BOOK BY BOOK

ARTICLE NO. 15

NEHEMIAH—THE THIRD RETURN FROM CAPTIVITY

Nehemiah, whose autobiography we have in this book is one of the most admirable characters of the Old Testament, and one of the noblest patriots in Jewish history.

His heart was broken by the reports that came back from Babylon from Jerusalem, telling of the desolation of the city of his fathers, its uncompleted walls, its neglected temple and temple services and the afflictions of the remnant of Jews who had returned under Zerubbabel and Ezra.

His grief won from King Artaxerxes the permission to lead back to Jerusalem a third group of captives about fourteen years after the return under Ezra.

So thoroughly did he imbue his countrymen with his patriotic zeal and faith and prayerfulness that in the remarkably short space of fifty-two days the colossal task of building the walls and gates of Jerusalem was completed. He knew how to secure co-operation, for, inspired by him, "the people had a mind to work."

Of course he met with tremendous opposition from their enemies in Samaria, but the work was pushed to completion with trowel in one hand and sword in the other.

Nehemiah had not only to fight the ridicule and treachery of Samaria, but also the heartlessness of the "loan sharks" of his own people, who were enervating their brethren by usury. He rebuked them severely, shamed their greed by his own unselfish service and stopped their practices.

But Nehemiah's restorations went beyond the material things of walls and gates and rates of interest. He restored the Word of God to the people in a true revival in which he had the co-operation of Ezra. The law of Moses was read and explained to the whole populace and the people led to confess their sin and enter into a covenant pledging loyalty to Jehovah.

Repeatedly in the book we see the sense of right relation between faith and works expressed thus, "We made our prayer unto our God, and set a watch against them day and night." Nehemiah would have said with Cromwell, "Trust in God and keep your powder dry." Before God he was justified by his faith alone; before men he proved his faith by his works.

and some of the questions to be considered are as follows. What was God's first covenant with fallen man? Did mankind worship him prior to the flood? What means did God adopt prior to the flood to thwart God's purpose concerning humanity? Were all contaminated? What did God do in consequence? We invite all those who are interested in Bible study to come and study with us.

substitutes if you seek the famous Quaker flavor

THE going to remember when buying breakfast oats is that only Quaker Oats have the rich Quaker flavor that you want.

One package of oats without that flavor may spoil your breakfast for a week.

The price you pay is the same. Thus "trying" a substitute is a folly. Quaker flavor is the result of some 50 years milling experience. No other oats has it. Quaker milling, too, retains much of the "body" of oats. And that makes Quaker oats more satisfying.

Get Quick Quaker, which cooks in 3 to 5 minutes, or regular Quaker Oats as you have always known.

Your grocer has both kinds.

LAST SURVIVOR OF CUSTER'S MASSACRE AT LIBERTY THEATRE

An attraction unlike any that has come to Roseburg in a long time, is a feature at the Liberty Theatre tonight and tomorrow, when the management presents Colonel A. L. Chapman, chief guide and interpreter for General Hub Custer, whose massacre with that of his band in 1876 is one of the bloodiest events of history. Scout Chapman was an actual eye witness of the terrible massacre and the details are still fresh in memory.

Although 84 years old, Scout Chapman's looks belie his age. He was born in California in 1842 and claims to be the oldest living native son. His father, known as "Doc" Chapman to the early pioneers, was the first mayor of Portland, and donated what later was known as Chapman square to that city.

Colonel Chapman was three wounded on the Yellowstone expedition in 1873, and has been decorated for bravery. He wears numerous other medals given for marksmanship etc. Thousands of
