MOVIE NOTES

Antlers Theatre

Happy throngs continue to welcome Colleen Moore on her return at the Antlers theatre, where her new First National release, "We Moderns," is on view for the week. Colleen this time presents the British prototype of Patricia and Tommy Lou as portrayed respectively in "Flaming Youth" and "The Perfect Flapper." The British expression of the type exceeds the pseudomorphosis of her American sister, adding a touch of cynicism not to be expected from the adolescent "wise" ones. To what extremes these "infant iconoclasts" will go to provide a new "kick" in their "jaded" existence, with their convention-defying air of independence, is graphically depicted by Miss Moore and a capable cast.

Majestic Theatre

A picture that seems destined to rank among our famous "Ten best of the year" is "East Lynne," the William Fox supreme attraction directed by Emmett Flynn from the classic of the stage.

This rare screen treat will open tonight at the Majestic theatre for a one day run, and advance inquiries at the manager's office indicate unusual interest in the first showing of this photodrama in this city.

Heading the all-star cast of "East Lynne" are Edmond Lowe and Alma Rubens, while the supporting personnel includes such notables as Frank Keenan, Marjorie Daw, Lou Tellegen, Paul Panzer, Leslie Fenton, Belle Gien, Lydia Knott, Martha Mattox, Harry Seymour, Virginia Marshall and Richard Hendrick.

One of the startling moments of this picture is the spectacular train wreck near the climax of the picture.

The original period of the stage play—that of the 70's—has been retained.

Liberty Theatre

Peggy Hopkins Joyce is surely a charming personality. Those who attended the opening performance of "The Skyrocket" at the Liberty theatre last night will attest to this fact.

This reviewer estimates that fully ninety-five per cent of the people who see this latest Marshall Neilan production will flock to see the beautiful Peggy in her next picture, no matter what title they choose to give it.

King Coming

Antlers Theatre

"The Scarlet Saint," a swiftly moving story of love and intrigue, set in New Orleans during Mardi Gras week, with its picturesque carnival and its famous raking meet, is the attraction that has been booked by Manager Goux of the Antlers theatre for Tuesday night.

Adapted from Gerald Beaumont's famous story, "The Lady Who Played Fiddle," the picture deals with the dramatic romance of a young American girl who is forced to marry a much older man, a foreigner, to save her sweetheart from jail.

Replete with action from start to finish, the picture depicts several incidents of a most unusual nature.
