A Cheerful Fire

Royal Utah coal makes a roaring hot fire quickly on a cold morning. On a dark winter evening it makes a beautiful fire of dancing flames in an open fireplace, a fire such as Bobby Burns had in mind when he wrote:

"Smiles by his cheerful fire, and round surveys His children's looks that brighten in the blaze."

Our experience has been that when a customer is sold Royal Utah coal, he will want some more, and so will his friends.

Here From Portland—
Orville Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Davis, of this city, is visiting with his parents and friends here for a short time. He is now residing in Portland.Engers Leave For South—
Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Enger, residents of this city for many years, accompanied by their niece, Miss Gladys Enger, of Brownsville, and Ray Nichols, of Bakersfield, left yesterday afternoon for Bakersfield, Cal., where Mr. Enger will have an interest in the real estate company, in association with Mr. Nichols, who is also a former resident of this city. Miss Enger will remain only a short time in the south, returning to her home at Brownsville this week.Dr. Bailey Home—
Dr. C. H. Bailey, who with his son, Wm. Bailey, visited in Southern Oregon last week end, have returned to their home. Dr. Bailey, who is a member of the executive committee of the Oregon State Grange and editor of the Bulletin, visited the granges in Southern Oregon, attending a meeting of the Josephine county Pomona Grange, and visiting the Sams Valley, near Jacksonville and Rogue river. Dr. Bailey made arrangements for the appearance of Mrs. Lillian Standbough at the Moose Hall, Saturday, January 16, at which time she will install officers of all the granges in Douglas county and will hold a conference with the ladies of the granges on home economics. Mrs. Standbough is a member of the State Economics committee and will handle a very interesting conference. Dr. Bailey states that he found the grape crops in Southern Oregon much poorer this year than previously, and that the growers are not realizing as great profit as the crops have yielded during the past few years.
