LEAGUE ISSUES INVITATIONS TO 3 COUNTRIES

on the powers of the president to send delegates abroad for conferences and it will be necessary for the Washington government to have very full knowledge of the purpose of the proposed disarmament conference as well as its exact relationship to the League of Nations and to the Versailles Treaty before decision can be reached on the course to be followed.

The disposition of most members of congress today was to approach the subject gingerly. Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee refused to comment, as did some of the other senate irreconcilables. Senator Swanson of Virginia, ranking democrat on the committee, said the United States should accept the invitation "without hesitation."

It was suggested by Senator Moore, republican, New Hampshire, president pro-tem of the senate, that another disarmament conference "probably would end like the last Washington conference with the United States disarming and other nations not disarming."

Deadlock On Mosul.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Dec. 8.—The sub-committee of the League of Nations council which has been studying the Mosul problem, embodying a dispute between Great Britain and Turkey, has not yet been able to reach a decision, it is learned authoritatively.

The present deadlock in the sub-committee is regarded as indicating the difficulty the council may encounter in reaching the eventual decision which under the ruling of the World Court requires an unanimous vote, with Great Britain and Turkey as the interested parties, abstaining.

Mutual Aid Barrier Point.

GENEVA, Dec. 8.—Apparently France and Great Britain are widely separated on at least one important point in connection with the disarmament question, although M. Paul Boncour and Lord Cecil, respectively the French and British chief delegates to the disarmament council of the League of Nations, deny there has been a split.

This one point is whether the commission which is to prepare the agenda for a proposed disarmament conference should study the question of mutual assistance of an effective nature against a warring nation. M. Paul Boncour is insistent that security and disarmament are closely related, Belgium takes a similar view. Lord Cecil is in agreement with them, but he doubts the wisdom of the treaty suggested by the French, being of the belief that it would overburden the work of the commission.

M. Paul-Boncour argues that if nations are to reduce their armaments they will hesitate to do so unless certain that the weakening of their strength and their resultant iniquity with other powers will be counterbalanced by guarantees of security in time of crisis.

Lord Cecil expresses the fear that the work of fixing a scale of armaments for each country may be far from ended, but that in fixing maximum armaments he believes security must be taken into consideration. Under the League covenant all members are bound to the aid of a country attacked and the question, he says, is whether the covenant obligation could be relied upon.

Acts On Mosul Dispute.

GENEVA, Dec. 8.—The League of Nations council today voted unanimously to accept the opinion of the permanent court of international justice, putting the Mosul dispute between Great Britain and Turkey up to the council for decision. Turkey voted against acceptance but the Turkish vote, like the British, was not counted.

SENATOR HALL IN ROSEBURG

Senator Hall, of Marshfield, republican candidate at the forthcoming primary election for governor of Oregon, spent several hours in Roseburg today visiting with his many friends here. Mr. Hall is on his way to Corvallis and Portland where he has business matters requiring his attention. Speaking of conditions at Coos Bay he said that section of the state was enjoying substantial growth and business in all lines in excellent shape. He was traveling by car and reports the highway between this city and Coos Bay in fine condition. While Mr. Hall has not made any formal announcements that he is to be a candidate for governor it is generally understood among his friends that soon after the first of the year he will enter the race in earnest. He has many friends throughout the state who are giving him their undivided support and will do their utmost to make him the successful aspirant for the governorship at the primary election.

R. H. S. DEBATERS APPEAR BEFORE KIWANIS CLUB

The Kiwanis club luncheon today was featured by a debate between high school students, the debate being the second of the inter-class forensic contests. The sophomore team took the affirmative and the freshman the negative side of the question, "Resolved that the policy of federal subsidies to the states, accompanied by federal supervision, should be abandoned."

The sophomore debaters were Gaylord Bowden and Harry Dorman and the freshman team was composed of Margaret Baum and Ruth Miller. The next debate will be held Thursday before the Rotary club, followed by another on Friday before the student body. Considerable interest in being shown in debate this year, and the students are receiving much valuable instruction under the able coaching of Miss Emma Berg.

The members of the Kiwanis club were well entertained by the debate today, and although the decision of the judges favored the affirmative team the negative exponents presented their side of the case in a convincing manner.
