FOREIGNERS RETURN SLOWLY TO QUAKE-TORN CITY OF YOKOHAMA.

TOKYO, Jan. 5.—The destruction of Yokohama by the 1923 earthquake drove many foreigners from that port. There were but a few hundred left after the catstrophe. The progress of construction work, however, caused many to return, and at the end of October it was estimated there were more than 3,500 foreigners living in Yokohama. This is less than one-half of the number who resided there at the time of the earthquake.

COUNCIL GIVES ATTENTION TO STREET PLANS

Overlook and Lane Street to Be Connected—Right of Way Given.

ASSESSMENTS MADE

Ordinances Levying Sums to Pay for Improvements Placed on First and Second Reading.

Matters concerning city streets occupied the attention of the council at last night's meeting, deeds for the dedication of a new street, connecting Overlook avenue and Lane streets, being adopted and a number of assessments and assessment ordinances being considered.

A new street forming a loop between Overlook avenue and Lane street was adopted. This street will be 30 feet in width, except for a section 40 feet in length, which will be only 22 feet wide. The land is given to the city by Judge J. W. Hamilton and Ned Dixon. The right of way parallels a previously dedicated alley, so that extra width is obtained. When the street is opened it will form a connection with Overlook Addition and East Lane street, and in future years may become an important thoroughfare.

Assessments to cover the street paving which the city has put in during the past year were brought to the attention of the council last night. Under the council's procedure assessments are made up after all work is done. The total cost is estimated and divided among the property benefited. Notice is then given of the amount to be assessed against each lot and owners are then given an opportunity to file a remonstrance if they think that the assessment is not just and equitable. When the time for filing remonstrances has passed the council proceeds to approve the assessments and then adopts ordinances levying the various amounts.

Assessments were approved last night on Bowen Avenue, 2nd Avenue, Short street, A Avenue, 1st Avenue, E. 6th street, Casey Avenue, East 2nd street, Spring street and Sykes street.

Only two remonstrances were made. One was an objection based on the grounds that dirt had not been removed from the parking in front of one piece of property, and the other was that of an owner, who seemed for a portion of the cost of an intersection although his property did not abut on the pavement. Both remonstrances were denied and the assessments ordered as prepared by the engineer. The ordinances covering the assessments on each of the streets were placed on first and second readings.

A petition was presented for the establishment of a grade on Mill street for a distance of one block west of Corey avenue. It is the policy of the council not to establish a sidewalk grade unless paving is contemplated, and the residents of the block were advised to petition for the paving of the street and to improve the street and construct sidewalks at the same time, which will allow both the surfacing and sidewalks to be bonded. Such a petition will be placed in circulation immediately.

A request of residents of Sykes, Spring and Short streets to be allowed to construct their sidewalks next to the curb without a parking strip was allowed except on the south side of Sykes street where some residents already have their walks in with the parking provided.

The city street department was authorized to furnish plans for the construction of a culvert at the foot of Mosher street.

City Attorney Carl Wimberly reported that several cities have won decisions against county courts regarding the collection of money due for road taxes. Some counties, he stated, have endeavored to hold up the share of road tax money due the cities and suits were brought to collect. In each of those cases the city won, the attorney stated.

WOMEN'S CLUBS ASSEMBLE LIBRARY OF NATIVE WORKS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—One of the most unique libraries in the country, a collection of books by and about native Americans, is being assembled at headquarters here of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Sought primarily as an information source for club women, the completed collection will represent a cross section of American literature in the non-fiction field. Each state federation has been asked to supply at least 12 books by and about persons of its own state and to date the library numbers more than 300 volumes.

It is the purpose of the Federation to make the library available to individual clubs and members either through mailing of requested volumes or copied extracts, or by advising where specified books may be found.

Virtually all of the noted American authors are represented in the collection, along with many whose works have received statewide recognition. A number of the volumes were the gifts of the authors, bearing autographs. Several are by members and officers of the Federation.

A complete picture of the growth of the states and the nation, with biographies of their builders, along with folk tales, poems, works on art, travel, nature and kindred subjects.

The Alabama federation included in its first contribution to the library a "History of Alabama" by Albert Albert James Puckett, Helen Keller's "Story of My Life," "Up from Slavery," by Booker T. Washington, and other volumes dealing with the state and the Confederacy.

Among the books representing Connecticut are Mark Twain's "Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court" and Harriett Beecher Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

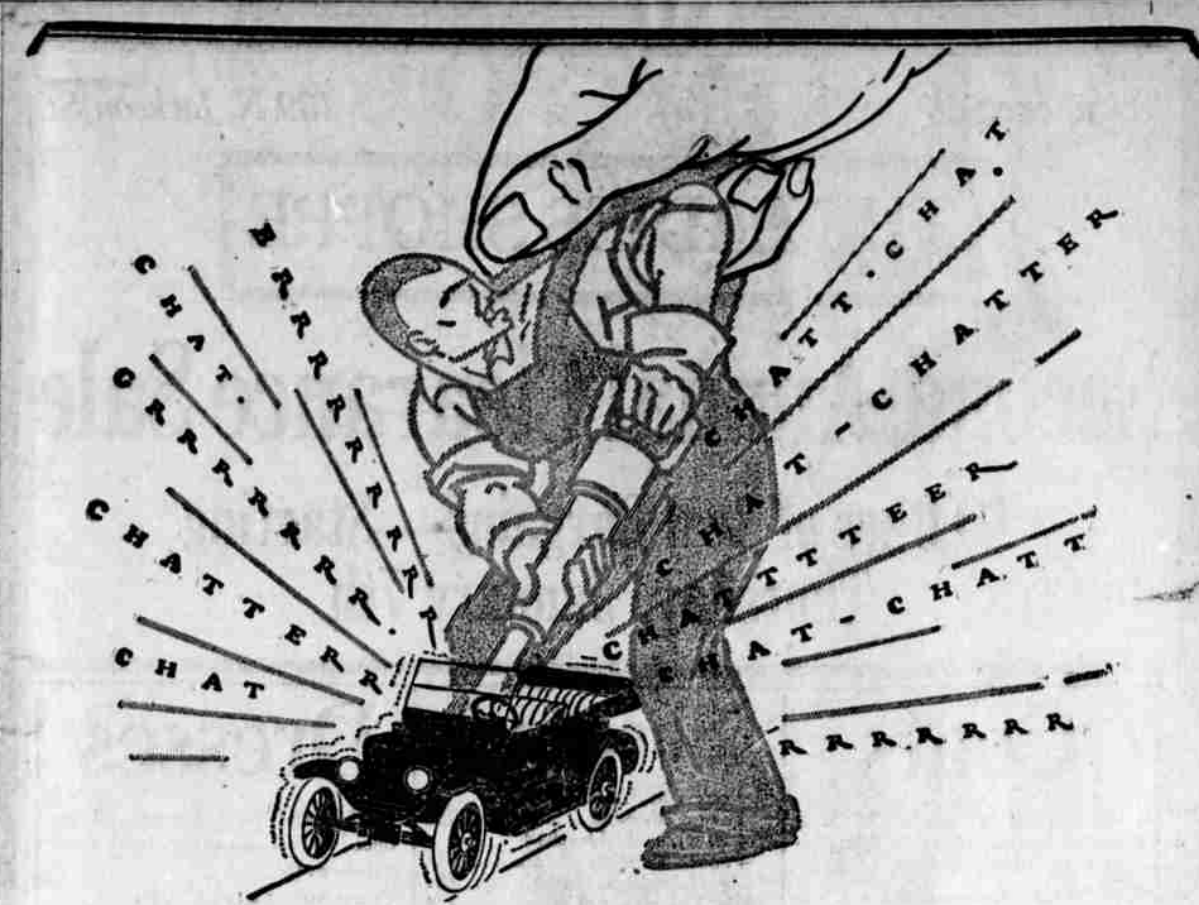

The poems of Sidney Lanier, Georgia poet, were sent from that state, while Tennessee gave a volume on his life. Two works on Woodrow Wilson have been received thus far, one by Josephus Daniels from North Carolina and the other by Henry Allen White, from Kansas.

From Massachusetts came the complete works of Ralph Waldo Emerson and the complete poems of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. The same state sent Benjamin Franklin's autobiography, and "The American Revolution" by John Fiske.

"The American Language" by H. L. Mencken and "Old Manors in the Colony of Maryland," along with many works by Poe were received from Maryland. North Carolina's contribution included "Fables from the Cotton Land" by John Charles McNeill and "Negro Folk Lore Stories" by Sallie Southall Cotton.

The poetical works of Joaquin Miller, "The Man with the Hoe" by Markham, and volumes by First Harle were sent from California. Indiana sent Beveridge's "Life of John Marshall."

At least one present cabinet member will be represented in the collection. It includes Secretary Mellon's "Taxation: The People's Business," sent by Pennsylvania. Miss Josephine Junkin, secre-

- away with CHATTER

In goes Para-4rd and out comes the chatter. Here is a new General Petroleum product. Back of Para-4rd is the same perfection and care that has made General Gasoline the favorite motor fuel of the West.

Para-4rd was made just for that car of yours—made to lubricate it perfectly—made to prevent transmission and brake band chatter—made to put an end to chatter if it already is there.

Just drain your crank case and fill up with Para-4rd. Back comes the power that you thought was gone forever—then, smooth running—smooth stopping—old-time pick-up.

4 times tested in Para-4rd. 1st for viscosity—just the right flow for your car. 2nd for flash—Para-4rd resists heat in the motor. 3rd for disintegration—Para-4rd lasts—it does not break down. 4th for purity—every drop of Para-4rd lubricates—that's what the 4 means in Para-4rd.

Prevent chatter in your car. Para-4rd is not only a wonderful lubricant designed just for your motor but it hoots that chatter—banishes it forever.

Ask your General Independent dealer about Para-4rd. Next time you buy General Gasoline for your car—get Para-4rd for your crank case. They make an unbeatable combination.

A SKYSCRAPER TO STAND ON THE GROUND GIVEN TO YOUTH.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 5.—In 1848 Adolph Gustave Rues was 20 years old and poor. Like all the others here then he was desirous of making a fortune so he wrote the Spanish government asking a land grant.

In this casual way he came into possession of much of the land on which San Francisco's financial district later grew. Lots that belonged to him on Montgomery street have been leased from the family for 99 years by a corporation as the base for an office building with eight acres of floor space, exclusive of a garage on the mezzanine floor for the tenants. It will be 20 stories high, the tallest building in California and the largest on the Pacific Coast.

WITH SERFS FREED, TURKEY PLANS A BIG FARM PROGRAM.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 5.—The Turkish republic is going in for agriculture on a scale the like of which the country previously has never witnessed.

Recognizing the principle that there can be no enduring prosperity in a nation of oppressed and unwilling producers, the government has made numerous changes ameliorating conditions under which the peasants lived.

The feudal system which obtained during the rule of the sultans has been abolished. The over lords, who claimed vast stretches of land and used the peasants as serfs, have been executed or exiled and the land divided among the people. With the departure of the sultans went the tax on the peasants which took one-tenth of their profits. To create a body of expert managers, the department of education has established thirteen agricultural schools, for which there were 2,000 applicants this year, and also is sending students to farm colleges in Europe and America.

The department of agriculture is encouraging scientific farming through the dissemination of information, distribution of seeds and institution of tractors and other modern machinery. It has elaborated upon a program, to extend over the next ten years, for the intensified production of tobacco and the "three whites" of Turkey—cotton, sugar and wheat.

As for President Kemal, he is so keenly interested in the development that he is running an experimental farm of his own on the outskirts of Angora.

FRED JONES TAKES CHAIR AT RADIO BARBER SHOP

Fred Jones, a well known local barber, has accepted a position at the Radio barber shop on Cass street, taking the place made vacant by the resignation of Roy Polietreau who is preparing to leave the city in a few days. Mr. Jones will retain his news stand and refreshment counter at the Terminal hotel, operating it personally in the evenings, and having an assistant in charge during the day. Mr. Jones has been out of the barber business for the past year because of an infected hand. The hand, however, is now completely well and he is returning to his trade. He is the secretary of the local barbers' union.

IT'S THE MAN!

There's no secret about the overwhelming popularity of Flapjacks. It's the flavor! A flavor that comes from blending many kinds of flour in a can't-be-cooped-way; a flavor no other hot cakes can give you because no other flour is blended the Flapjack way.

That's why Flapjack always wins a smile from man-morning appetites. For good cheer and good nourishment these happy days—nothing quite "gets home" to a man like a plate of fine, upstanding Flapjacks!
