BEND IS ENJOINED FROM CONTRACTING FOR WATER SYSTEM

(Associated Press Local Wire.) BEND, Ore., Nov. 21.—A temporary injunction prohibiting the city of Bend from letting a contract for a Tumalo pipe line was granted late yesterday afternoon by Circuit Judge Duffy on petition of N. P. Smith, local hardware merchant and taxpayer.

Smith, who is said to be one of a group of 25 taxpayers who are backing an attempt to block the Tumalo water deal, contends in his complaint that since the city has no possible source of water where it proposes to contract for the erection of a pipe line, such a pipe line would be idle and be an expense to the city of which he is a taxpayer, the complaint recites.

MINING CASE IS HEARD BEFORE JUDGE HAMILTON

An interesting case was heard in circuit court this morning before Circuit Judge Hamilton, the case involving mining property in the Silver Peak district. The question at issue is whether or not the holders of a mining patent have the right to carry their development of a lode running under a patented timber and stone claim.

The case is that of J. E. Reeves against the Oregon Exploration company, and it appears that Mr. Reeves obtained a timber and stone patent on a piece of land and that the mining company took up a claim adjoining.

The exploration company in developing their holdings discovered that the vein ran underneath Mr. Reeves claim, but as he had timber and stone patent the mining company maintains that they have a right to the mineral claim. Reeves holds that complete title reverted to him by right of his patent and that no further patent can be given.

Mr. Reeves is represented by Attorney James O. Medford and Dexter Rice, J. O. Watson, of Roseburg, and Morris Leehey of Seattle, appear as attorneys for the defense.

TURKEY PRICES TODAY

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 21.—Turkey arrivals in the local market today were very disappointing to the jobbers but they are hoping for large shipments in tomorrow and Monday. They will be open all day today, ununpacking and grading stocks.

Although the market is very firm today with prime dressed birds strong at 43 cents, dealers are doing everything they can to avoid a panic market. They are looking for a lighter demand this year on account of the high prices and they believe that there will be plenty of birds to fill this demand.

The last of the shipping orders are being filled today, although some of the firms are still short of turkeys and are not going out on the street to buy birds to fill orders. One firm is not taking any local orders fearing that they are already oversold.

RHINELANDER MAY PAY HUGE SUM TO SQUELCH LETTERS

(Associated Press Local Wire.) WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 21.—Despite persistent reports that the Rhinelander annulment suit will be settled out of court, Isaac N. Mills, counsel for Leonard Kip Rhinelander, the wealthy young plaintiff, said definitely that the case will continue.

"I am in complete control of this case," he said. "It will continue. There have been no negotiations for a settlement. A statement will be in court on Monday morning."

It was the introduction of two "mystery" letters written by Leonard to his negro bride, Alice Beatrice Jones that caused yesterday's adjournment of the case until Monday to give counsel for Rhinelander an opportunity to investigate them. The letters admittedly contain sensational matter and their contents apparently had not been known to Rhinelander's attorneys until Lee Parsons Davis, counsel for Alice, revealed them privately.

It is privately reported that rather than have the letters made public young Rhinelander will withdraw the suit. Reports have been circulated that a settlement will be made ranging from $50,000 to $200,000, but confirmation is lacking.

In the bazaars the merchants, the Greek "kuskus" sellers, the coffee vendors, the peddlers of water, the bootblacks in their French "berets", and the little black newboys, naked except for white trousers, carrying their bundles of "Echoes d'Oran", and scuttling out of the way of huge, clumsy wagons piled high with purple stained casks of Algerian wine.

It is against such a background that Miss Swanson, as Carmelia, and Ben Lyon, young American recruit in the Legion, carry on one of the most delightful romances that has ever reached the screen.
