ROSEBURG AND ROSES.

Roseburg's climate has long been acclaimed by unbiased observers as unexcelled in the west, but no greater tribute was ever paid to the equable quality of its weather, as well as to the productiveness of its soil, than that conveyed by the decision of Canadian floriculturists to establish a rose growing plant near the edge of the city.

It is a happy coincidence that the name of the city's founder and that of its chief floral product are the same. Not everyone aware of the existence of Roseburg also knows the origin of its name.

The fact that Roseburg is already famous for its roses is of great advertising value at the start for the Canadian firm which is to give us such an appropriate enterprise.

OLD TIMES.

'Tis but a little while ago that coaches journeyed to and fro, in bright and brave array; with creaking straps and jingling rings the horses, proud ambitious things, sped down the right of way.

MEXICAN TRIED TO GRAFT COIN, AIMEE CHARGES

The fact that a message bearing the name of Ormiston as sender was dispatched, was confirmed at the offices of the telegraph company. A Norriok return address was given, it was said, but again the company would not permit this or the nature of the message to be made public.

STATESVILLE, N. C., July 17.—A man believed by authorities to be Kenneth Ormiston, sought in connection with the case of Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson of Los Angeles, was reported to have been in this city last night.

Mrs. L. P. Lyons told police today a young man appeared at her home about 8:30 p. m., and asked permission to use the telephone.

Mrs. Lyons described the man as a "neatly dressed" and said that he was driving a sport model automobile of expensive make, which bore no license tag.

JACUMBA HOT SPRINGS, Cal., July 17.—B. L. Vaughn, manager of the Jacumba Hot Springs company, which owns and operates apartments here, said today that a heavily veiled woman who arrived there with two men a day after Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson disappeared from Los Angeles, was either the Los Angeles evangelist or one other woman whose name he is checking.

Tracing Aimee's Flight. SAN DIEGO, Calif., July 17.—Armed with information tending to indicate that Aimee Semple McPherson was in Jacumba Hot Springs several days after she disappeared while bathing in the surf at Ocean Park, May 18, Deputy District Attorney Joe Ryan of Los Angeles county, and Chief of Detectives Herman Cline, of the Los Angeles police department, are on their way to San Diego and this afternoon are to continue their journey to Jacumba to question several residents there.

That Mrs. McPherson and two men spent part of one day and an entire night in Jacumba Springs is the belief of Bert Vaughn, owner of the Jacumba Hot Springs resort; Walter Cline, manager of the Hotel Vaughn there; Mrs. Cline, and another man whose name has thus far not been made public, but who is to be interviewed by the Los Angeles officials.

Description of the woman as given by Vaughn, Mr. and Mrs. Cline is said to tally with that of Mrs. McPherson, and the descriptions of the men are declared to fit in with data secured by Los Angeles police and officers of the district attorney's office in their investigation of the sensational disappearance of the well known evangelist at Ocean Park and her dramatic reappearance several weeks later in Agua Prieta, Mexico and Douglas, Arizona.

In telling of the visit by the women and the two men at Jacumba Springs, Bert Vaughn said: "A few days following the disappearance of Mrs. McPherson, a large blue car drove up to the hotel. I did not learn the make of the car, but I believe it was of foreign manufacture."

"The driver, who appeared to be a hired driver, came to the hotel office and requested accommodations for the trio. The hotel was suggested but they seemed to want seclusion, so we put them up in the apartments. All meals were served in the rooms, and the next morning the maid found a note on the table in one of the rooms, with money for the rent enclosed. The entire affair seemed peculiar to me, and when Cline suggested the woman might be Aimee McPherson, I laughed at the idea. Then we dug up some pictures which had appeared in the newspapers and the woman in the car, though she kept her veil as much as possible, bore a marked resemblance to Mrs. McPherson. Everything was so mysterious that I believe the woman was Mrs. McPherson."

Mrs. Walter Cline said, "I was much impressed with the woman in the car. I remarked to some guests on the porch of the hotel that it is rather odd now days to see a woman with long hair. We are all certain that it was Mrs. McPherson who visited here."

Manager Walter Cline, of the Hotel Vaughn corroborated the statements of Vaughn and Mrs. Cline.

DOVER MURDER CASE SUSPECT IS RELEASED (Associated Press Leased Wire.) PORTLAND, Ore., July 17.—The sheriff's office yesterday released a man who had been held for investigation on suspicion that he was Frank T. Hart, one of two men sought in connection with the killing of Thomas Dover, Kelo, Washington, editor, who was slain June, 1925. Two deputy sheriffs from Kelo declared the man, who gave the name of M. G. Winans, was not Hart.

ALLEGED KIN OF W. A. CLARK ARE LOSERS IN SUIT

Jury Finds Plaintiffs Not Daughters of the Late Montana Senator.

APPEAL TO BE TAKEN

Verdict, If Upheld, Means Legitimate Children Not Required to Share Estate.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

BUTTE, Mont., July 16.—Claims of Edie Clark McWilliams and Alma E. Clark Haines, of Clarksville, Mo., and Mrs. Addie L. Clark Miller, of Denver, to a share in the $1,000,000 estate of the late Senator W. A. Clark of Montana were denied last night by a jury in the court of District Judge J. J. Lynch.

An appeal will be taken at once, according to Ed C. Hyde, of Kansas City, chief counsel for the three women.

In arriving at its decision the jury found there never had been any marriage between the late senator and Tabatha C. Brooks, mother of the three claimants, as they alleged. Answering other interrogatories propounded by the court for determination in reaching a decision on the claims of the three sisters, the jury declared itself satisfied with evidence of the marriages of Senator Clark and Kate Stauffer and Anna Lachapelle and of the relationship between the former mining magnate and the five children of his two marriages who participate under the terms of the will which had been attacked.

The suit of the three claimants to daughters' shares in the estate of the late senator was predicated on their claims that Senator Clark married their mother in 1869 in Missouri and that he deserted her and her three daughters ten years later.

BOYS BAND WILL GIVE FREE SHOW WEDNESDAY NIGHT

When John Phillip Sousa, world's greatest band leader, was in Omaha, he was greeted by Father Pausanias' Boys' Home Band. He said the reception he received from these orphaned boys at the depot was more to him than the receptions from royal personages on his many European tours.

Mr. Sousa praised the homeless boys' band and said it was one of the best groups of juvenile entertainers he has ever seen. Father Pausanias' Boys' Home Band is called by critics everywhere "The Greatest Boys' Show on Earth."

"The Greatest Boys' Show on Earth" will be in Roseburg on Wed., July 21st. They will give one performance at Court House Band Stand at 8:15 p. m. Admission is free.

Dan Desdunes, one of the best known band masters of the middle-west, has taken final charge of the show, adding the touches on a show that is already accorded to be a real musical comedy hit.

head, then tied the champion in a clinch. The challenger ripped his left to Berlenbach's body and Paul covered up. Delaney drove his left to the ribs and then followed with a second body blow and the referee warned him for hitting low.

Round Eight. Both blocked right hands. Then Delaney got by Paul's guard to slip a damaging right to the challenger's chin. With one arm locked, Berlenbach peppered away at Delaney's ribs with his left. The champion caught Delaney in a corner and drove both hands to the head and body. The challenger appeared to be weakening under the strength of Berlenbach's extra poundage, as Berlenbach's left brought fresh blood from Delaney's nose and mouth.

Round Nine. Delaney missed a sweeping right uppercut, then clinched. They both bumped away at the body. Delaney slipped in side stepping one of Paul's rushes and dropped to one knee, but came right up. The champion appeared as strong as ever as he ripped his left to Delaney's unprotected body. They clinched and wrestled more frequently as Delaney appeared to be tiring.

Round Ten. Blood was streaming out of Delaney's nose as he came up for the round and the champion rushed him all over the ring with both gloves to the head and body. Berlenbach took Delaney's right to the glove but couldn't stop a left to the jaw. They traded rights to the head. Delaney was backing up at every charge. With a desperate leap Delaney leaped with his left and drove his right to Paul's chin but the effort was tiring and he took a steady rain to the body, backing up. They were fighting hard at the bell.

Round Eleven. The challenger looked haggard as he came up. They swapped weak lefts to the body. Delaney tapped Berlenbach gently with his right but took the full steam of Berlenbach's left to the ribs. Berlenbach bounced a right to Delaney's nose, but took a stiff right to the jaw. The champion was taking all his challenger could shoot without backing up. Berlenbach tapped Delaney's nose again but almost crumpled up under Delaney's countering right to the body as the bell rang.

Round Twelve. Two of Delaney's rights went wild before he drove his weakening right to Paul's chin. A stinging right uppercut hurt Berlenbach and the crowd yelled in the challenger to follow up, but he was content to let Berlenbach come back for more. Another right to the head, followed by a glancing left, stunned the champion and Berlenbach held on. Two rights to the head brought a faint trickle of blood from Berlenbach's left eye. A wild right and left uppercut found their mark to the champion's chin and the crowd went wild, but the bell halted Delaney's grueling attack.

Round Thirteen. The challenger came up renewed strength. He pumped his left to Berlenbach's body and then shot over a right to the chin and one champion grasped for the body. Berlenbach appeared to be losing heart, another right to the body, and forced him to clinch. Berlenbach reeled under the power of Delaney's trip-hammer right to the jaw, but as compensation he sent a right to the ribs and head. A rest to the head staggered the champion. Then Delaney turned out around with a crushing right. The crowd yelled maniacally to the challenger, but the bell stopped hostilities.

Round Fourteen. Delaney boxing cleverly, took Paul's left lead on the glove, then drove a glancing right to the jaw. A rest uppercut almost knocked the champion and he grabbed into ropes to save himself from going down. It was a stunning fall and the spectators cheered the exit. At once quarters Delaney slipped over a short right and the crowd trickled upon Berlenbach's face from his cut left eye. The champion was snoot with his rest and Delaney painted a well timed right uppercut on the jaw. Delaney sent over another underhand to body as the bell sounded.

Round Fifteen. They shook hands. The crowd cheered the challenger as he slipped to the face with his left. Berlenbach stung Delaney with a right to the head and dropped his rest to the body. Delaney missed with one right lead but a second landed on Paul's open jaw. Paul sent a weak left to the head and then clinched. Another right uppercut forced Paul to clinch. A left to the head and a tripping trip-hammer right to the body staggered the title holder. It was a stirring rally. A right, travelling only a few inches, caught Berlenbach under the chin and it almost floored him. They were punching hard at the bell.
