Seizing the golden opportunity of the tempting season of fall, which in itself is an inspiration and delight, numerous smart hostesses are filling the days with a seemingly endless series of luncheon and bridge afternoons.

Thanksgiving will add an interesting excitement to the events of next week, the motif of which will be the small family gatherings, with one or two invited guests, that always mark the holidays.

Mrs. Willis Gracious Hostess Wednesday

One of the smart dinner parties, which marked this week's social calendar, was that given at the Hotel Empqua, for which Mrs. William R. Willis was hostess Wednesday evening, complimenting the organization and choir of St. George's Episcopal church to which several additional guests were invited.

Dinner was served at 6 o'clock in the Indian room, at one large table, centered with an attractive bowl of small blue chrysanthemums, arranged in a spreading fashion. Seated about the table were Misses Lucille Sappington, Hazel Goodwin, Edress Judd, Mona Porter, Mildred Davis, Thelma Olmstead, Rita Shambart, Elva Wescott, Katherine Merrill, Iris Rice, Vera McMillin, the Mesdames H. B. Young, A. R. Crawford and W. R. Willis.

Pleasing Bridge Luncheon at McAllister Home

Thursday at 1 o'clock, the O. D. McAllister home was the scene of a charming luncheon. Mrs. McAllister and Mrs. F. R. Dunlap entertained a group of friends, covers being placed about three marigold and chrysanthemum decorated tables. Mrs. Arthur Knutsen and Mrs. W. O. Cordon assisted in serving. Games of bridge were arranged following the luncheon, high honors for the afternoon falling to Mrs. J. C. Ponster and second honors to Mrs. A. G. Sutherland.

Guests for the afternoon were the Mesdames H. D. Harris, W. S. Jost, J. C. Ponster, R. E. Gedney, W. Harris, J. I. Love, M. S. Allen, A. J. Carmen, R. L. Devaney, A. J. Hochradel, C. A. Lockwood and A. G. Sutherland.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wharton will leave Wednesday evening for Eugene, where they will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Dargan over Thanksgiving holidays.

Dinner at Maccabee Hall Saturday Eve

An enjoyable dinner of last week was that given by the Hlahee Division, G. I. A. to the E. of L. E. for their families, at 6 o'clock Saturday evening at the Maccabee hall. The hall was decorated with baskets of chrysanthemums and several tables were arranged in the center of the hall, forming a large horseshoe. About seventy-five were present to enjoy the affair. Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Guy Flint and daughter, Miss Lillian Flint of Portland, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Roy McGee and Henry Ryan, of Grants Pass, Mrs. J. W. McPadgen, Mrs. C. B. Patrick and Mrs. Crouch, of Eugene.

Following the dinner, lodge session was held at which time one new candidate was initiated. Later the group spent a short time playing bridge and five hundred. Mrs. J. M. Trotter received ladies' prize at bridge and Warren Burt received men's prize. Ladies first prize for five hundred was received by Mrs. L. L. Covert and men's first prize went to B. B. Bridges.

"The Ship" to Be Here December 10

The success of "Pygmalion," the first play this season of the Moroni Olsen Players, is expected to be duplicated in their second, although their vehicle will be of a much different nature. Desiring to give the theatre public a well rounded program for the season, the Players selected "The Ship," a serious drama by St. John Ervine for their December appearance. In "The Ship," Janet Young has another of the fine character parts her public enjoys so much, that of the old lady Thurlow, grandmother of Jack, the young hero, and a character of great strength. The ship might have been written for the Moroni Olsen players, so well does it give each an opportunity to cast themselves into a part for which they are thoroughly fitted.

The play will be presented at the Antlers Theatre, Thursday, December 10, under the auspices of the Roseburg Business and Professional Women's Club.

Elks Party Enjoyable Event of Thursday

One of the most enjoyable and best attended social affairs of the Elks lodge this season, and one which marked this week's social calendar was the dance and card party given Thursday evening.

Several tables of bridge were in play in the parlors during the evening, first prize for ladies going to Mrs. A. G. Sutherland and second prize being received by Mrs. Clara Hagar. The gentlemen's prize was received by Mr. Walter Hamilton. Following supper was served to approximately one hundred sixty, and later the Swanee Six orchestra provided dance music for a number.

Chester O. Broders, teacher in the commercial department of the high school, will spend Thanksgiving in Corvallis with relatives.

Mrs. Booth Hostess at Luncheon Today

One of the smart affairs of the week was the one o'clock luncheon this afternoon for which Mrs. J. H. Booth was hostess at her home on Court street, inviting a group of intimate friends to the first of a series of interesting affairs.

Baskets of lovely yellow Turner chrysanthemums decorated the attractive rooms, and small French chrysanthemums were arranged in the dining room, where luncheon was served at one large table.

Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. B. Casey, Mrs. H. H. Stapleton, Mrs. A. A. Wilder, Mrs. George Bacher, Mrs. A. Baum, G. A. Bradburn, Mrs. Harrie W. Booth, Mrs. Walter Hamilton, Mrs. Charles Wharton, Mrs. Robert Gile, Mrs. George Sewell.

Mrs. Schwartz Hostess on Friday

On Friday Mrs. Fred Schwartz was a charming hostess to the Friday Bridge Club, inviting the members to her home for the afternoon.

The rooms were brightened with chrysanthemums in arrangements in baskets and vases, and one o'clock luncheon was served at a large table with a centerpiece of lovely chrysanthemums. Later the ladies played bridge, high score going to Mrs. C. B. Wade.

Enjoying Mrs. Schwartz's hospitality were the Mesdames Clair K. Allen, C. B. Wade, I. Brun, A. J. Hochradel, E. R. Tauber, B. West, and S. G. Sellick.

Woodcraft Thimble Club Have Enjoyable Afternoon

Mrs. J. E. Rexroad and Mrs. Earl Rhoads jointly entertained the Woodcraft Thimble Club at the home of the former Friday afternoon.

During the business session plans were completed for the card party to be held at the K. P. hall Monday evening, November 30, to be open to the public. The ladies spent the afternoon chatting and sewing for the bazaar to be held December 2. Later the hostess served luncheon to about fifteen ladies.

Missionary Society Entertained at Foe Home

On Thursday afternoon Mrs. J. H. Foe and Mrs. Groves were guests of hostesses entertaining the Missionary Society at the former's home.

Twenty-six ladies were present and an interesting program of India was presented. Mrs. Pickens presided at the meeting and Mrs. D. W. Strong led the devotionals. The ladies chatted and later the hostess served luncheon.

The Benson P. T. S. will hold an interesting meeting on Tuesday evening at the schoolhouse, at which time reports of the delegates to the state convention in Portland will be heard. The delegates attending were Mrs. D. Linnex, Mrs. F. Knight, Mrs. Edith S. Acker and Miss Marjorie Shay. Plans will be made for this year's work and committees for social welfare, publicity and program will be appointed.

Northside Sunshine Club Has Pleasant Day

The Northside Sunshine club was pleasantly entertained on Thursday, when Mrs. F. S. Regester invited the members to her home for the afternoon.

In rooms attractive with bowls and baskets of chrysanthemums the ladies chatted, sewed, and discussed the results of the bazaar held last Saturday. Later the hostess served a two-course luncheon to Mesdames George Marjorie, Fred Bowen, Wm. Fisher, E. Marsters, E. F. Chilson, C. R. Cavender, Lee Goodman, E. P. Ballou, S. Starmer, R. E. Harnes, Robert Chilson, R. Marsters and two additional guests, Mrs. H. Hanson and Mrs. O. A. Koster.

Matrons Gather at McAllister Home

Mrs. O. D. McAllister and Mrs. F. R. Dunlap were gracious hostesses this afternoon, inviting to the home of the former a number of popular matrons. In rooms decorated with chrysanthemums and marigolds, one o'clock luncheon was served the ladies, at several tables with bright centerpieces. Mrs. M. S. Allen and Mrs. W. O. Cordon assisted the hostesses. Several tables of bridge were arranged for the guests' entertainment.

Lodge Members Motor to Riddle Thursday

A large group of members of Philatelian lodge No. 8, motored to Riddle Thursday evening and conferred the first degree on a few candidates of the Riddle lodge.

Following the initiation, a reception was served in the banquet room and a number of talks were enjoyed. Members of the order from other towns attended, including Sutherland, Myrtle Creek and Canyonville being represented.

Miss Lucia Fancher and Leonard Delaney Wed

A very pretty home wedding of special interest to their many friends in Douglas county was that of Miss Lucia Fancher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Fancher, formerly of Roseburg, and Mr. Leonard W. Delaney, of this city, which took place Saturday, Nov. 14, at 12:30 p. m., at the home of the bride's parents, 724 East Main St., Portland.

Only relatives and intimate friends of the family were present, the out of town guests being Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Fancher and children, of The Dalles, Mrs. T. W. Delaney and Mrs. Clyde Crosby of Roseburg.

The rooms of the home were beautifully decorated with lovely roses and chrysanthemums.

The bride charming in a lovely gown of fawn-colored silk, carrying an arm bouquet of white roses, advanced to the minister.

Rev. Burice H. Jones of Laurelwood Congregational church, officiated in a simple but impressive ceremony which was followed by an informal reception and wedding luncheon, during which Mrs. Harlan Fancher, of The Dalles, sang "Love These." The bride's bouquet was caught by her cousin, Miss Adeline Brinard.

The bride is a graduate of the Roseburg high school and the Benke-Walker Business College. She is an experienced stenographer and typist, having been employed in the office of the American Red Cross at the U. S. Veterans' hospital in Portland during the past year, prior to which she served three years with the Portland public welfare bureau. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Delaney of West Roseburg, and is the efficient salesman for the Douglas County Creamery company, with which institution he has been associated for the past seven years.

Immediately after the reception Mr. and Mrs. Delaney, who were recipients of many lovely and useful gifts, left by auto amid showers of rice and congratulations for Roseburg where they will occupy their own new home on the west side after December first.

Students and Alumni of O. A. C. to Have Dance

The students and alumni of O. A. C. will sponsor a dance at the K. P. hall on Saturday, November 28.

This will be one of the enjoyable college events of the winter season, and high school students, O. A. C. students and alumni will attend. Special invitations will be sent out next week. Clifford Thornton, of O. A. C. and the chairman of the greater O. A. C. committee, will have charge of the dance. Haldy Evans' five-piece orchestra has been secured to play for the dance.

Pretty Wedding Ceremony at Canyonville Mission

At a pretty wedding ceremony Thursday morning, November 11, at the Canyonville Mission, Miss Leona Sheratt became the bride of Mr. John C. Ross, of Canyonville, in the presence of one hundred friends and relatives.

The mission was decorated with yellow and white chrysanthemums with a background of fir boughs. The bride, attractive in a white satin gown, a wreath of orange blossoms in her hair, carried a prayer book, and advanced to the minister, attended by Miss Helen Shaffer, who was groomed in pink satin. The bride's mother, Mrs. A. Sheratt wore navy blue satin. As the bridal party advanced to the altar, Mrs. Shaffer played the wedding march. The bride was met at the altar by the groom, attended by Mr. Frank Dunbar, where the impressive Episcopal ceremony was read by Rev. Shaffer.

Immediately following the ceremony a luncheon was served, the bridal party and guests at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Shaffer. Mr. and Mrs. Ross will reside at Canyonville.

Visiting Officials Honored at Banquet

An interesting affair of last week was the banquet given Saturday night by the Badoura club of the Daughters of the Nile, at the Hotel Ross, complimenting Mrs. Della Averell, Queen, and Mrs. Adla Cebler, recorder of Nydia Temple, of Portland.

Dinner was served at 6:25 o'clock in the dining room, at three tables centered with bowls of lovely chrysanthemums and place cards in yellow and white were used. Covers were placed for Mrs. Averell and Mrs. Cebler, honorees, the Mesdames T. E. Singleton, Fred Brady, W. W. Chase, Wm. Bell, L. L. Crochran, Bert Green, G. A. Bradburn, W. H. Gerstman, Max Ruff, B. Wells, J. C. Hume, A. C. McClellan, J. Thorne, B. Bridges, E. Dearborn, G. Helbig, H. E. Nerbas, A. J. Young, N. Fullerton, A. Micelli, G. K. Quine, S. Garrison and Durham.

The ladies later went to the home of Mrs. N. Fullerton and enjoyed an evening of conversation. Mrs. Averell gave a splendid talk, and Mrs. William Bell, in behalf of the club, presented her with a box bon dish, and presented Mrs. Cebler with a hand painted plate. Both ladies gave response for the gifts.

Luella Anderson, of this city, will spend Thanksgiving with friends in Portland.

Party Honors Miss Kruse

One of the pleasant events at Melrose last week was the party given Saturday evening at the El Dorado home, for which Mrs. Kruse was hostess, honoring her daughter, Miss Veneta Kruse, on her eighteenth birthday anniversary.

The group of friends enjoyed a program of radio selections, singing and piano solos. Mrs. Cora Knapp, of Los Angeles, gave a very enjoyable vocal solo. Later the guests were served a luncheon. About sixty-five were bidden to the affair.

Members Gather at Club for Pleasant Eve

One of the many delightful events of the week was the Country Club party on Wednesday evening, when a large number of members and their families gathered for an enjoyable time.

Six-thirty dinner was served at one large table, following which, tables of bridge were arranged for the evening. The ladies first prize was received by Mrs. Clair K. Allen and the gentlemen's prize was received by Mr. H. Wollenberg. Dancing was also a pleasure of the evening.

L. P. Club Entertained at Irwin Home

Miss Maxine Moore and Miss Agnes Irwin were joint hostesses on Thursday evening entertaining the members of the L. P. Club at the home of the latter at a 7 o'clock dinner.

Table decorations were in yellow and white, a bowl of lovely chrysanthemums centering the table. Assisting in serving were Mrs. L. B. Moore and Mrs. I. M. Irwin. Later the guests enjoyed music and conversation. Present at the affair were the Mesdames Thelma Olmstead, Mona Porter, Edress Judd, Rita Shambart, Mildred Buvis, Elva Wescott, Doris Pickens, and Jean Singleton.

TED'S LETTER, NO. 2

Dear Brother Jim—
Your other letter came the day I picked John Thompson's apples I member well for that's the time I drove old Gray and Dapples. Pa never let me drive before But Ma said, "Now Jim's gone You just as well let Teddy learn. And at last Pa said, "Come on."

Members Gather at Club for Pleasant Eve

I drove alright 'till coming back Old Rover acted silly. And chased a "cotton-tail" right out in front of that old filly. She scared at that and pranced and pranced.

L. P. Club Entertained at Irwin Home

Needis Jim back here a hold o' her. He'd make her prance and fidget. Somehow the stock all know you're gone. There's that old brindle cow. She stands out by the barnlot gate. You sir, she's out there now. A waitin' for that lump o' salt Or else a bit of clover. You know you spoiled her just that way.

Thanksgiving Ball Sponsored by Company D.

Thanksgiving will be marked this year by the annual ball given by Company D. 152nd Infantry, O. N. G., on Thursday evening at the Alamy. The dance will be informal and a program affair, the proceeds of the dance to go to the mess fund. The Rainbow Gardens orchestra will furnish music for the evening.

Interesting Speaker at Missionary Meeting

The regular monthly business meeting of the Women's Missionary society of the Presbyterian church held this week was opened with the song, "Blessed Be His Name."

A short business session was held and the members extended an invitation to the Westminster Guild to join the society. The subject was "The Power of the Cross."

The Hogs are Aequalin' every night.

That old game rooster always comes. He'd think it was a crime if I should fail to give him corn Down by the garden gate. Right where you used to throw it when The feedin' time was late.

Old Rover seems to miss you, too.

He went up to your room. And there he sniffed about until Ma chased him with a broom. He had your picture in his mouth. And plainly seemed to say, I want that chap, and wonder why He's gone away to stay.

We miss you so, say Jim, come home.

And let me go instead. I'm gettin' tall, I'm growin' fast. I'm gainin' half a head. But if you can't get home real soon Write me a big long letter. So if you please, I'll quit right now And next time I'll get better.

Your brother Ted.

Above poem is the second of a series of letters by Ted to his college brother taken from Everyday Life, by Orpha Collins, Roseburg, Oregon.

The New Pirate Hat

Dorothy Gish Adds a New Outline to the Season's Established Mode—The Chic of the Small Hat Is Varied

Just as the head had become accustomed to the feeling of snugness and warmth of the enduring small felt, Paris decreed that there should be a diversity and elaboration of the new fall and winter hat.

Dorothy Gish, who is appearing in the First National film, "Clothes Make the Pirate," has introduced a hat of original lines and great appeal. Leon Errol, who is seen with Miss Gish in the film, designed the hat especially for Miss Gish. Black felt, cut along established pirate lines, with the skull and bones succeeded by two pins crossed in like manner, add a note of dash and color to the hat.

Felts, of course, are still very much in the mode. In charming shades and shapes that are made to accompany almost every frock in the elaborate wardrobe. The outlines of these trim little hats, however, have been softened until they meet with the requirements of the new mode. The severity of the all plain and tailored hat of last year has been succeeded by a hat of smartness which creates a slightly softer line and casual elegance and yet maintains an air of simplicity.

The colour, which is so very becoming, is softer in feeling than the felt and is exquisite in the fall tones. Blue, green, rose, wine and the always popular black and black are lustrous and highly becoming in colour. The velvet hat, with its smartly upturned brim, its winged effect at one side, its cut back and drooping side, is very chic for the afternoon ensemble. The grosgrain trimming is most effective on this type of hat—when any trimming is used at all.

The four materials used with the greatest resulting popularity are velvets, felts, grosgrain and satin. The invasion of velvets into the field of smart hats has continued with unabating success. The velvet toque and turban are best adapted to the velvet hat, while occasionally the larger hat finds this fabric best suited.

Satin and grosgrain ribbons are skillfully combined in some of the smaller hats. Cascades of the ribbon falling at one side create an interesting outline.

The large hat, which persists in its inviting popularity, is often intricate in its outline. There will be a skilful fold here and there to add to its smartness, and the trimming is always of an unusual nature. Feathers have come to the fore in trimming the latest hats. They are never used in simple trimming, but are placed in odd lines to create a chic effect. The matching feather and velvet hat—in the very small model—is very becoming and accompanies the formal daytime ensemble perfectly.

The draped turban continues the most appealing head covering for the evening. Just now the simple draped outline has been enlarged upon and there is frequently seen a turban like front in jeweled pattern which adds a note of importance to the costume.

Large bows at one side lend a definite note of chic. But they are hard to duplicate when copied from the famous Paris imports. The bow, to be at all effective, has to give a very chic outline.

Fur is used on some hats, but is used carefully. The tails frequently are seen as an effective form of trimming on the small hat.

Cascading feathers are a feature of the afternoon hat. The hat is usually of velvet in very intricate cut and features a cascading movement of ostrich feathers over part of the crown and well down over the shoulder. Feathers, when skilfully applied, add a note of smartness to the formal attire that is difficult to duplicate.

The Simplified Thanksgiving Dinner

TO the small boy and the grown up alike, Thanksgiving means a grand and glorious occasion of much food and rest. But what does it mean to Mother? It is pleasant to hear the relatives say that it was the best dinner they ever tasted, but it is likely she thinks there would be more joy in it if there was not quite so much work.

Well, cheer up, modern science and skilful business methods have made just that possible. Let's get a paper and pencil and seriously see what we can do to save labor in the preparation for this occasion which ranks second to Xmas and must be very festive.

Let's write out the menu, color scheme and all. We will make it as gay as possible, using autumn leaves against the snowy cloth and all the fruits and vegetables that have rich vivid coloring. Also the small hard candies that come in such pretty colors are very effective if arranged in glass dishes.

Now let's go through and list the perishable and non-perishable, or those that we can buy and put on a shelf to save time and work. I like the idea of that. Half the Thanksgiving dinner ready a week beforehand! The mixed fruit that comes for salad will make an equally good cocktail. Just chill, put some lemon juice and ginger ale, with the liquid in the can to give it pep, and serve in tall glasses, with no precious time on the day of all days wasted peeling fruit. The red cherries for garnishing also come in the can. The following menu will prove excellent:

Chilled Fruit Cocktail	Olives
Salted Almonds	Turkey Cranberry Sauce
Celery Dressing	Candied Potatoes
	Creamed Onions
	Peas Asparagus
Hearts of Grapefruit on Lettuce	French Dressing
Pumpkin Pie	Cheese
	Cider

We can get the cranberry sauce, the onions, the sweet potatoes, the grape fruit hearts, the cheese, the cider and the pumpkin, in cans and have them all ready. There is a new can opener on the market that will lift a can of hot water so that the hands are in no risk of being burned by steam, and without changing the positions of the hands will cut the top off clean and smooth.

So, thirty minutes before dinner is ready, let's put all the cans of the foods that are to be served hot in a large saucpan of water and let them heat together. There you are, the food piping hot and no saucpans to be washed. The can opener really works. I tried it and have resolved to give it to many of my friends both masculine and feminine for Xmas. Possibly in some households it will be a present to the cook, but then that's where it is needed. The housewife who does her own work is far too clever to waste her time and ruin her disposition using an inferior article.

So here's to the simplified Thanksgiving dinner, may it be the best and the easiest ever cooked.
