when she entertained the members of the Woodcraft Thimble Club. Attractive Christmas trees and other Yuletide decorations gave the rooms a festive appearance. A large Christmas tree in one corner of the room was decorated with small lighted Japanese lanterns and bells. Following the business session the ladies chatted and the hostess served luncheon at a table, where the Christmas decorations were carried out with a miniature tree as centerpiece. Special Christmas cards were distributed. Mrs. W. A. Burr was hostess at the home on the Curry estate.

New Yorker's Act of Courtesy Was Wasted

He is a New Yorker distinguished for his unflinching courage, it has become second nature to him to do the right and kind thing. Strangely enough, he is also given to moments of absorption in which externals register only automatically upon his consciousness. Frequently, in his homeward walks, he becomes so occupied with his own thoughts that he is in a world quite apart from that which is worrying past him. However, the instinct of courtesy remains, no matter how preoccupied he may be.
He was strolling homeward an evening or two ago, lost in reverie. The people who went by were merely gray shapes, a flutter on the screen he dimly saw out of the tail of his eye.
One shape came toward him, a vague thing, one of many. As it reached a point abreast of him he saw something white flutter from it to the sidewalk. To his engrossed mind that meant only one thing, that someone dropped something, and the someone a woman, as they are the ones who most often drop things. Courtesy demanded that he stoop and pick it up and return it.
For just one instant he emerged from his preoccupation, stooped and picked up the white thing he had seen flutter down. He proffered it to the young woman, and then, all of a sudden, realized he was handing her a woolly white dog!
"Thanka, ever so much," she said, "but I intended to let him down for a little run."
And Mr. Courtesy raised his hat and passed on and back into his reverie.—New York Evening World.

Belief in Horseshoes Traced to Druids

The idea that it is lucky to find a horseshoe is regarded by authorities on folklore as a Druidical survival.
The superstition is peculiar to regions where Druidism once flourished, and the Druidical places of worship, as exemplified by Stonehenge, made their inner circle of stones a broken or open one.
The idea that a horseshoe brings the best luck when you find it lying with the points toward you—the sacred inner circle open to you, as it were—also bears upon this theory.
Druidism passed, but the superstition outlasted empires and religions, and when horseshoes became common the superstitious found ready at hand a representation of the ancient symbol of the broken circle. The idea that in attaching the symbol to the house the points should be up had a Druidical significance which has been lost. People nowadays say it is "to prevent the luck running out."

Relics of Pagan God Days

Not everybody knows that every time he or she writes down the name of the day of the week, the name of a pagan god or goddess is being perpetuated. When England passed under the sway of the Norsemen the people largely adopted the Norse system of gods, fitting them into the nearest corresponding planet or deity of the Roman calendar. So the day of Mars—the Roman god of war—turned into Tuesday, the day of Tyr being the Norse god of war—the day of Mercury into Wednesday. Jupiter's day into Thursday and the day of Venus into the day of Friday, the Norse god of love, corresponding with Venus. Whether Saturday's day remained as it was or turned into the day of Sater, we don't know for certain. But the sun's day and the moon's day are obvious.—Family Herald.

Architectural Gems

Besides Wolsey's great hall and kitchen, Christ church, Oxford, boasts two of the finest English examples of the Gothic style of architecture, both built more than a century after Gothic became merely a historical term. One of these, the stairway to the hall, was signed in 1640 by a genius known only as "Smith of London."
The other, Tom tower, carrying the Great Tom bell which every night rings 101 peals to announce the closing of college gates, was designed by Christopher Wren, architect of St. Paul's, in one of the few happy moments when he really sensed the feeling of medieval builders.

Read as Death Beckoned

A reader asks whether we know which work of Voltaire it was that was found on Sargent's deathbed. We don't. But it may interest him and others to know that Tennyson died with his Shakespeare open at "Cymbeline"; Macaulay when he was found dead in his library had a number of the Cornhill Magazine before him, open at the first chapter of "Thackeray's 'Love's Wild-o'-weir.'" Mark Twain, with almost the last effort of his mind, turned to Carlyle's "French Revolution."—W. Orton Tewson in the New York Evening Post.

Had Gone Far Enough

A married couple were knocked down by a motor car. The car dashed away. The police arrived and found the couple bursting with indignation.
"Do you know the number of the car?" asked the policeman.
"Yes," replied the husband; "by a strange coincidence the first two numbers formed my age and the second two the age of my wife."
"John," said his wife, "we will let the matter drop at once."

So to Speak

What excuse can there be for a nobility?
"Well, they're the fighting men."
"I see. And the country with a nobility is always willing to put up its ducks."

AROUND THE COUNTY

MELROSE GLEANINGS.
Mrs. Joe Baker spent last week visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. F. A. Goff and with other relatives.

Mrs. Topping and daughter of Salem are visiting with their sister and aunt, Mrs. John Busenbark. They stopped off on their way home from Montana, where they have been visiting.

Mrs. Wheelock and Mrs. Maycock and little daughter came last week to visit at the homes of their nephew and cousin, H. P. Conn and other relatives. They returned home Wednesday.

The Melrose school will have a Christmas tree at the Grange Hall on Wednesday evening, December 23.

Mr. and Mrs. Busenbark went to Medford Wednesday to attend meeting of the Oregon Horticultural Society.

Scout Manager Wm. O. Sandstrom, J. F. Conn and sons Otto and Otis, Ed Reese, Joel Fenn and Woodrow Conn attended the Scouts Court of Honor in Roseburg Tuesday night. Ed Reese, Joel Fenn and Woodrow Conn took the second place.

Several of the Melrose young people went to Looking Glass on Sunday, to attend the rodeo that was to have been held there.

The M. P. Club will meet with Mrs. Plummer on Thursday afternoon.

The scouts put on a good entertainment Saturday night with their drilling, games and first aid demonstrations. Scout-Executive E. A. Britton with the assistance of the Melrose people pulled off a goodly number of stunts. A prize was given to Mrs. H. P. Conn for the best acting. Mr. Britton and three of the Roseburg scouts gave a budding demonstration. Cafeteria supper was served. The proceeds for the evening amounted to about fourteen dollars.

SOUTH DEER CREEK NEWS.
South Deer Creek Grange gave a dance Saturday night.
The P. T. A. was well attended Friday night. There was a short program and the rest of the evening was spent in playing games. All reported an enjoyable time.
Mr. W. Britton from Idaho is now visiting at the home of R. B. Montgomery. He is a brother of Mrs. Montgomery.
After spending the summer with relatives, Mr. B. Williams returned to his home in the Valley. He is now having a radio installed there.
Mr. A. B. Slickens is now receiving medical treatments in Roseburg.
The funeral of little Betty Louise Rodley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rodley, was held at the Looking Glass cemetery, Sunday, December 13. L. G. H. S.

KITCHEN CUPBOARD

More Good Eating
SPINACH is a vegetable which should be served often, especially in families of growing children. It is best when obtained fresh, though the canned variety will make a fair substitute.
Spinach is a Soups.—Boil one-half peck of spinach in the water which clings to the leaves, stirring lightly at first until the cooking has started the juices. When tender, drain, chop, add two beaten eggs and two tablespoonfuls of Parmesan cheese; mix and season with one-half teaspoonful of pepper, one teaspoonful of salt, two tablespoonfuls of butter and a grating of nutmeg. Cook for five minutes, stirring carefully until the mixture is well-thickened. Remove from the fire and add one beaten egg white. Mold into shapes with a tablespoon and saute in bacon fat. Arrange on a serving dish and pour around them a tomato, bechamel or any other sauce.

Sweet Potatoes Stuffed With Prunes—Pare and parboil sweet potatoes of oval shape; core with an apple corer, and fill the cavity with two or more prunes, previously stewed. Insert into the ends of the potatoes, halving the cores, used as plugs, to keep in the juices. Bake on the grate of the oven with a pan beneath to catch the drippings. For six or eight sweet potatoes place in the pan two cupfuls of water and two cupfuls of sugar and allow to remain until the potatoes are cooked. Remove the potatoes to a warming oven, boil down the syrup, then pour over the potatoes for a glaze. Serve with fried chicken, broiled mackerel or roast goose.

Fruit Salad—Cut in halves and remove the seeds from Tokay grapes. Slice into small bits celery and firm juicy apple, combine equal parts and mix all together with French dressing. Arrange on leaves of lettuce, mixing a few broken leaves of iceberg lettuce with the other ingredients of the salad.
Do not add the pepper to a French dressing until ready to serve it, as it has a tendency to separate the dressing.

TEN MILE NEWS
The ladies club has sent to the children's farm home in Corvallis two dozen quarts of canned fruit as their part in the Christmas donation to that home.
The school children in the lower grades assisted by their teachers, Mrs. George Ayres and Mrs. W. O. Watson and Mrs. H. Sibold made a lot of scrap books for the same home, the club paying postage on them. There were fifteen books in all and each child that made a book signed his name in it.
Sunday school will be held at the M. E. church every Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Preaching every two weeks on alternate evenings. Our minister, Dr. M. M. Reid will give a series of lectures beginning Friday evening, Dec. 18. We hope everyone will come and bring their friends as these lectures will be both interesting and instructive. Some of his subjects are "The Cause of Chronic Diseases," "The Law of Physical Healing," "The Law of Mental Healing."
Our young peoples' choir visited Mr. Martin Bushnell who is in poor health and sent for him in his home last evening. He greatly enjoys the visits of the young folks and their singing.
Mrs. Floyd A. Watson who has been working in Powers for the past six months will be home for the holidays.
Miss Bessie Brittenbush, who is a teacher in the blind school in Salem, will also be home for the holidays.
Our school is giving a fine program at the church Christmas eve, W. O. W.
