SNOW IN EASTERN OREGON, RAINS IN OTHER SECTIONS

slide brought down by the torrential rains which fell in this section yesterday and last night. It is estimated that here are five thousand cubic yards of dirt on the pavement.

A crew of men worked throughout the night clearing away the dirt and expected to have the highway open to traffic by noon today.

The southeasterly storm which swept the coast over the weekend was featured by the heavy rainfall rather than by the velocity of the wind. The weather station at North Head at nine o'clock this morning reported that the maximum velocity of the wind was 54 miles an hour. The sea is only moderately rough. The precipitation during the last 24 hours was recorded at the station as 3.25 inches. This is the heaviest precipitation on record for any 24 hours since the North Head station was established.

MEDFORD, Ore., Dec. 21.—The rainfall for the 15 hours totals 3.5 of an inch for this section, with predictions for more and probably snow in the hill country. The rain for the month is below the average.

BAKER, Ore., Dec. 21.—Six inches of snow fell here last night. This is the heaviest fall of the winter. The weather today is mild.

MITCHELL BACK AS WITNESS IN AIRCRAFT QUIZ

deal" to do with designs and construction of rigid airships however, and in 1919, had caused designs to be "gotten up" for a dirigible to carry 18 airplanes.

Asked whether the navy and not the army was not "charged with development of rigid airships" Colonel Mitchell replied: "The intent never has been to give the whole development to the navy as it contended. The whole business has been in no way satisfactory to the country. The fact remains that after seven years we have no rigid airship in military operation."

Asked if he still believed non-freezing solutions carried by the Shenandoah caused corrosion of the dirigible framework, as charged in the San Antonio statement, Colonel Mitchell said, he was not prepared to say from his own knowledge. He had been told that the Shenandoah carried calcium chloride, he said, and he knew that substance would cause durium to corrode.

"Sneaking Suspicion."
Major Leonard asked about Colonel Mitchell's charge that the Shenandoah was "about five per cent over weight."

The ship's limited cruising radius, the Colonel replied, led him to believe that the Shenandoah was 50 per cent reduced in its ability to stay in the air and should not have been sent on long distance flights.

"I had a sneaking suspicion that she was 50 percent over weight," said the witness.

"On a 'sneaking suspicion,' then you are willing to alarm the country?" asked Major Leonard. "Yes, and I want to say right here that the question of aviation is a public question and discussion of it is not confined to the army and navy."

He said, he heard evidence during his army court martial trial that the Shenandoah was only three per cent overweight, but insisted that his "personal knowledge from reports and things of that kind," caused him to believe that the overweight was excessive.

"I know that she was overweight and that her cruising radius was reduced fifty percent," Colonel Mitchell added.

"Would it excite any surprise in your mind if it was shown that the Shenandoah was not at all overweight?"

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Colonel William Mitchell had another opportunity today to tell of his knowledge of the crash last September of the dirigible Shenandoah, the naval court of inquiry reconvening today to hear the air officer, now suspended from the service for five years, before winding up its affairs.

Meanwhile, Secretary Davis of the War Department was represented as planning means of emphasizing to any other dissenting individuals or units within the army the significance of the verdict of the Mitchell court martial.

The Colonel had something else to think about today, a proposal to Mayor-Elect Walker of New York, that he be appointed police commissioner of that city. Dispatches from New York, however, indicated that Colonel Mitchell has little chance for the post; one of the prime requirements fixed by the mayor elect is that the police commissioner be a resident of New York and the Colonel is not. Mitchell himself had only a chuckle as comment on the proposal, which was made last night by Representative Bloom, democrat, New York, in a message to Mr. Walker.

The Mitchell case also cropped up in Chicago over the week-end. Representative Reid, republican, Illinois, Mitchell's chief counsel, declaring that his client is a modern John Brown and that his ideas will go marching on.

Mitchell Verdict Scored.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Colonel William Mitchell's court martial sentence of five years suspension from the army was described as "cruel and unreasonable," today by Representative Garrett of Tennessee, the Democratic house leader.

"One of our most distinguished world flyers has been punished," said Mr. Garrett, "for telling the truth of the aviation shortcomings of the Republican administration."

"We have had investigation after investigation recently and finally a court martial. The net result is punishment for one of the country's ablest officers."

Charging the army court martial had "shanghaied" Colonel William Mitchell, Representative Blanton, Democrat, Texas, demanded on the house floor the abolition of all court martials in peace time.
