LAND OFFICE WILL NOT BE REMOVED STANFIELD SAYS

Senator Robert N. Stanfield was in Roseburg for a short time today on his way through to Medford, Ashland and Klamath Falls, where he is to make addresses during the remainder of the week. Senator Stanfield says that there will be no change made in the Roseburg Land office and that the plan to consolidate it with the Portland office will not be carried through. He says that he is now working in an effort to secure a greater share of the proceeds of the sale of grant lands for the state of Oregon. The state now receives only a small amount from the sale of these lands, while, in the senator's opinion, it should receive much more.

NEWLYWEDS ARE GIVEN CHARIVARI

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Smith, newlyweds, who recently gave their friends in the city the slip and were married in Eugene and then left for a honeymoon in Canada, returned here last night and their friends got "sweet revenge". Returning from an auto ride about ten o'clock p. m., they entered the darkened home of Mr. and Mrs. Hamburg, where they are staying, and were greeted by blood-curdling yells. The lights were turned on and about thirty young folks pounced upon them, demanding a kiss from the bride and gave the groom a healthy sweat on the back. Mr. Smith took the entire party to the Wigwam Tavern, where dancing was enjoyed and then later they returned to the Palace of Sweets, where a feed was spread for them. A "mock wedding" and other humorous stunts were staged. Mrs. Smith, who was formerly Miss Mary Reams, will return to her employment at the county court house long enough to instruct a new girl in the duties. They will make their home in the Kohlhagen apartments and Mr. Smith will continue with his railroad work from this city.

Turkey Prices Today

(Associated Press Special Wire)
PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 24.—The advance in the local turkey market has slowed down considerably and this morning there were indications of a reaction. At a late hour fancy dressed birds were still bringing 47 cents, but there are many good birds priced up at 45 and 46 cents. Receipts are not heavy but every house has a few turkeys and buyers are not taking hold so readily now. Some buyers are holding off, waiting to see how the public takes hold of the high priced birds before they get the remainder of their requirements.

THEATRES

Antlers Theatre.
Richard Dix's latest starring picture for Paramount, "Too Many Kisses", adapted from John Monk Saunders' Cosmopolitan Magazine story, "A Maker of Gestures", comes to the Antlers Theatre tonight for a two-days' run. The story is laid in the Basque country in the Pyrenees between France and Spain and deals with a young American, sent abroad by his father to make him pay more attention to his mining business and less to his ladies. There's no doubt but "Too Many Kisses" offers Dix his finest screen role to date. Frances Howard, seen in "The Swan," is featured at the head of the strong supporting cast, which includes William Powell, Frank Currier and a number of others. Gerald Duffy wrote the screen play.

Majestic Theatre.
If you were a loving wife and had invited your neighbor over to spend the evening because your husband and his wife were away, and later discovered your husband kissing your neighbor's wife good night, what would you do? This is the problem that confronts Eleanor Boardman in Hobart Henley's production of "Exchange of Wives," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture coming tonight to the Majestic Theatre. "Exchange of Wives" is said to be one of the most brilliant and sparkling comedy-dramas of the year. It was directed by Hobart Henley who made "Sinners in Silk," and "So This is Marriage," from the stage play by Cosmo Hamilton. Other members of the cast are Lew Cody, Renee Adoree, and Creighton Hale.
