

Never say "oats"

- say Quick Quaker

Get that toasty Scotch flavor, that famous Quaker flavor

ABOVE all things, it's flavor you want in oats. There is a world of difference. Originally a Scotch dish, it must have a Scotch flavor to be right.

Once you taste Quaker Oats you're spoiled for ordinary brands of oats.

Has that toasty Scotch tang... the famous Quaker flavor... no other brand has.

First spoonful tells the difference. It's due to exclusive

Quaker milling of finest, plumpest oats. A flavor it took some 50 years to perfect.

That is why it is so important to look for a picture of a Quaker on the oats you buy.

Quick Quaker cooks in 3 to 5 minutes. That's faster than toast!

Due to Quaker milling methods, it supplies, too, the "roughage" you need to make laxatives seldom necessary.

BRITISH CRUISER LEAVES IN HASTE

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
VALETTA, Malta, Nov. 27.—The British light cruiser Danae sailed from this port for Alexandria, Egypt, last night on short notice notwithstanding the fact that a gale was blowing.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—There was no explanation here today of the mission of the Danae, or of the cruiser's haste in leaving Valetta for Alexandria.

The political situation in Egypt is acute but there has been no suggestion of trouble at Alexandria.

BURGLAR LEAPS ON GIRL'S BED; HE IS LOSER IN BATTLE

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 27.—Miss Marjorie Silverthorne, librarian at Reed College, battled and routed a burglar who leaped through a window of her room at 4 a. m., today and landed—apparently by his total surprise—on her bed.

Miss Silverthorne screamed but the fellow grabbed her by the throat. Muddy footprints on the bedspread and marks on Miss Silverthorne's throat and arms still showed the desperate nature of the struggle when Police Sergeant Waddell and Patrolman Kelly, Hanson and Byrne investigated.

From Miss Silverthorne, the police were able to obtain little description of the intruder, as he was always either obscured by the darkness of the room or hidden behind the brilliancy of a flashlight.

The struggling young woman finally managed, however, to break the grip on her throat and screamed. The scream sent the fellow hurtling out of the window by which he had come with nothing to show for his trouble, except some scratches. Although the motive was robbery, the man got nothing, police reported.

USE OF KEROSENE IS FATAL TO AGED MAN

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 27.—Lester Gray, 77-year-old reclus, was burned to death today in a fire thought to have started from a kerosene explosion in his home. His body was found by firemen on the charred floor of his bedroom. Neighbors who saw the fire telephoned an alarm, but a mixup in directions given the fire department caused delay in arrival of the apparatus. Neighbors told firemen that Gray was in the habit of starting fire in his kitchen stove with kerosene.

ACTOR WHO VISITS POLA NEGRI TAKES HER GOLD CLOCK

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
LOS ANGELES, Nov. 27.—Peter Roman, young Russian actor, today was charged by the district attorney with grand larceny, the complaint resulting from the taking of a gold clock from the drawing room of Pola Negri, film actress, when he was a guest there a few days ago. The actress determined not to press charges against Roman, but he was instructed to make a personal appearance at the district attorney's office if he wished to drop the charge. The district attorney's office today refused to accept a telephone call from the actress and issued the formal complaint against Roman.

DEATH ALSO TAKES WIFE DEAD AUTOIST

LA GRANDE, Ore., Nov. 27.—Mrs. O. G. Hamilton, whose husband was killed in an automobile accident near Hilgard Tuesday night, died here Thanksgiving Day, the result of injuries received in the wreck. Before she died she arranged for the disposal of her husband's body.

MARKETS

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 27.—Trading was rather quiet in the local produce markets this morning with not much change shown in any line. Poultry prices were nominal. The holiday rush worked clean up at bargain prices. Most of the jobbers and commission men sold out Wednesday afternoon and the hold-over stuff was limited to a few old tom and No. 2 turkeys and a few dressed geese, which went begging.

The egg market is a trifle weaker today with values lower on the exchange. Extras and ferts off one cent each at 51 and 49 cents respectively. Current receipts are down to 24 cents net. Mediums and underzards continue unchanged. Butter continues unchanged although the market lacks its former snap.

Country dressed meats are nominal with nothing in this morning to speak of. Light calves selling at 15 to 16 cents and choice light hogs at 15 1/2 to 16 cents.

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 27.—Wheat: BBD hard white $1.59; hard white, bluestem, baart $1.58; soft white, western white $1.57; hard winter, northern spring $1.52; western red $1.51.

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 27.—Eggs weak, lower. Current receipts 41c; fresh medium 38@39; fresh standard firsts 45@46; fresh standard extras 45@46; fresh underzards 30@30 1/2.

Butter steady. Best churning cream 55c net shippers' track in zone 1. Cream delivered Portland 53c. Raw milk (4 per cent) 42.60

SALE, Nov. 27.—Turkeys unchanged.

BOSTON, Nov. 27.—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say: "The demand for wool has been moderated during the past week and the market has rather favored the buyer than the seller, although prices are not notably changed."

"Evidently the heavy pressure of wool from the southern hemisphere is commencing to be felt. The manufacturing outlook, however, seems healthy and stocks of wool in consuming centers nowhere seem to be at all oppressive."

"London opened about as predicted last week and the opening level of prices has been fully maintained. The foreign primary markets appear to favor the buyer as a rule."

"Mohair is firm at last week's prices on moderate trading."

The Commercial Bulletin will publish the following wool quotations tomorrow:

Sorted basis: Oregon—Eastern, No. 1 staple 1.30@1.32; fine and fine medium combing 1.25@1.28; eastern clothing 1.10@1.15; valley, No. 1, $1.15@1.20.

MEDFORD STUDENTS STAKE FACIAL MAP ON SALEM CONTEST

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
MEDFORD, Ore., Nov. 27.—Members of the Medford high school football team, champions of southern Oregon, today staked a pledge that they will not shake until Christmas. If they are beaten by the Salem high school at the post-season game here Saturday, December 5. At a meeting of the school board yesterday, a contract was let for a new grandstand for Van Scoy field, to be ready for the contest, which it is expected will be attended by a record breaking crowd.

TWO WOMEN HOLD UP BANK CASHIER, ESCAPE WITH $500

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Nov. 27.—Two women held up Cashier Wilkinson of the First State Bank of Reiner at the point of a pistol today and escaped in an old touring car after scooping up approximately $500 from the till and safe.

One of the women was about 25 years old and the other between 35 and 40, according to Wilkinson. Corduroy breeches and high shoes were worn by the older woman, the apparent leader. Both wore men's dark cloth coats.

A posse that took up the trail lost all track of the women and reported the belief that the women had driven toward Sioux Falls in an automobile.

SALVATION ARMY KETTLES TO BE ON STREETS MONDAY

The Salvation Army Christmas kettles will be put out next Monday morning, according to an announcement made today by Captain B. M. Humphrey, commander of the local Salvation Army corps. The kettles will be kept out until Christmas and the money donated will be used to enable the local corps to provide Christmas cheer to needy families. The usual relief work will be carried on and it is hoped that ample funds will be provided to permit all needy families to be reached and helped. The annual Christmas tree and program will be provided on the night of December 26.

DEFEAT BY FRENCH STIRS DRUSES TO STRONGER EFFORT

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
BEIRUT, Syria, Nov. 27.—The defeat which the French have administered to the Druses at Rashaya and in the Bika Valley appears to have had the whole Djebel Druse to greater effort.

Pre-arranged signals in the form of fires on Mount Hermon and other high places are calling for Druse reinforcements.

In response to this primitive wireless employed by these stubborn mountaineers, the villages are being emptied of their men folk. Their chiefs are fortifying Hasbeya, their headquarters, in preparation to meet further French attacks.

Meanwhile French forces are moving close to Suedia, in the heart of the Druse country, and the headquarters of Sultan Altrah, chief of the tribe.

Important French reinforcements have arrived by sea at Beirut and at Tripoli on the coast forty miles north of Beirut.

W. C. ANDERSON VISITOR HERE TODAY

W. C. Anderson, superintendent of public schools of Multnomah county, was in Roseburg today visiting with his old-time friends in this city and county. Mr. Anderson might well be termed a pioneer of this county, the first school he having attended being at the old Wilbur academy. The gentleman has been mentioned quite frequently as a candidate for state superintendent of schools of this state, and, while he has not yet made his announcement, this will quite likely be done early in January. He left this afternoon for Eugene and other Willamette valley points.

The Origin and Operation of Skaggs Stores

Uncle Eben, mythical dark philosopher, is quoted as having said "When a man says he ain't got no enemies he's either an awful liar or else he ain't never done nothin' wuth no-licia." On another occasion the same glibly sage is supposed to have remarked that "Any time you strike yo' haid above de tall grass somebody's gwine to bounce a rock offen it." Both of which observations—whether or not they are authentic, are literally and figuratively true.

Frequently the perfectly obvious is the most difficult thing to see and it is human nature to like to weave a web of mystery about outstanding successes despite the fact that a few simple, properly directed questions might dispel the mystery at any time. Particularly in the case of unusually successful commercial enterprises there are always those whose concept of their own self-interest prompts them to create and circulate rumors and "whisperings" that are less than half-truths or wholly false. No large concern is immune from such attacks and the question of "Who Owns Skaggs Stores?" has been the subject of much idle speculation and false report.

Skaggs stores are owned solely by the men who are actively engaged in their operation—four Skaggs brothers, and the executive heads among the employees who have reached certain positions and met certain requirements. Not a dollar earned outside is or ever has been invested in this concern since its incorporation, nor are there any outstanding bonds, notes or preference stocks (which is but another way of borrowing money) and not a single share of common stock has ever been sold to anyone outside the organization.

As the second Skaggs store was financed from the earnings of the first store, so have succeeding stores been financed from the profits of the stores that preceded them. No stock in Skaggs stores has ever been offered the public or listed on any stock exchange for the reason that the heads of his firm regard all chain store stocks as highly speculative, and dependent upon the ability and spirit of the management and organization back of them. To build a closely knit organization such as ours, ONE in mind, purpose and effort, requires considerable time and more-than-ordinary understanding of the variable and human elements involved. And yet, without such an organization, the ultimate success of any chain store venture is at least questionable, therefore, in the beginning we did not invite or permit the public to risk its money with us, and later, on the principle that a true servant is worthy of his hire, profits have gone to the producers thereof, and in direct ratio to their efforts and ability.

Some years after the opening of the first Skaggs store certain of the older personnel had accumulated various amounts of money which represented their savings since coming with the organization. This money they desired to invest in the company, and, since the heads of the concern had always believed that each man was entitled to participate in the profits to the full extent of his personal efforts, and the firm was then well established and on its way to success, arrangements were made to permit these men to buy such amounts of stock in the corporation as could be paid for strictly out of funds accumulated while in the employ of the company. No money from outside sources was permitted to be used in the purchase of stock, and only amounts in excess of annual earnings of $1500.00 were accepted, since it was considered that $1500.00 a year was the minimum amount on which a man with family could live decently.

The money thus invested by employees was used for further expansion, to increase earnings, and care for the incoming personnel who were rapidly developing to managerial capacity. Since that time once each year, the various executives who can meet the other requirements are offered the privilege of purchasing stock on the above basis—a privilege of which they can avail themselves or not, as they see fit, since the purchase of stock in the company is in no way a condition of their employment, but rather, one of the prerogatives thereof.

For this reason, whenever you meet and deal with one of the managers of the more than 300 widely scattered Skaggs stores, you have almost invariably come into contact with one of the owners whose personal and financial interests are vitally concerned with the kind of service and satisfaction you receive in that store.
