NO DANGER TO U.S. VIA THE PACIFIC, EXPERT DECLARES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7. — The navy today drew near the end of its testimony before the army court martial trying Colonel William Mitchell, as a result of his charges of incompetency in the management of aviation. Lieutenant-Commander H. H. Frost, naval strategist expert, testified that in his opinion an air invasion of the United States by an Asiatic power is impossible, without use by it of Russian and Canadian territory. "Even with Russian and Canadian assistance," he said, "the invading power would require a very superior naval strength, at least three to one over that of the United States. "We have no reason to be concerned over the possibility of an air force attacking the United States across the Pacific." Replying to Mitchell's charge that "the way America will be reached from Asia is by way of Alaska," Frost said, "I do not believe any nation could seize Alaska under any conditions whatsoever." He agreed, however, that Russia had once seized it.
