NEWS GLEANINGS FROM ALL PARTS OF THE WORLD

LONDON, Dec. 12.—The formal signing of the Locarno treaties in London suggested that in future such international undertakings might appropriately be signed in motion picture studios, as all other arrangements for such important ceremonies are secondary to the demands of the photographers who give the world the pictures.

At the signing of the Locarno treaties the reception room of the foreign office was so cluttered with scaffolding necessary to accommodate the cameras and lights that it resembled a Hollywood studio. As soon as the signers and the distinguished guests appeared the cameras began to whirl. Throughout the ceremony, camera men dashed about the room and there was scarcely a minute that the cameras were not grinding away at high speed, making a noise that suggested a sawmill.

Writers in the London press are deploring their observation that professional beauties, "the women of the stage, mannequins and dem-dondaines" have to a considerable extent replaced the women of royal and noble birth as creators of popular fashions. These same writers however, predict that the extreme modes parades in the cafes and boulevards of Paris at the French capital are gradually will give way to less radical fashions. The modest but becoming gowns worn by Queen Victoria Eugene of Spain during her recent London visit, have been the subject of much comment. Fashion writers seem to agree that the Queen's much admired smartly dressed than most of the women who cause beholders to gasp in the theatres and cafes.

"The charm of the queen's costumes," one of the fashion experts writes, "that one always thinks of what an attractive woman she is and does not pay particular attention to her gown." In other words she dresses to bring out her womanly beauty and never wears anything startling enough to detract from the general effect of her personality.

Shakespeare is to invade Leicester square—the Leicester square made famous throughout the world by "Tipperary"—and is to go into the heart of what was once London's vaudeville center. Sybil Thorndyke will play the leading feminine role in "Henry VIII" and the empire theatre known for many years as the deziest of all London music halls, the bar and promenade of this theatre became public scandal and officials intervened to remedy conditions which had brought on a storm of protest.

Neither critics nor public seem to be able to think of the Empire as a Shakespearean house. The shades of Sir Henry Irving at the theatre and the bar and promenade of this theatre became public scandal and officials intervened to remedy conditions which had brought on a storm of protest.

Choice Rhine wines, the first lot of any quantity since the war, have begun to arrive for the house of common cellar.

Sir James Agg Gardner, chairman of the kitchen committee, of the house returned recently from the Rhine and Moselle vineyards where he has bought enough wines to last the law makers several sessions. Sir James, who is 79 years old, says he buys many tons of wine annually, but never drinks any of it.

While there is a considerable demand for white wines, French Burgundy continues to be the favorite of the house, although the most popular beverage of all is tea—morning, noon and night.

Because of the speed with which American airmen change, H. A. Vachell, the playwright, has found it necessary to revamp the "Americans" used in his play "Quincy" which is to be revived in London after a rest of ten years. The play was first produced in London in 1915 and was a marked success.

One of the characters is Cyrus Hunsacker, a middlewesterner. After he had read the play over Mr. Vachell came to the conclusion that Hunsacker's middlewesternisms would sound very ancient. American slang has to be brought up to date every few months.

Mr. Vachell lived in California for many years.

PAROLED CASHIER ASKS RECEIVER FOR MINING PROPERTY

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
MEDFORD, Ore., Dec. 12.—Percy H. Bell, former cashier of the Gold Hill Bank of Gold Hill, who was recently granted a parole and commutation of a ten-year sentence by Governor Pierce, for embezzlement, has filed suit in the circuit court for the appointment of a receiver for the Ancient River Gold Mining Corporation, whose diggings and plant are located on Rogue River in the northern part of Jackson county. C. M. Reed, "Lord" Alstair Erskine, of London, England, Frank Strahorn, and O. F. Dingle are also named as defendants.

The complaint sets forth that the property was purchased in June, 1920, on an option of $100,000 on which a balance of $40,000 is soon due, and that unless it is paid "at an early date," the property and equipment will be lost. Judgment for $20,000 with interest at 7 per cent is asked.

The reason for the action, the complaint cites, is to protect the stockholders, after the trustee, the Gold Hill bank, became insolvent in March, 1924.

Cook with gas. OLD NOVEL BY HUGO TO BE PUBLISHED FIRST TIME

PARIS, Dec. 10.—The manuscript of a novel written by Victor Hugo ten years before "Les Miserables" has been discovered, and soon will be given to the public.

The project is the idea of Gustave Simon, the venerable literary executor of Victor Hugo, who for forty years has been active in promoting interest in the great novelist.

Both the fact that the old manuscript is in existence, and the plan to publish it, have been kept secret hitherto, as far as the public is concerned.

Announcement of the discovery and proposed publication of the manuscript was made here by the American Braille Press for War and Civilian Blind, which has been making inquiries regarding the matter, in a desire to promote interest on the part of French blind readers in the works of Victor Hugo.

The following statement was made by a representative of the Press:

"It should be interesting to know that Victor Hugo's literary executor, Gustave Simon, the scholar and bibliophile, is still busy and that after years of research he has discovered the manuscript of 'Les Miserables', a novel written by Victor Hugo more than ten years before the appearance of 'Les Miserables', or more than three-quarters of a century ago.

"Except for the last two chapters, 'Les Miserables' was ready for publication when Victor Hugo was sent into exile, which drove all thoughts of finishing the novel from his mind. The manuscript was thrown aside and not even looked at for ten years. Hugo then took up the manuscript, read it, was dissatisfied and decided to rewrite the whole story. 'Les Miserables' was the result.

"Exile had caused changes in Hugo's mind and it had its effect on his story, so that while 'Les Miserables' has the basic theme of 'Les Miserables', there are essential differences in the two works. The earlier novel, it is said, will read like a new book. In 'Les Miserables' there is none of what is usually called the love interest, and Colette, one of the famous figures, does not appear. In other words, 'Les Miserables' was almost an entirely new story."

SUTHERLIN PEOPLE ARE AROUSED BY VANDALISM

Considerable complaint has been made recently in regard to vandalism and petty thieving from buildings located on the outskirts of town, and steps are being taken which it is hoped will lead to the arrest of at least two or three of the guilty parties and put a stop to their depredations, says the Sutherlin Sun. There is hardly a vacant residence or unoccupied building on the outskirts of town but what the windows have all been broken, and in several cases the panels of doors have been splintered by bullets.

Recently the home of Cal Thompson, a mile northwest of town, was entered during the temporary absence of the family and a Victoria carried away. The gate to the premises was padlocked and barbed wire had been strung along the top of the fence, yet regardless of these precautions the thieves entered the premises and gained entrance to the residence by prying off the lock on a back door. The reproducer and crank were not with the victrola, hence the instrument is practically useless to the thieves without these attachments. Just what other articles were "carried" by the thieves is not known as a full check has not been made. The house is now under surveillance, and arrests will follow any further trespass upon the property.

Several years ago similar acts were staged here by a half dozen boys who were finally rounded up by officers, and it was only due to leniency of the justice that they escaped the reform school.

Punkin Center is close to Dixonville.
