

AT THE ANDERSON MEETINGS

Large Crowds Feature Meetings Sunday Afternoon and Evening—Evangelist Speaks on Subject of Love at Night Service—No Meeting to Be Held Tonight.

"For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life."—John 3:16.

"That is God's blockade of the road to hell," said Evangelist Anderson to a great crowd at the armory last night. "It has been said that this is the golden text of the Bible, and it is true. Others have said this is the seed plot of the Bible. Others have said this is the gospel in a nutshell. It is just like a botanist when he takes a beautiful flower, and wants to peep down to find out where the perfume comes from, and he pulls the petals and the stems off, and can't find the perfume. So it is, when they take this text apart. Many a preacher has tried to get down to the perfume of it. Yet it is there. It is the best verse to give you the plan of the Bible. It starts out with the greatest person, God. Love is the greatest emotion. The world is the greatest company of people. His only begotten Son, that is the greatest gift ever heard of. 'Should not perish,' that is the greatest promise ever given to mankind. 'Eternal life,' that is the greatest possession. And it is all in the text."

Christ down here, so that we can understand God. When you know the love of God that is the greatest thing you can have in your life. The love of God is the greatest asset of Roseburg, because of its great cost. No man can ever fathom it. Through eternity we shall sing about the atonement. Then the love of God is the most wonderful thing in Roseburg tonight, because of its scope. It takes in everybody. You cannot find me a single individual that can say 'I love everybody'. But I know a man who can stand here tonight and say to Roseburg: 'I love everybody, and that man is Jesus Christ. That is why I follow Him.' This love is not only great because of its cost and its scope, but because of its power to lift and to save and to preserve and keep. It is a love that saves to the uttermost, that can reach down an arm to a sinking man, and lift him up. There is only one religion that does that. Jesus gives a man a lift, and he puts him on rock. That is why I will stake my all on Jesus Christ, because He has power to lift a man out of sin. The greatest thing is love. There is no power like love."

"There will be no meeting tonight. Tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 the series of talks on the holy spirit will be resumed. In the evening, Mr. Anderson will preach on 'The Worst Thing in Roseburg.' The cornet solo by Mrs. Stover and the song by Prof. Stout last night were fine, as usual. The choir and orchestra were strong and effective. Separate meetings for men and women brought out large crowds Sunday afternoon."

ITALIAN STEAMER LOST; CREW SAVED

(Associated Press Leased Wire.) BRIMHAM, England, Feb. 15.—Life lines were used today to save 30 members of the crew of the Italian freight steamer Libertia, ashore in a storm off South Devon. Three of the crew were rescued by a motor life boat but further use of boats became impossible during the morning because of the thickening weather and rising sea. The remainder of the crew were rescued by the use of a rocket and life line apparatus. The Libertia is likely to become a total loss.

today. Boatman's mate Joseph Libby, who wandered barefooted 12 hours in yesterday's blinding blizzard in search of aid, was given credit for saving the lives of his five companions, of the wrecked patrol boat C-126. Frozen so badly that they were unable to walk, the men were brought aboard the cutter Mojave here where naval surgeons awaited them. Their boat was wrecked near the west entrance of Narragansett bay. The C-126, a 75-footer was caught in the 70-mile blizzard and was driven ashore at 2:30 a. m. opposite Whale Rock light. The pilot house windows were stove in and the boat lee-crusted. In the darkness the crew of six went over the side and, through the hammering surf, made their way a hundred feet to the beach. The others were more or less clothed, but Libby was barefooted. The rocky shore was ice covered and a bitter wind was blowing. The men made their way to higher ground and wandered about in search of shelter until daylight. With their wet clothes freezing, one by one they became delirious until Libby alone retained his senses. He helped the men together and kept them from lying down to certain death. At 2 p. m., he saw, in the distance, a water tower. Believing it was his only chance, Libby left his companions and staggered to the tower. It was on the Jencks estate, which is closed for the winter. Libby managed to clamber up the tower and waving his arms and shouting, attracted the attention of a gang who were clearing the

U.S. MONUMENTS TO DEAD IN EUROPE TO BE READY IN 1928

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Completion of European monuments to America's war dead in time for dedication on the tenth anniversary of the signing of the armistice, is provided for in the independent of-fices appropriation bill reported today to the house, carrying $592,488,000 for the various independent commissions, boards and bureaus of the government. The amount is $50,106,000 above last year's bill and $44,000 above budget estimates. The direct appropriation for the American battle monuments commission is $59,500 plus a contract authorization of $2,200,000. In this connection, the committee said, "it is the program of the commission to complete the memorials so that they can be dedicated on November 11, 1928, just 10 years after the signing of the armistice." The total increase of more than $59,000,000 is the result of larger appropriations for the veterans bureau to care principally for adjusted compensation and insurance requirements, the appropriation totaling $462,965,000.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Roseburg News-Review: As a member of the Presbyterian Missionary society of our city, I wish through your paper to correct an erroneous statement, which was given in the report of monthly meeting of February 8th, and published in your Saturday issue. Mrs. M. J. Shoemaker, who was named as one of the nominating committee (whose report was accepted) is now and has been in Ohio for the past five months; with no knowledge of being listed as one of said committee. Consequently had no part in the events of the day. However the name of Mrs. H. C. Parslow was omitted in the report rendered. MRS. I. N. PARK.

commerce. It is in this work that Portland business and commercial interests are raising annually a substantial sum for the purpose of attracting home-seekers to Oregon. In Medford Monday the citizens of Jackson county took the initial step toward procuring their quota of home-seekers under the guidance and financial assistance of the Portland chamber of commerce. A simple, workable plan of campaign was mapped out and agreed upon. It is a plan which should bear fruit as spring merges into summer, and summer into fall. It is not enough to broadcast favorable publicity urging farmers and home-seekers to come to Oregon and to Jackson county. Facts, honestly and wisely compiled, must be in readiness for those who are drawn here. Lists of farm lands, with fair valuations and other pertinent data must be available. Jackson county must be prepared to sell her advantages to those who come to barter. The land settlement committee of Jackson county has started its work with flying colors. There is every reason to believe that it will so continue throughout the year.—Ashland Tidings.
