My Wife is a Wonderful Cook

Most men delight in boasting of the culinary ability of their wives, though it is seldom that they are aware of the amount of thoughtful planning and careful comparison of values necessary to the economical preparation of the delicious meals they enjoy so much.

Aside from any profits we make, one of our greatest sources of satisfaction is the assistance which Skaggs Stores are able to render these clever women by making it possible for them to serve wonderful meals at substantial savings. Planning does it—their planning and ours.

PENDLETON MAN DIES

PENDLETON, Jan. 22.—Dan P. Smythe, 46 years old, wealthy shop man and well known all over eastern Oregon, died in a local hospital last night at 8:45 o'clock. Mr. Smythe underwent an operation for ulcer of the stomach last week and for several days his condition was improved. Thursday, however, Mr. Smythe suffered a relapse from which he never rallied. He died on the eve of the convention of the Oregon Wool Growers Association of which he was a past president. He is survived by his widow and a brother, Gus Smythe of Arlington.

WITH FIRE-ROOM COLD AND DECKS DESERTED, ONCE PROUD MONITOR KEEPS RENDEZVOUS WITH DAVY JONES

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

BALTIMORE, Md., Jan. 22.—Trailing ignominiously at the end of a tow line, a once proud monitor and last of her type was moving toward her grave today. The U. S. S. Cheyenne was breasting her final sea. Her destination—a junk pile at Hampton Roads.

One of four sister ships, laid down in 1894, the Cheyenne, originally the Wyoming, started her death march along with the U. S. S. Owl, a navy yard tug, stealing ahead like a conscious stricken executioner. The Tallahassee, the last of her sisters, felt the acetylene torch two years ago.

Sixty years back in American history, the monitor type, embodied in John Ericsson's Monitor—Nemesis of the Merrimac—revolutionized naval practice. Monitors maintained President Lincoln's blockade of southern ports during the Civil war.

The present and last monitor, living to see her own all-powerful type belittled by modern development, epitomized naval progress when she served as a mother ship for submarines on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts during the World war. The Cheyenne, then the Wyoming, also was the first naval vessel to feel the thrust of modern oil burning engines. Experiments conducted aboard the Wyoming have since led the navy department to take steps for the conversion of all remaining coal burners.

For more than five years the Cheyenne has served as the training ship of the fifth naval reserve district, and with her passing the Baltimore water front loses a bit of romance.

It is through no fault of her own that she is dragged away on the end of a chain, like a criminal to the gibbet. Her engines are sturdy and fit, her propeller trim—but she is obsolete and her crew is gone. Part of it has been transferred to Earle Boat 56, her successor, and the remainder have gone on the inactive list.

So with her fire room cold and her decks deserted, the last of the monitors keeps her rendezvous with Davy Jones.

Arrives From Portland—C. L. Peterson, of Kansas City, arrived yesterday afternoon from Portland, where he has been conferring with railroad officials, and will remain here for several days, the house guest of E. H. Rosenberry, an old friend. Mr. Peterson is president of the Peterson-Fell Railway company.

Meeting To Be Held—The annual meeting of the Oregon State Chamber of Commerce will be held on Thursday, Jan. 28, at Portland. The local chamber will be represented by T. H. Nease and L. Anties, who have been appointed as delegates.
