PLAN DEVELOPMENT OF LIGHTER THAN AIR CRAFT

(Associated Press. Licensed Wire.)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—Navy plans for expenditure of $14,000,000 over a five year period for lighter than air craft development, were described today by Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, the naval air chief, before the house naval committee.
The money would be used for: Two dirigibles of 6,000,000 cubic feet capacity at a cost of $4,000,000 each.
A training dirigible to cost $1,500,000.
Establishment of a lighter than air base on the Pacific coast at a cost of $1,500,000.
The admiral also proposed to expend $1,500,000 annually for maintenance of existing lighter than air facilities. Of this, $1,000,000 would be for continuance of the Lakehurst air station; $500,000 for cooperation with the bureau of mines in helium production, and $150,000 for experimental work.

PRINCE OF WALES LAUGHS AT TUMBLE

LONDON, Jan. 29.—"Just an ordinary tumble, and not mine this time," said the Prince of Wales, laughing to a friend who met him last night on his arrival in London from Leicestershire, where he broke his collar bone yesterday when he came a cropper while riding after the hounds.
It was the 15th hunting since the prince has met with accident in 1920. All reports agree that the hurt the prince received yesterday is in no way serious. In fox hunting such falls are common occurrences and are regarded as part of the day's sport. It is only when the rider who comes a cropper happens to be the heir to the throne of Great Britain or some other prominent personage that the public takes notice.
Lack of skill in saddle is not alleged against the prince by the sporting writers, although sometimes he has been accused of over-daring. It is considered likely that yesterday's tumble was due to over eagerness or lack of judgment.

It was the end of two miles of fast running that the accident occurred. The prince's horse, like the others in the chase, was tired when it came to a high post and fell when a double ditch and a three foot drop on the far side.
Lord Stalbridge, hunt master and Major Werther, who were riding with the prince, did not attempt to jump. Wales, however, put his horse at the barrier. The animal gallantly responded and cleared the fence and ditch but fell on the far side in the drop.
Companions of the prince say that but for the drop the accident would not have occurred. They would not say whether they thought it was reckless of Wales to attempt the jump with a tired horse under him.

LONDON, Jan. 29.—The Prince of Wales, who suffered a fracture of his left collar bone in a fall while riding to the hounds yesterday, passed a good night and was making satisfactory progress to-day.
"After a few days rest, I have little doubt that the prince will be out and about again," said his secretary, Captain Lascelles.
The prince's physical fitness will undoubtedly help him to a quick recovery. The Evening News reports that since his return from South America, he has been in the hands of the Scotch homopath who has seen to it that he has adhered to a strict diet. His luncheon of beef with vegetables but no sweets. He foregoes alcoholic stimulants until sundown, has abandoned cigars and smokes only about four cigarettes daily and these contain very little nicotine.

HEAD OF EAGLES LODGE PAYS VISIT ROSEBURG AERIE

Order Is on Verge of Great Period of Expansion, Grand President Tells Members.

It is seldom that the national head of a great fraternal order visits the city of the size of Roseburg and consequently the visit last night of Charles C. Guenther, grand worthy president of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, to the local Aerie last night was an event which attracted considerable attention from the members of that lodge. In connection with the visit of the Grand Worthy President, the Roseburg Aerie staged an initiation in which 36 candidates were taken into the order. The officers and drill team of Eugene conducted the initiation. O. E. Lee, of Eugene, state president of the order, headed the Eugene delegation. A number of Eagles from Marshfield were also in attendance, headed by August Frizzen.

The Roseburg lodge is joining in the national membership campaign and is striving to win the prize which is to be awarded on a percentage basis.

Among the speakers last night were Charles P. Ohling, of Chicago, of the national organization department; Mr. Lee, the state president; A. C. Marsters, treasurer of Roseburg Aerie and Mr. Guenther.

Many men are turning to the Eagles lodge, Mr. Guenther says, because of the fraternal advantages and the fine protective and insurance attitude which the lodge has assumed. The policies of endorsement for workmen's compensation and old age pensions have won comment from the pulpit and press.

The grand worthy president detailed the early history of the order, showing how it was first started, and the benefit system which has caused it to become so popular. Growing out of the liberal benefit policy is now developing, he states, the old age pension movement. The edge's war insurance system and its other apparent advantages have gained it considerable prominence, he stated, and there apparently is a great increase in membership due for the near future.

Following the lodge session a delicious banquet was enjoyed.

PARKERS BACK FROM TRIP TO PANAMA CANAL

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Parker returned to Roseburg last night after a trip which has taken them over several thousand miles through the southern part of the continent.

Leaving here December 1 they motored to Los Angeles. They then took the boat through the Panama Canal to Cuba. Then went to Florida, where they were in the midst of the boom, and returned to Los Angeles through the southern states. They report a very enjoyable trip.

Upon arriving at their home last night they found that the house had been entered and ransacked, but apparently nothing had been taken. Some unknown person had cut away the screen on the rear porch, had jammed a window and had gained an entrance to the kitchen, and then had cut a hole through the panel of the kitchen door, which was bolted on the inside. They had emptied drawers and thoroughly ransacked the house, but apparently had taken nothing of value. It appeared that the burglar was seeking for money and finding none, left jewelry, guns and other valuable articles untouched.

MARSHFIELD ELKS SHOW SOME PEP

The Marshfield Elks, a hundred strong, paid a visit to the Roseburg lodge last night and taking charge of the "third degree" ceremonies occupied the spotlight for a greater portion of the evening. The Marshfield Elks are the people bunch ever to visit the city and were "on the go" from the moment of their arrival until their tail-lights disappeared over Camas mountain. The local Elks greatly appreciated their attendance last night and are loud in their praise of the entertainment offered by the visitors. Following the lodge session a delicious turkey banquet was served in the ballroom. The Oriental Gardens orchestra provided music throughout the evening.

District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler Ben Fisher, made his official visit last night also and commended the lodge and its officers for growth of the order locally.

Women were strictly out of the picture when several hundred Apache Indians visited Fort Huachuca, Ariz., to take part in the battle sequences of "The Golden Strain." Fox Films version of a Peter B. Kyne story, which came to the Antlers theater tonight and Saturday.

It was all right for Madge Bellamy, Ann Pennington, Grace Morse and the other feminine members of the cast to face the grinding cameras, but Cyrus Fields and other old-time warriors looked with disfavor upon efforts of their own squares to "grab the center" when "still" photographs were being made of the male members of the Apache band.

Liberty.
The fact that the solitude and vastness of the great northern wastes drives men mad, which is the underlying motif of the picture, is the great Emerson Hough novel, "The Ship of Souls," made by Associated Exhibitors and coming here to the Liberty theater Sunday is based on a very pregnant truth.
