Willis, Ofsedal, P. W. Diddel, W. L. Nichols and Mrs. Lena Froggatt of Portland. X. X.

Rippling Rhymes by Walt Mason

HANDY DISEASES. Hungry, seeking wholesome dishes, came the hobo through the dew; "I would earn some loaves and fishes and a stoup of Volstead brew. Food," he said, "has little savor if not earned in honest sweat, and I ask no gift or favor, I will work for all I get." There's a woodpile, I assure him, stacks of upas, elm and pine, and I gladly would procure him saw and ax and wedges nine. "I've diseases which prohibit labor of that sort," he snapped; "I would be fatal as the gibbet to a man thus handicapped." "Well," I said, "the lawn needs mowing, there's a mower in the shed; hump yourself and make a showing, then you'll have some kraut and bread." "Asking bread and getting boulders is my luck," the bo replied; "I have stitches in my shoulders, I have fantods in my side. 'Mow no grass in your condition,' by the doctors I was told, 'or the grim and gaunt mortician will implant you in the mould.' "It is always thus," I muttered, "it's an ancient musty game; you would have a scone that's buttered, but you will not earn the same. Nothing suits you, nothing pleases, that requires some strength and vim; you've prohibitive diseases in your wishbone or your limb. Should my Gollar watch need winding, you'd do that to earn a pie, but the job that's stern and grinding you forevermore pass by."