ARMORY CHANGED INTO HUGE BARN FOR LEGION SHOW

The annual Hayseed Festival and Barn Dance of Umpqua Post, of the American Legion, will open to the public on next Friday night at the Armory. This year's event will be an outstanding one in this respect. Starting promptly at 8 o'clock a free vaudeville program lasting for an hour will be given. The acts are being rehearsed this week under the direction of Jack Coyle professional show producer, who is staging this year's Hayseed Festival. Every act will be a mirth-provoker and those who come early to the Barn Dance are assured of some real first-class entertainment. Following the show, the games, concessions and dance will start. From then on the armory will rock with merriment.

Mr. Coyle is in charge of a large crew of legionnaires this week, who are busily engaged in transforming the armory into a huge barn interior. Baled hay, farm implements, harness, lanterns, etc., are being used to obtain the effect.

Admission to the show on both nights, Friday and Saturday of this week, will be 50 cents. For this amount you will receive 50 pumpkin seeds to spend at the numerous side-shows, games and dances.

HAYS WARNS AGAINST FAKE MOVIE SCHOOLS.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.) NEW YORK, April 19.—A warning to youthful dreamers and speculators in easy money schemes against the fake movie picture schools, studios and movie stock propositions was issued today by Will H. Hays, president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, as the spokesman for the film industry.

"Trading upon its inherent qualities and wide appeal, impostors are attempting to defraud the public," he said, "through misleading references to the success which has accompanied the Liberty Theatre.

MOVIE NOTES

Patrons of the Liberty Theatre are witnessing this week an epic of the air the like of which has never before been recorded by a motion picture camera. It is the authentic film story of the Amundsen-Ellsworth Polar flight and the pictorial record in complete to the point of the return hop-off, when the motion picture camera had to be sacrificed in order to save weight in the one un-wrecked plane which was used to bring back the double load of the two crews. Other cameras caught the last part of the story after the rescue of the crew by a sailing vessel and their return and reception in Norway.

The film was made under the most harrowing conditions imaginable. At times the camera man grunted his machine when he must have felt that death would be the unwilling climax of the story. But he stuck to his task and people throughout the world can now take a trip to the Polar regions and see for themselves this great immensity which is but playgrounds of the winds and the northern lights.

Dorothy Revier heads a cast of favorites in her latest Waldorf production which is being released by Columbia Pictures. This picture, "Sealed Lips," is playing at the Liberty Theatre.

Besides this beautiful star and her leading man, dashing Cullen Landis, there are Lincoln Stedman, Barbara Luddy, Lee Shumway, Tom Ricketts and a number of others who were directed by Antonio Gaudin.

that this is a government of law, and that without the sovereignty of law, government will fail."

"The experience of Canada in government control and in regulating the sale of beer and wine," she said, "has resulted in violations of law, drunkenness and illicit trade. We have no assurance the situation would be any different in America."

"You have listened to testimony of shocking conditions due to corruption or officials, and lack of enforcement, some of which suggested no remedy except a surrender to those who violate the law, while the propaganda of all these organizations is encouraging continued violation. Permit me to propose that instead of lowering our standards we urge that the law be strengthened."

Asked if she knew the death rate from alcoholism had increased at "an alarming rate" during the past few months, Mrs. Boole said that was a fact.

"There has been a great lack of enforcement during the past few months," the witness added.

"Do you think it makes for moral advancement to have liquor manufactured in the home?" asked Senator Reed.

"Certainly not," Reed replied. "I want to get some facts," Reed continued. "If any one thinks I'm for booze or intemperance they are mistaken."

"You were raised right," replied Mrs. Boole. "Your mother was a member of the W. C. T. U."

"Oh, no, she was not. She was the next best thing—a Presbyterian."

Home Brew vs. License. The Missouriian then asked whether it was "better to have something like 1,729,000 stills, most of them operating in the homes," or to have liquor manufactured under license.

"I decline to answer because our organization is against the illegal manufacture in the home or elsewhere."

A part of the crowd applauded. "Now that applause is the best thing we could have," said Reed. "It changes our minds up here instantly."

Again Reed pressed for an answer.

"As between two evils, I do not think I have to choose," retorted

Mrs. Boole, amid more applause. As time came to recess, Reed wanted to recess until tomorrow, but the committee over-ruled him. "All right," he said, "no one appears to have rights here except a dry."

FUNERAL SERVICES MRS. RUNDLE TO BE HELD TUESDAY 2 P. M.

The funeral services of the late Mrs. Elton O. Rundell will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2 p. m. at the chapel of the Roseburg Undertaking company. Rev. Knotts will officiate and interment will take place in the I. O. O. F. cemetery. Mrs. Rundell died last week, while visiting with friends and relatives in this county. She was a resident of Rocky Mountain House, Alberta, Canada. Her husband, who was in Canada at the time of her death, arrived in Roseburg today.

D. R. TROXEL DIES SUNDAY

Delbert Ray Troxel, a resident of this city for the past fifty years, and well known in this community, passed away at his home on 322 First street early Sunday morning following an illness of some time. He was born in Roseburg July 1876, spending all his life in this county. He is the son of Robert Troxel, and a member of a well known family. His mother passed away several months ago. In 1900 he was married to Nora Baker, who also survives besides his faithful wife. For seventeen years he was an employee of the railroad company here. He was a charter member of the Eagles lodge, and a member of the I. O. O. F., Muscovites and Rebekah lodges. His death is a great shock and leaves his friends greatly grieved.

Services will be at the Undertaking Chapel Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock and will be conducted by Rev. H. L. Caldwell. The body will be laid to rest at the I. O. O. F. cemetery.

Just Why One Editor Has Turned Pessimist

No one is more annoyed than the one who tries to beautify the town in which he lives. No matter how earnestly he works, criticisms and annoyances must arise. As an example of this we have to say that the Peacock office needed a new sign and hired Jack Sigler of Red Wing to paint it. It's a peach. Then the sign had to be properly installed and we employed Fritz Miller as chief consulting engineer and master of ceremonies. Some thought a 4 by 6 post was the thing, while others thought a 4 by 4 would do. Then a windy observer mentioned gas pipe. We decided on gas pipe as more suitable for a printing office. The sign was therefore firmly bolted on a gas pipe. And there she shines in all her primitive glory.

After installation ceremonies were over we sought the solitude of our sanctum to ponder over the completion of this dream of years, well pleased with the plaudits of all progressive citizens. While there we heard a plaintive note emanating from that gas-pipe standard and we wondered if it had been transformed into an Aeolian harp. Finally it sounded like woodpeckers pecking for worms. We picked up the shotgun which we kept for the benefit of delinquent subscribers, went out and watched.

To our amazement we saw members of the proletariat as they passed deliberately knocking their pipes against the gas-pipe standard to clear their pipes of ashes so that they could load up again. When men will do the likes of that there is no use to talk about improving the town.—Boston Globe.

HEALTH BULLETIN

CHICKEN POX IN CITY In Roseburg at present there are three reported cases of chicken pox. We have reason to believe that there are more cases which have not been reported. Chicken pox is itself is not a very serious disease, and many people are disposed to ignore the public health regulations in regard to it. It is, however, very contagious for children who have not had the disease, and while it does not cause very great suffering, and the mortality rate is extremely low, it does mean the loss of two weeks of school for the children who contract it, and often twice that long when there are several in the family. Also, and at present of great importance, mild smallpox can be, and often is mistaken for chicken pox and in that way cases of small pox avoid the strict quarantine which is necessary to prevent a more serious form of the disease developing.

With serious epidemics of small pox in California and Washington, and one rather severe case in the city, we are very anxious that cases of smallpox be recognized early before an epidemic can be started. All cases of chicken pox or suspected chicken pox should be reported at once to your family physician or to the county health unit. In this way the spread of chicken pox can be prevented, saving many weeks loss of school for the children of the city and the detection of early cases of smallpox can be facilitated.
