SOUTHERN COUNTRY BOY KNOWS NATURAL HISTORY

BEREA, Ky., July 15.—A close-up of the nature-loving country boy of the Southland this summer days is offered by John F. Smith, Berea College professor, vice president of the Kentucky Folklore society.

While everybody in Dixie, from early childhood to late in life, plays a good part of the time, the average country boy's intimate knowledge would fill a good-sized volume of natural history.

He knows his swimming hole, habits of minnows, groundhog, rabbit, squirrel, other animals. Discovers hiding place of barn owl, screech owl, flying squirrel.

YOU TELL 'EM

"A chorus girl would make a fortune if she were a centipede!"

And we would make a fortune, too, if every car owner in Douglas County knew about the Hawkinson System Tire Repairing—and tried it just once. We would have to triple the size of our plant.

THRILL HUNTERS

CHAPTER 12
"Amy's gone," Clare told the boy, now the Dr. Dean of Atkins. "She's going to New York!"

"Well, as her go," he answered rather shortly. "It was only a matter of time anyway."

"But—she'll have to go too!"

"Then he sat down beside her and she pressed her face against his arm so the tears wouldn't bother."

"You don't have to go, Clare. You belong here. With me. You know that, don't you? Little kid—"

He kissed her gently. "Some one's got to do your work and I'll be through at the hospital in a few weeks. We can be married right away and stay here—"

"I don't believe Amy'd sell the house. It will be a happy, normal life, dear; not like what you'd have to face with her in New York."

He kissed her again. "Some one's got to do your work and I'll be through at the hospital in a few weeks. We can be married right away and stay here—"

As New York Sees It

(By The Associated Press)

Most people who manage to keep up with the times to the extent of including some of the latest jazz in their repertoire, but the Brooklyn section of the city has an organ player who absolutely refuses to lower his art with tin can symphonies.

From his battered instrument he churns out exclusively the melodies popular a score or more years ago. "Little Annie Rooney," "Sweet Rosie O'Grady," and "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree" are among the ancient tunes that delight the ear and quicken the step of some of the older inhabitants.

Surrounded by skyscrapers and with automobile horns audible from their nests day and night, the wild ducks in the lakes of Central Park have added an unusually large quota of ducklings to the city's youngsters.

Despite the troubling of the waters by rowing enthusiasts who crowd the lakes with the coming of warm weather the fluffy ducklings seem to thrive. Their antics are a source of delight to the city youngsters.

Sulphur Springs and other resorts are confronted with rivalry in New York City. The owners of one bath in the city have installed equipment for sulphur and other mineral baths which it is claimed have the same health benefits as those provided by nature.

Fifth Avenue, which has set the mode for everything from madame's gowns to automobile bodies, has added another to its long list of industries.

Set among exclusive shops in the Twenties is a small shop dealing exclusively in curios. Many old or cheap hand-made articles, but this is, so far as is known, the first "specialty shop."

"The advent of summer annually makes the Hudson a picturesque sight along Riverside drive, from which can be seen hundreds of boats anchored about the various bays."

Near the center of the stream are the ocean going yachts, some veritable passenger boats, while the others grade downward to the tiniest of motor boats. They are few and far between, these being anchored in waters where there is more room to manipulate them.

For weeks, smart laborers have been displaying in their window red, green and yellow felt caps for men. But the male New Yorker seems disinclined to violate a biologic discipline for highly colored head gear. The hats are in the window and few are observed on the streets.

New York police declare that the past month has been the most since the democratic convention in Madison Square Garden. They have acted as escorts for the Crown Prince of Sweden, President Louis Borno, of Haiti, eight red-nosed cardinals from various parts of Europe and the British lords, and celebrities.

KITCHEN CUPBOARD

By NELLIE MAXWELL

THE following recipes are, like the pleasure, a pleasant garnish, but not fit for constant wear.

Sweetbreads With Orange Sauce.—Cover sweetbreads with ice cold water, adding a tablespoonful of vinegar. Let stand an hour, then parboil twenty minutes. Cut into cubes and brown in butter. Serve in the following sauce: One cupful of brown stock thickened with two tablespoons each of flour and butter and add one-half cupful of finely grated yellow rind of an orange with a tablespoonful of the juice and one tablespoonful of orange marmalade. Let cook all together until boiling, then pour over the sweetbreads.

Current Jelly Sauce for Game.—Slice one onion and cook in three tablespoons of butter until just brown. Add two tablespoons of flour, one bay leaf, a sprig of celery and stir until smooth. Add a cupful of good seasoned stock, simmer twenty minutes, strain, skim off the fat, add one-half cupful of currant jelly and stir over the fire until melted.

Chicken Fillets.—Remove the fillets carefully from the breast of the fowl, sprinkle with salt and pepper and a dash of cayenne. Dip in olive oil and cook in a hot pan until a delicate brown. Add to the pan one cupful of equal parts of cream and white stock. When hot, thicken with two tablespoons of flour rubbed to a paste with an equal quantity of cream. Stir until the sauce boils, then add one-half cupful of thinly sliced almonds.

Panned Chicken With Corn Fritters.—Joint a young chicken and put to roast, pour over a cupful of broth and let cook an hour and a half, basting every ten minutes. When tender remove the chicken, which has been well seasoned while cooking. Prepare a well-browned sauce and serve with a garnish of corn fritters around the chicken on a hot platter.

Is Age Controlled by Glands?

Dr. Serge Voronoff of France, famous physician and surgeon, who has devoted years to research and experimentation with glandular treatment, says: "A man is worth only as much as his glands."

Dr. Arnold Lorand says in his book, "Old Age Deferred," in speaking of the glands: "We must insist upon the reinforcement of their functions if changed by age or disease by means of extracts obtained from the similar organs of healthy animals."

The new scientific formula—Glandogen—embodies this method. Glandogen is a highly concentrated gland compound in convenient compact tablet form which combines the important extracts of the vital glands of healthy young animals with other efficacious ingredients. Hundreds of keen-eyed men and women are today taking Glandogen. Accept no substitutes. Insist on genuine Glandogen, the original gland tonic. Chapman's drug store will supply you.
