

PROGRAM TO ENTERTAIN CAMP FIRE WORKER

Miss Rowe Wright, of New York City, editor-in-chief of all the Camp Fire Girls' publications of which "Every Girl" is the most prominent, will arrive here Wednesday from Stockton, California, where she has been attending the Camp Fire Girls' convention, in which her work played an important part, to be the guest of the Camp Fire groups of Roseburg June 9 and 10.

Miss Wright is a very talented and brilliant woman and is an artist as well as a writer. Her poetry and articles are well known to readers in the east.

The program will open Wednesday with a picnic at 1 o'clock at the business men of the city will leave from the Rose Hotel at 12:30 o'clock for the park. It is expected that a large representation from the groups of Myrtle Creek, Glendale, Medford and Oakland will be present for the program, and any visiting member of the organization, who would like to remain for the day, attending the picnic and evening meeting and have no plans for the day between these affairs may call Mrs. H. N. Graybill, who will provide hostesses for them as the girls of the local groups are anxious to make the stay of the visitors as interesting as possible.

At 6 o'clock Wednesday evening Miss Wright will be the guest at a dinner given by the Camp Fire Board of Sponsors of Roseburg and the guardians at the Hotel Rose.

Following the dinner at 8 o'clock, a meeting at the high school will be held, and Miss Wright will talk on Camp Fire work. A program by the Roseburg and Myrtle Creek groups will be given in conjunction with the talk. It is Miss Wright's wish, as well as that of the sponsors and Camp Fire groups, to bring to the people of Roseburg the importance of the work carried on by the organization and the valuable information learned by the members in the course of their work.

On Thursday Miss Wright will be a guest at the Rotary luncheon at the Hotel Umpqua and will give a short talk on the organization.

HOOD RIVER LEGION BOOSTS NEW MAIL LINE

(Associated Press Local Wire.)

PORTLAND, Ore., June 8.—A new mail line in Oregon was provided by the American Legion post at Hood River to boost its annual climb up Mt. Hood on July 4th. A party of Hood River guides climbed to the top of Hood

Sunday from the north side. They were met at the summit by party of Portland Mazamas who had climbed the south side. A pack of 1500 letters addressed to various Portland business houses and the press was turned over to the Mazamas, who brought them to Portland and mailed them.

EX-HUSBAND NOT DYNAMITER, IDEA OF AUTHORITIES

HILLSBORO, Ore., June 8.—That Percy Cane seems to have nothing to do with the dynamiting of the house in Forest Grove early Sunday morning is the opinion of Washington county officers, based upon evidence gathered after thorough investigation. He was at Ben Smith's ranch four miles east of Yamhill when the explosion took place, investigation shows.

Chief Deputy Sheriff George Alexander is still investigating the case, however.

Cane was taken into custody because of being the divorced husband of Mrs. Helen Cane, who with her mother, Mrs. A. W. Milne, was in the house at the time of the explosion.

When the divorce was granted last December the 6-year-old boy was given to his father three months of the year. Friday the father had taken the youngster to his Yamhill home for the summer months.

BIGAMIST FAILS TO PUT OVER DEFENSE OF DOUBLE COUSIN

(Associated Press Local Wire.)

OREGON CITY, Ore., June 8.—John A. Atterbury was convicted of bigamy here late yesterday after a woman whom he claimed was not his wife had testified that he was her husband. The prosecuting attorney charged that he married Mabel Van Meir here several months ago while he had a legally wedded wife living in another part of the state. He denied that he had ever been married before and asserted that Mrs. Atterbury, who testified against him, had mistaken him for his double cousin, John Martin Atterbury, in appearance as well as relationship. Atterbury will be sentenced later in the week.

SWEETHEART OF ACCUSED MAN IN COOS STEADFAST

(Associated Press Local Wire.)

MARSHFIELD, Ore., June 8.—Miss Louise Alexander of Summer, who was to have been married last Saturday to Clifford Elford, arrested that day on a charge of first degree murder, declared with tears streaming down her face, "I'll stick to him through thick and thin." She made this statement after seeing him at his cell in Coquille yesterday.

The sheriff's office will not allow any but his parents, sweetheart and attorney to see him, newspapermen being barred from interviewing the 21-year-old youth. The date of the arraignment has not been fixed, but it is expected that he will be bound over to the grand jury without bail.

Elford is charged with killing his uncle, William Whobrey.

BROOKHART CHOICE OF IOWA G. O. P.

fourth district. Haugen shares authorship of the McNary-Haugen bill of 1925, which has served as the model of all subsequent measures by which the west has hoped to obtain agricultural success.

The Democrats apparently nominated, in closer light between four candidates, Claude R. Porter, assistant attorney general in the Wilson administration and the favorite of the McAdoo wing in Iowa.

Returns from 602 precincts gave Porter 8,033; James Murlagh 4,399; J. Ray Files 4,453; George Finch 1,565.

Murlagh was accounted the candidate favored by the faction which in 1924 supported Al Smith's presidential nomination. Files is a former state legislator and Finch ran on a "wet" platform.

Six Republican congressmen were renominated without opposition. The five who faced contests apparently have been renominated over their opponents.

Cummins' Long Career Over.

The Republican senatorial primary left in the wake of Brookhart's triumph the figure of Iowa's most honored Republican of other years. Cummins had served his state twice as governor, had been in the senate for three terms and the unexpired portion of a fourth, had been offered to the Republican party as its presidential candidate almost a score of years ago, and had come in 1923 to the presidency of the senate when Coolidge succeeded Harding. The retirement of Cummins, at 76, by a progressive recall, his own accession to the senate as an insurgent Republican almost two decades ago.

Brookhart Rises From Defeat.

Brookhart won yesterday from the men he first opposed for public office. He sought the Republican senatorial nomination against Cummins in 1920 and lost. Two years later W. S. Kenyon resigned from the senate and Brookhart was nominated from a field of eight to succeed him. Again in 1924 Brookhart was nominated, for a full term, but after the primary the state committee openly endorsed Dan F. Steck, his Democratic foe, and Steck successfully contested before the senate a vote which had greatly surprised Brookhart's supporters by its closeness.

Brookhart made an issue in the late campaign of his unseating by the senate and asked Iowa voters to give him a vote of confidence which his opponents could not challenge.

Democrats Hopeful.

His victory, although the President had not raised his voice in support of his principal opponent, is regarded by his supporters as a setback for the administration, which is even more definite than the overturning of McKinley in Illinois or Pepper in Pennsylvania. The Democratic contest was much warmer than normally, because of the good fortune of Steck in 1924 and the belief of party leaders that the nomination of Brookhart would create a situation analogous to that of 1921 when Steck went to the senate as his party's first envoy to that body from Iowa since Civil war days.

Overman's Lead Grows.

RALEIGH, N. C., June 8.—Belated returns from Saturday's primary give Senator Lee S. Overman a steadily increasing lead in his race against Robert Reynolds for the Democratic nomination for United States senator.

With 1,160 precincts out of 1,717 reported, the count stood: Overman 58,959; Reynolds 64,395. Representative A. L. Belwinkle and Representative Weaver of the ninth and tenth congressional districts respectively, continued far in the lead over their opponents for the congressional re-nomination.

Cummins Grateful. WASHINGTON, June 8.—"I have nothing to say except to express in this way my deep appreciation to my friends in Iowa for their constant, untiring work in my behalf," was the comment of Senator Cummins today on the Iowa primaries results.

"They have done everything for me that loyal, unselfish men and women could do. I am profoundly grateful to them, and this gratitude will continue so long as I live."

Florida Voting Today

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 8.—Florida Democrats go to the polls in a party primary today to select nominees for one United States senator and two congressmen, with chief interest centering on the congressional race in the fourth district where Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owens, daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan, opposes William Joe Sears of Kissimmee, in Old Guard Regretful.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Loud and persistent were the political echoes awakened in Washington by the sweeping vote of confidence given Former Senator Brookhart yesterday in his contest in Iowa against Senator Cummins.

By the Republican insurgents the outcome of the primary was acclaimed as a double victory, vindicating the stand they had taken against Brookhart's recent exclusion from the senate and adding new support to their campaign for reaching legislation to aid the farmer.

Among administration officials comment was confined largely to expressions of regret that one of the veterans of the senate apparently had fallen before a returning tide of insurgency.

Senator Cummins himself had nothing to say beyond an expression of gratitude to those who supported him.

GOOD DEMAND FOR LABOR ON COAST

PORTLAND, June 8.—Berry pickers are in heavy demand throughout the fruit districts of western Oregon and Washington, and last week growers were advertising for large numbers of workers, according to the 41 employment center published here today. Prices for picking are slightly higher than those of last year, the letter said.

Pir logging, however, is not so active as it was two months ago. During the past few days a few large camps have been closed down and sides laid off at several others. Lumber manufacturing in the fir districts is also at a lower level than it was in April, night shifts having been given up in many operations. Announcements made last week by some concerns point to a possible repair shut-down earlier than usual.

There appears to be no let-up of building and construction activity, the 41 letter stated. All towns and cities report a large amount of this work being done, and men in the building trade are well employed. The strike in some of the trades at Aberdeen and Hoquiam, Wash., was brought to a close late last week and after nearly four weeks of inactivity, work has been resumed.

Many contracts for highway paving have been let during the past month and several of these jobs are now getting under way, with consequent demand for men. Railroad work is employing about the usual number of extra gangs on section and construction work. In general, there is at present little necessary unemployment along the west coast.

MARKET RATINGS

(Associated Press Local Wire.)

PORTLAND, Ore., June 8.—Mid-summer temperatures have stimulated the demand for fruits and melons in the local market. Supplies are coming in now in fairly liberal quantities but they are moving out promptly and prices are strong to fractionally higher on most lines.

Strawberries are scarce with the crop almost gone. Recent arrivals have been poor quality due to the excessive heat but were taken at firm levels. Best fruit selling at $2.50 to $2.75 a crate wholesale. Raspberries and loganberries are more plentiful with the harvest just getting into full swing. Prices vary from $2.25 to $2.60 a crate on the logans. Black caps and blackberries are still scarce with the local just opening. Prices on initial shipments have ranged about 50 cents a crate higher than raspberries.

Apples and plums from California are going at $1.75 to $2.00 a box. Early June apples in big boxes, containing about 20 pounds, sell for $2 to $2.25. Fresh figs are held at $1.50 to $1.75 a flat.

Cherries are plentiful with prices varying according to variety and quality. Some fancy stock of Lam-berts and Hings up to 17c. Bulk offerings of Royal Anns and Hings selling at 7c to 10c with common pie cherries at 5c to 7c a pound.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 8.—Eggs: Receipts up to 1c. Current receipts 25c; fresh medium 28c; fresh standard firsts 26c; fresh standard extras 27c. Butter steady. Extra cubes, city 35c; standards 38c; prime firsts 37c; firsts 36c; prints 41c; cartons 42c.

Milk steady. Best churning cream 39c net shippers' truck in zone 1. Cream delivered Portland 41c. Raw milk (4 per cent) $2.50 cwt. f. o. b. Portland.

Poultry steady; heavy hens 25c; light 20c to 21c; springs, white 21c; do colored up to 26c; young white ducks 40c.

Potatoes quiet and inactive, slow moving, $1.50.

Onions quiet and inactive, slow moving, $1.75 to $2.00.

Nuts quiet. Walnuts No. 1, 18c to 24c; fiberts nominal; almonds 30c to 34c; Brazil nuts nominal; Oregon chestnuts nominal; peanuts 9c to 11c.

Cascara bark quiet, 7c. Oregon grape root nominal. Hops steady. Old crop 30c bid; 3-year contracts 22c; 1926 contracts 24c to 25c.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 8.—Cattle nominally steady; receipts cattle 15; calves 5. Hefers, common and medium $4.50 to $5.50; cows, common and medium $4.00 to $4.75; vealers medium to choice $2.00 to $2.55.

Hogs nominally steady; receipts 30.

Sheep steady; no receipts. Lambs, medium to choice (84 lbs. down) $11.00 to $13.00; lambs, culls and common $8.50 to $11.00; yearling wethers, medium to choice $8.00 to $10.00; ewes, common to choice $4.00 to $5.00; culls and canners $2.00 to 4.00.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—Berries: Raspberries 30c to 1.25 crate; blackberries (Ceres) 25c to 30c drawer; Watsonville 70c to 80c crate; strawberries 60c to 75c; few 85c drawer; loganberries 25c to 30c drawer.

Cherries: Royal Anns 7c to 15c; Blings 10c to 16c; small low as 8c.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 8.—Wheat: HBB hard white, soft white, HBB hard white, soft hard white, bluestem, baart, federation $1.33; hard winter, northern spring $1.32; western red $1.30.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 8.—Current receipt eggs are a cent higher on the local exchange at 26c cents. Receipts have fallen off slightly during the last few days due to the hot weather and demand for fresh stock is keen. Arrivals yesterday were reported at 629 cases. Jobbers say that high temperatures have already commenced to reflect in the quality with an increasing loss in candling. Other grades of fresh eggs are steady and unchanged.

Butter remains steady and unchanged in the local market. Receipts yesterday amounted to 27,954 pounds with the make of local creameries placed at 28,751 pounds. Storage holdings throughout the coast are increasing rapidly. Stocks in local coolers now total 441,227 pounds.

Country dressed veal is dragging again with the demand limited to strictly fancy calves. Prices are down to 14 and 14 1/2 cents on good calves with 15 cents the extreme top on fancy veal. Choice light hogs remain firm and scarce at 20c to 21c.

Values are still holding steady on live poultry in the local market.

It Talks!

"IT TALKS!" exclaimed the astounded Dom Pedro, Emperor of Brazil, one June day in 1876, as he held to his ear the receiver of Alexander Graham Bell's telephone, then on exhibit at the Philadelphia centennial exposition, while the young inventor, some distance away, spoke into the transmitter.

Time has not detracted from the drama of this scene, nor robbed the emperor's tribute of its truth. Fifty remarkable years have passed. Important among their contributions to human progress has been the development of Bell's idea into a nationwide, universal telephone service. But the wonder of the telephone is still that which arrested men's thoughts a half century ago—that it can talk.

Herein lies its unique value to the individual and the nation. It provides, as nothing else can, a means of speeding over great distances, privately and without interruption, the intimate, personal tones of the human voice. It projects personality. It unites millions of Americans, though separated by the breadth of a continent, into a single vast commonwealth of speech.

THE NEW UNION PACIFIC TYPE LOCOMOTIVE

The American Locomotive Company recently delivered to the Union Pacific a 4-12-2 type locomotive, the first completed of what will be known as the Union Pacific Type, Series 9000. It is the largest, fastest and most powerful non-articulated steam power unit ever built. It weighs less per unit of power developed, and delivers more power at higher speed than any other steam locomotive. It reduces the number of trains required for a given traffic, increases the carrying capacity of the Union Pacific System and expedites the movement of freight. It is capable of hauling mile-long freight trains at a passenger train speed. The first of these new monarchs will be used between Cheyenne, Wyoming, and Ogden, Utah.

Total weight of the locomotive, in running order, including tender, is 782,000 pounds; total length over all, with tender, 102 feet 6 1/2 inches; height (approximately that of the average bungalow) 18 feet 1 1/2 inches; width 11 feet 2 inches; height of driving wheels 5 feet 7 inches; speed 60 miles per hour; tractive power 55,000 pounds; it has six pairs of driving wheels and carries 15,000 gallons of water.

When Company Comes

WHEN the Carringtons found at the last minute that they would be detained in New York for about a week, en route to Atlantic City, they decided to look up the Frasers, Uncle Henry and Aunt Edna were eager to meet their nephew's wife and children. Cousin Fred suggested telephoning first. But they couldn't find the number, so decided to take a chance.

They were welcomed with a sincerity that rang true. Margaret Fraser didn't seem at all flustered. After establishing them comfortably in their rooms, she informed them that dinner would be ready in twenty minutes, and slipped away to the kitchen. The visitors were amazed to find that Margaret's "twenty minutes" meant just that. They expected to find only a hasty snack, but instead, sat down to a five-course dinner. It was delicious. Finally, Aunt Edna could not restrain her curiosity. She begged Margaret to explain how she had managed it.

"O, this is one of my emergency 'shelf dinners,'" her hostess replied smilingly. "I keep one pantry shelf stocked with a variety of foods that are ready-to-serve. So, when I have to get up a hurried meal, or have extra guests, I don't need to run to the grocery for additional food, nor delay dinner until it is cooked. I merely open a few cans. And, since canned foods are already prepared and cooked, I have time to blend them with other foods and dress them up in various attractive ways."

After dinner, Margaret wrote out for Aunt Edna the following menu suggestions:

HALF-HOUR DINNER MENUS

Grapefruit Cocktails
Consommé
Sweet Potatoes Sauté
Corn with Green Peppers
Stringless Bean Salad
Canned Apricots with Whipped Cream
Coffee
Hot d'Ouvres
(Sardines, Olives and Celery)
Cream of Tomato Soup
Salmon Soufflé
Spinach and Eggs
Pineapple and Cheese Salad
Fruit Cake
Coffee
Mixed Fruit Cocktails
Chicken Broth
Irish Stew
Buttered Stringless Beans
Asparagus Salad
Apple Whip
Cheese
Coffee.

Canned fruits, Margaret told Aunt Edna, are so handy for cocktails, salads and desserts. The juice may be saved to make refreshing drinks. Canned applesauce mixed with the beaten whites of eggs makes delicious Apple Whip. Both mixed fruits and grapefruit come ready-prepared for salad, saving much time and work.

Aunt Edna's attention was also called to the fact that sweet notes toes, prepared and cooked, now come in cans, so that they may be quickly sauté or candied. Tinned poultry, meats, and fish may be served cold or re-heated, or cut up and mixed with other ingredients. The Irish stew suggested in one of the menus is quickly prepared by cutting up tinned beef and mixing it with canned vegetable soup. Diced potatoes may be added, and of course, sufficient water to give the right consistency.

Canned spinach requires only a brief re-heating, Margaret explained. Cheese now comes in tin, and thus keeps moist indefinitely. In fact, Aunt Edna was amazed to learn how many different kinds of foods are now put up in this convenient form. For she had gone on in the old-fashioned way of preparing and cooking everything herself.

"The modern housewife who does not take advantage of the convenience of commercially prepared foods is just as foolish as her husband would be, if he refused to use modern, improved equipment in his business," Margaret declared. "I find I can give much more of my time and strength to my husband and children by leaving the tedious preliminaries of cookery to the canners. Besides, canned foods are less expensive than fresh, especially when one takes advantage of sales. There is no waste, in them, either. And they save the wages of a servant. My only servant—but a very efficient one—is the improved can opener."

Women Impair Health In Craze For "Boyish Form"

DR. M. S. GREGORY, M.D., NEWARK, N.J.

MENTAL factors, both as causes and results of weight reduction, were discussed at the Adult Weight Conference, which has just been held in the New York Academy of Medicine, at the joint request of officials of the American Medical Association and the editor of the Dollinet magazine, Mrs. Williams Brown Meloney.

It was generally conceded by the twenty-five eminent scientists—including physiologists, dietitians, and statisticians—that if people think right they will eat right, and if they eat right, they will weigh right. Many of the problems now puzzling experts in the relation of mind and body, the human weight could be solved if men and women—particularly women—could be induced to think in right channels.

Much of the nation's thought, right now—according to the 20,000 letters from women readers received within a few months by the Dollinet, and which brought about the calling of this Conference—is centered on the question: "How can I reduce my weight?"

Few pause to ask, "Is anything wrong with my present weight, and can I safely make the changes decreed by fashion?"

The "boyish form" is the fashionable ideal of womanly beauty in America. That this is not true in Europe was stated by Mrs. Meloney at the Conference, in which she said: "We are the only nation in the world that has gone to the extreme in wearing a boyish figure. The French women are too wise for that. They want to look like women. They don't want to look like boys. They know their hold on the French men won't last very long if they begin to look like a lot of boys because the Latin isn't made that way."

"There is a whole psychological problem brought up here in the matter of dress. The French dressmakers design certain types of clothes for Europe and other types for America. There is no use asking French people to start new fashions, because they are only making the kind of clothes we want because we want that kind, not because they think they are beautiful, because they don't. Their great fashion designers state that we Americans are the only people in the world who want to look like barber poles and that it is not good for the health."

Dr. Monas S. Gregory, who has had almost unequalled opportunity to observe the workings of the mind, in his professional capacity as professor of psychiatry at New York University and director of the large psychiatric department of Bellevue Hospital, New York City, discussed the mental factors in connection with the present-day fad for the "boyish form." He told of two hundred and twenty-five recent cases of women whose relatives stated that their mental troubles had begun after they started to diet.

"This was not the real factor in their break-down, but played an important part as an exciting cause that brought about the final break," said Dr. Gregory. "There are two ways in which excessive dieting contributes to a mental weakness—first, the mental anxiety to reduce, and second, the physical weakness or exhaustion which comes from actual reduction. In all cases of reduction, when the individual is willing to resort to all means of reducing her weight, it is found that the starting point really is a mental condition, that the weight problem has a very deep interest in the make-up or in the mental life of the individual. Among the mentally sick patients at Bellevue Hospital, there is much talk about 'reducing' and not infrequently a patient refuses to eat, saying the food is too fattening."

Mrs. Wm. B. Meloney, Dollinet editor, said: "We are the only nation in the world that has gone to the extreme in wearing a boyish figure. The French women are too wise for that. They want to look like women. They don't want to look like boys. They know their hold on the French men won't last very long if they begin to look like a lot of boys because the Latin isn't made that way."

"There is a whole psychological problem brought up here in the matter of dress. The French dress-
