Even closed cars get a draft from the open signaling window, beside the driver's seat and closed car wind wings are offered by the Western Auto Supply Company to answer this need. Here is a sedan with a pair of them and its pilot peeping through the extra plate glass.

FAVORABLE REPORT ON INDIAN CLAIMS EXPECTED SOON

A favorable report on the claim of Western Indians for payment under terms of an old treaty will be given by the senate committee soon, according to the opinion expressed by Senator Stanfield in a message received by G. W. Rapp, attorney in fact for the Indians of this vicinity. The Indians claim that the government took from them all lands lying west of the Cascades and between the state lines, agreeing to pay $12,500,000. The treaty was never ratified, but the government occupied the land as if the treaty had been signed. The matter of payment has been pending in congress for several years. Senator Stanfield in a message received by Mr. Rapp today says: "I am pressing the committee to make a report on the Indian claims in western Oregon, and I believe we shall secure a favorable report within a few days."

WELTERWEIGHT CROWN RESTING ON A NEW HEAD

Pete Latzo, Pride of Coal Region, Beats Walker in Great Fight.

MINERS FILL PURSES

Valley Church Prayers and Bride of Six Months Spur Latzo on to Conquest.

(Associated Press Local Wire.) SCRANTON, Pa., May 21.—Anthracite miners of the Wyoming Valley, home of Pete Latzo, went into the earth today with smiles and bulging pockets—the fruits of an amazing conquest.

Pete Latzo, 23-year-old son of the miners, is welterweight boxing champion of the world. He got the decision in ten rounds last night over Mickey Walker of Elizabeth, N. J., a 2 to 1 favorite.

Walker, who won the crown by a decision over Jack Britton in New York three years ago, lost it in a desperate struggle before 12,000 spectators, most of them friends of Latzo.

Prayers said in the mining region for Latzo's victory were answered. The hunch of his bride that he would become champion was correct.

At times blood spurted from the faces of the combatants. But neither gave an inch. Toe to toe, the youngsters, one the product of the city and the other of the country, lashed out at each other, first one and then the other seeming to have the advantage.

Walker Gives Ground. Latzo had met Mickey before and suffered. But, knowing that many a slender purse had been staked on his chances, Pete fought last fight as never had he fought before. In the first round, blood came from his nose after a pounding at close quarters.

Latzo soon learned that he was fighting the champion's way and shortly he began to step away, to rush in and out with stabbing jolts to the head which time after time drove his adversary to the ropes.

In the fifth, Walker's short right opened a cut under the challenger's left eye, but Latzo rained blows and drove Walker to a corner.

From that time, the miner appeared gaining strength and courage. Every charge was met with a shower of jolts, although he accepted terrific punches to head and body.

Final Rounds Terrific. With miners standing on their chairs and shouting, the last two rounds were terrific, and the final bell found the boxers slugging away at each other with the referee trying to pry them apart. Two judges voted for Latzo and the consensus at the ringside gave him five of the ten rounds, Walker three, and two even.

Latzo entered the ring under the name of "Young Clancy" seven years ago.

Last night's gate receipts were estimated at $90,000, of which Latzo's share was 17 per cent. Walker was guaranteed $30,000 or 37 1/2 per cent of the net receipts.

Prayers Preceded Bout. With seven years' ring experience, Latzo has grown up in an atmosphere of hard coal and hard fists. He has been nine boy, preliminary boxer, baseball star, and now holder of a world's title. Prayers were offered in his behalf in churches of the valley yesterday.

His six months' bride had a hunch he would win. He has the record of having turned the table on all five men who have beaten him. The fifth man is Walker, to whom he lost in 1923.

Carpenter Bout Tonight. NEW YORK, May 21.—Handsome George Carpenter of France tonight makes another effort in the ring.

The former light heavyweight champion of the world, veteran of the World war, who has been a pugilist since he was 12 years old, will tackle Sailor Eddie Huffman of the Pacific coast in a ten round contest at Madison Square Garden.

George is 32 years old. In all of his battles he has given weight to opponents. Four times he has gone before the American public these symphonic leaders who are specializing on symphonic jazz or novelty syncopation are placing real American jazz music on a par with the other forms of symphonic music of the old world.

Wiedoeft, who leads the noted Cinderella Roof Orchestra of Los Angeles, makes no defense of the type of noise jazz, or "low down blues, which he admits, do not inspire its devotees with the highest moral aspirations, but he does maintain that the new symphonic arrangements of syncopated melody deserves a place in the nation's history. Herb will bring his organization to Roseburg next Tuesday night and the engagement is for one night at the Armory.

ORIGINATOR OF SYMPHONIC JAZZ COMING TO CITY

Jazz is the poetry of music and like written poetry, may be defined as a set of symbols to stimulate the imagination, according to Herb Wiedoeft, originator of "symphonic" jazz, he says, marks a new era in dance music, free from grotesque and vulgar performances.

Jazz opponents he characterizes as fly-by-night, mollycoddling music teachers, or limelights, seeking the comforting warmth of the calcium by an attack on the popular taste.

"I have closely watched the effects of jazz music on thousands of dancers," Wiedoeft declares. "I have learned to analyze the dancers' emotions, and for that reason I maintain that jazz is the poetry of melody. It prompts light hearted, spontaneous joyousness, helps the dancers to forget their cares and bestows on them a blissful sense of exaltation and animation. All life is manifestation of motion and the more rhythmic it is the more pleasant.

But to play this new form of syncopation requires trained and schooled musicians. Such music is real music — not noise. And and only once has he been victorious. That was against Battling Levensky.

Huffman is a rugged, upstanding fighter, shifty but lacking the speed of the Frenchman. He has been an "in and out" in his bouts in the east.

Boxing followers favor the chances of Gorgeous Georges, who has trained faithfully for two months in Atlantic City. They argue that he may have lost some of his speed, but that he still possesses the weapon that nearly shook the heavyweight crown from the head of Dempsey at Boyle's Thirty Acres, a lightning right hand.
