STORM LOSS AT PALM BEACH IS SET AT MILLION

Uprooted Trees and Debris Dot Streets; Business Zone Paralyzed.

SHIPPING HARD HIT

Vessel With Excursionists Unaccounted For—Loss at Miami Is Placed at $100,000.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

Residents along the coasts of upper Florida, Georgia and South Carolina prepared today for the coming of the West Indian hurricane, which was moving up the coast of Florida, after lashing the southern borders of that state yesterday and last night.

While Miami, West Palm Beach, and the cities in the wake of the storm took toll of the damage, St. Augustine, Jacksonville, and other Florida cities and Savannah and Brunswick, Ga., and Charleston, S. C., made ready for the unwelcome visitor.

The hurricane was making its way slowly along the Florida coast between Titusville and Jacksonville, in a north-northwesterly direction.

At Brunswick, the barometer dropped to 29.5 and wind was steadily increasing. Hundreds of summer visitors on St. Simon's Island, awakened by a messenger who informed them that a 75-mile hurricane was expected to reach the island soon, rush to Brunswick by every train and means of travel, filling every hotel in the city. Many of the visitors brought all of their belongings.

Tolling of the fire bells and display of hurricane signals at the customs house warned Charleston.

National guardsmen of North Carolina in summer camp at Fort Moultrie on Sullivan's Island were ordered to strike camp and move into barracks.

Hope of the rescue of the crew of the Italian steamer Ansaldo San Giorgio Secondo was expressed in messages through the Tropical Radio company at Miami, Fla., from the steamer West Harshaw, and the coast guard cutter Sankee, which communicated with the Savannah station. The ship had been putting up a desperate fight for life since it was smitten by the hurricane Monday.

The highest tide since 1919 swept its way up into Brunswick today, submerging the lower parts of New Castle and Gloucester streets and covering all water front roads inland about the city.

Two washouts have been reported by the Atlantic Coast line railway near Waynesville, Ga., and all traffic was diverted by way of Jessup.

The Saint Simons highway was covered with water and residents of the island were removing up as rapidly as possible.

Nassau, in the Bahamas, is badly wrecked by a hurricane, according to a message received in the office of the Muson line at New York from the steamship Munamar which arrived there yesterday after a stormy voyage. The Nassau radio station is down.

A washout on the Atlantic Coast Line railroad at Lake Alfred near Winterhaven, Fla., caused the wreck of a northbound freight train of Tampa today.

The engineer and fireman jumped to safety in the lake and escaped uninjured.

A radio message from the steamship West Harshaw late today said that vessel had taken in tow the Italian steamer Ansaldo San Giorgio Secondo, which was in distress off Jupiter.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., July 28.—After a forty-eight hour battle with hurricane winds which cut off communication with the outside world, this city and Palm Beach today began a check of the storm's damage which conservative authorities place well above a million dollars.

Today the wind had subsided and the seas had quieted, a rising barometer indicating that the force of the gale had been spent here. The landscape was dotted with uprooted palms and debris and many of the main streets of Palm Beach were inundated. The water fronts of both cities suffered the greatest damage while fashionable resorts and hotels were flooded by water blown in from Lake Worth when the northeast gale shifted to the west shortly after noon Tuesday. At the Palm Beach club nothing but a few small cruisers remained of the score or more of craft anchored at

An Mail On Coast Begins Next Month

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

PORTLAND, Ore., July 28.—Air mail service on the Pacific Coast between Seattle and Los Angeles will start within two or three weeks, Vern C. Gorst, president of the Pacific Air Transport, which has the contract for carrying the air mail, made the announcement here today.

Eight planes and twelve pilots are ready. All that remains is installations of beacons of 7,500,000 candle power for guiding night flying which the government requires. Establishment of beacons between Portland and Seattle started yesterday. They will be set every 25 miles, with smaller light markers between each pair.

Six pilots will be on active duty and six in reserve. Ryan monoplanes of metal type with whirlwind motors will be used.

Pearson Field at Vancouver, Wash., will be used for the Portland stop until a field at Swan Island, at Portland, is ready for use. Air postage from Portland to any point on the coast route will be 10 cents. From Seattle to Los Angeles it will be 15 cents.

DAPHNE HUGHES IS CHAMPION OF SOUTHERN OREGON

Roseburg High School Tennis Star Defeats All Comers in Ashland Tournament.

Miss Daphne Hughes, Roseburg high school tennis star, who last year won the Southern Oregon Woman's tennis championship at the Lithia tournament in Ashland, duplicated last year's performance in the tournament held this year, and returned to Roseburg this morning wearing the bronze medal designating her as the champion woman tennis player of southern Oregon. Against all comers of all ages Miss Hughes, who is only 16 years of age, won all matches by straight sets and defaults, meeting experienced players from high schools and college, and in the finals a mature woman expert who has a wide reputation as a tennis player in southern California, and whose son, Thomas Fisher, a Yale student, is cleaning up everything in sight in the men's matches.

Miss Hughes won her first match by default when the Medford champion with whom she was paired failed to show up at the courts.

In the second round the Roseburg girl defeated Helen Dietrich, Ashland champion, by straight sets, 6-2; 6-2.

In the semi-finals Miss Hughes was opposed to Miss Lancaster of Bandon. Miss Lancaster was formerly a district champion in the state of Oklahoma. In the first set the local girl won 6-0 and Miss Lancaster defaulted the next set being too exhausted to continue the match.

In the finals the Roseburg player was paired with Mrs. Doremus, until recently of southern California, but who recently took up a residence in Ashland. In this match Miss Hughes had more stubborn opposition but won by straight sets, 6-2; 6-4, winning the championship of all southern Oregon.

Miss Hughes is considered one of the foremost young tennis players of the state. She plays a steady consistent and hard game, often wearing down stronger opponents by the strength of her play. The team of which she was a member in the high school, was never defeated, while at singles Miss Hughes has made a wonderful record and a fine future in this popular sport is predicted for the young lady.

TUNNEY GOING TO WOODS TO TRAIN FOR TITLE BOUT

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., July 28.—Gene Tunney is going into the woods, far from the crowds, to train for his fight with Dempsey.

At his temporary camp at the White Sulphur Springs, Saratoga Lake, today, he said he had closed a contract with William Osborne, world war "buddy," to go to Osborne's hotel at Lake Pleasant, 1800 feet high in the Adirondacks, to do all his training.

He plans to leave early next week, he said, and will not emerge until the day before the fight.

"Osborne showed me how to shoot a machine gun in France before we went to the front line trenches in 1918," said Tunney, "and he will watch over me like a 'buddy' now, when I'm getting my big chance in the ring."

Tunney will probably leave White Sulphur Springs before the arrival of Dempsey early in the week. The champion will do all his training there.

FIRST TRAGEDY MARKS MEXICAN CHURCH DECREE

Priest, Mayor and Family Reported Victims in Nochistan Riot.

NEW LAW AUGUST 1ST

All Church Property Goes to State; Ministers of All Creeds Must Be Native-Born.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

MEXICO CITY, July 28.—Government officials today were investigating reports from Aguas Calientes of the first death by violence as an outgrowth of the religious situation.

The death reported is that of Mayor Humberto Cervantes of Nochistan, state of Zacatecas. One report is that he was stoned to death by a mob after he had murdered a Catholic priest and that all the members of his family were killed. Another report says he was hanged after he had fired at the priest and ordered his arrest.

Today there were more pilgrimages by the faithful to the shrine of Guadalupe, the saint most dearly beloved by the Mexican people, which is situated just outside the capital. From far off mountain villages entire Indian families have been trudging along roads by day and sleeping by the wayside at night. The women carry babies, tied in shawls, upon ther backs, while the larger children trot alongside their parents, who carry scant bundles of food and a few thin blankets with which to ward off the bitterness of the night chill in the highlands.

By thousands they surround and then crowd into the shrine and kneel there so thickly wedged together that the entrance of another persons is impossible until some one vacates a space.

More than 25,000 children have been confirmed in the cathedral during the last week. Archbishop Mora y del Rio fainted from exhaustion once, after 5,000 confirmations. He is 72 years old.

All Sects Affected.

All sects were amenable to the new religious decrees proclaimed by the government, but the Roman Catholic church, because of its wide influence and millions of communicants, stood in sharp relief in opposition to the government.

The last mass in Catholic Mexico will be held Friday, and until then the baptism of thousands of children and their confirmation at the cathedral here will continue. Thereafter, in accordance with the pastoral letter signed by the archbishops and bishops of the republic, the holy offices will be suspended in protest against the government's attitude toward religion.

The presidential decree providing penalties for violation of the religious laws of Mexico will become effective August 1, and it is in protest against this that the clergy has decided to suspend its functions.

Clause one of the decree, which is of especial interest to foreigners, provides that ministers of any creed must be Mexicans by birth. Infringement will be punishable by a $250 fine or 15 days' imprisonment followed by expulsion from the country.

State Takes Property.

The new law will effectuate the old constitutional provision that all church property belongs to the state. Religious orders will be prohibited from acquiring or administrating property or capital on penalty of imprisonment of their individual members for from one to two years.

Religious orders, convents and monasteries will be dissolved when all persons connected with them have been identified and members again communing will be subject to from one to two years in prison. Superiors, prelates, priors or directors infringing the law will be liable to six years in prison, except that women shall suffer only two-thirds of the prescribed penalty.

One of the principal features of this most comprehensive religious law in Mexican history is the clause providing for the secularization of all schools; it is estimated that 1,000,000 children will be affected by this clause.

Govt. Wants Team Work.

The government's determination of unyielding pursuance of its announced policy of putting into effect the new religious regulations is further indicated by a letter Attorney General Ortega has sent to all prosecuting attorneys and agents by the department of justice. The letter requests an im-

Tidal Wave Sweeps Every House Off Island Except Church; Descendants Of English Navigator Are Rescued

APIA, Samoa, June 30.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press).—From the isolated coral atoll of Palmerston Island, lying between Samoa and Raratonga, news has just reached Apia of a tidal wave which three months ago swept over the island, destroying practically all property and reducing the inhabitants to most primitive conditions.

Palmerston is peopled by about 100 descendants of William Marsters, a British adventurer who settled there in 1862 with his Polynesian wives. Its destitute condition was revealed only when Sir Maui Pomare on the New Zealand government steamer Hinemoa touched there on an inspection tour. Supplies were landed and a relief ship ordered immediately from Raratonga.

Only one life was lost; a girl was killed by a falling cocoanut tree as she fled before the wave. The other inhabitants had sufficient warning to reach high ground.

All houses were swept away except the church and it was shifted eighty feet from its foundations. All livestock perished except 20 chickens, five pigs and a cat. So complete was the destruction that the inhabitants were left without even fishing lines and hooks, but they caught fish with their hands, and supplementing this meagre fare with fallen cocoanuts managed to subsist until the Hinemoa arrived. Then they were supplied with fishing tackle and tools to enable them to clear away the debris of their former homes and build new shelters.

The Hinemoa came upon a scene of utter desolation, with only the church standing among torn and twisted cocoanut palms. Nevertheless the people received their rescuers with smiling faces and songs of welcome.

CANEMA WOMAN SLAYS HER AGED MOTHER IN HOME

Officers Forced to Batter Through a Barricade —Slayer Thought to Be Insane.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

OREGON CITY, Ore., July 28.—Mrs. Melissa Bolton, 73, was shot to death last midnight at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Warren, 28, of Canemah, two miles south of Oregon City. Officers, called by neighbors who heard a commotion in the Warren home, broke in and reported they found Mrs. Warren with a revolver in her hand near Mrs. Bolton, who was dying of wounds.

Mrs. Warren was taken to the county jail here, and kept under close guard. The only motive officers could assign today for the shooting was temporary insanity.

Mrs. Bolton was a widow and had made her home with the Warrens for several years. Neighbors and relatives knew of no domestic trouble.

Neighbors heard shrieks at the Warren home at a late hour last night and called officers. Two shots were heard. When the officers arrived they found the home barricaded and were obliged to batter their way in.

They said they found Mrs. Warren standing guard over the prostrate form of her mother, revolver in hand. They said Mrs. Warren pointed the weapon threateningly at the officers. While a deputy diverted her attention for a moment Sheriff Mass rushed the woman and disarmed her. She was then taken to the jail in the sheriff's automobile. Coroner Pace was investigating more fully today.

PARENTAGE OF BOY MOOT QUESTION IN DIVORCE CONTEST

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

LONDON, July 28.—An echo of one of the most sensational divorce cases England has ever known was heard today when a declaration was granted under the legitimacy act establishing the right of little Geoffrey Russell, son of the Hon. John Hugo Russell, to succeed to the title of Baron Ampthill, now held by his paternal grandfather.

John Hugo Russell sued his wife, Christable, for divorce in 1922, alleging he was not the father of her child and the case furnished a society sensation throughout the long hearing, which resulted in a disagreement by the jury. At the second hearing Russell was given a decree.

The wife appealed from the decision only to lose in the court of appeals, but ultimately she took the case to the House of Lords which reversed the decisions of the lower courts and revoked the decree.

KIN OF MURDERED EDITOR ASSAILED WITH GAS BOMBS

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

CANTON, Ohio, July 28.—Members of the families of Don R. Mellett, slain publisher and Lloyd Mellett, his brother, today were ill from an obnoxious gas which released near the home, swept across the porch where they were seated. The four children of Don and his widow, as well as Mrs. Lloyd Mellett were nauseated by the gas. Their condition is not serious.

The gas could have come from a gas bomb such as police raiders use, or it might have been compounded in a bottle, and the bottle broken near the home, according to George Bersford, detective, who investigated.

$350,616 SPENT BY M'KINLEY HIS PERSONAL MONEY

Defeated Senator's Lawyer Testifies Candidate Decided to Stand Own Expenses.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

CHICAGO, Ill., July 28.—Senator William B. McKinley decided to stand all of the expenses of his fight for renomination in the recent Illinois primary, Henry L. Green, his personal attorney, testified today before the senate campaign funds committee.

In line with that policy, the senator, who was defeated for the Republican senatorial nomination by Frank L. Smith, accepted no outside contributions, Green said. It was disclosed yesterday that the campaign cost McKinley $350,616.72.

Green declared that this method of financing the campaign might seem "singular," but that the idea was that of the senator in which he concurred. The witness said there may have been some small sums spent or service rendered by others, but that all he had heard of, would not exceed $5,000.

"Pardon me," he said, "I understand that Mrs. McCormick was to have spent some money for advertising in foreign language newspapers but whether she did or not I don't know."

"Was there not a large number of circulars sent out by individuals or groups of individuals," asked Senator Reed.

"There were, but I paid the expense out of his funds," Green replied.

Chairman Reed turned the inquiry back to McKinley's donations to charitable and educational institutions.

Green said several persons spoke for McKinley or for the world court during the campaign, but could think of none but John Wesley Hill, chancellor of Lincoln Memorial University, from outside the state.

TWO SISTERS AND MATRON VICTIMS OF DROWNINGS

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

PASCO, Wash., July 28. Vida Perry, a Pasco high school girl, and her sister, Dorothy, a grammar school girl, drowned last night in the Columbia river near here. They went wading with friends, were caught in the current and carried away. Neither could swim.

Lucille Burke nearly lost her life trying to save them, but was rescued by M. C. Merritt coming up the river in a motor boat.

Spokane Matron Drowns.

SPOKANE, July 28. In trying to rescue her maid, who was swimming with her in Lake Chelan, Mrs. Harry H. Hunt of Spokane was drowned late yesterday, while her four-year old son watched from the shore. The maid was saved by a camper in a row boat.

TRAIN WRECKS AUTO, BUT OCCUPANT IS UNINJURED

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

MEDFORD, Ore., July 28. H. A. Haworth, of Portland a traveling salesman, escaped death early this morning by a miracle, when a sedan he was driving was struck on the Main street crossing by the northbound Shasta Limited. The train was traveling at a slow rate of speed. The sedan was hurled to one side, and although Haworth was uninjured, the automobile is a complete wreck.

PROPONENTS OF FISH BILL WIN COURT DECREE

Judge McMahon Refuses to Issue Order Against State Secretary.

GOES ON THE BALLOT

Proof of Compliance With Law Up to Opponents, Not Incumbent on Initiators.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

SALEM, Ore., July 28.—In a decree handed down yesterday, Judge L. H. McMahon, of the circuit court for Marion county, refuses to issue an order restraining the secretary of state from certifying for the ballot the fish wheel, seine and gill net bill which was initiated by the state grange, the farmers union and the state fish commission, the decree holding that the number of signatures on the petitions were sufficient. The measure would eliminate fish wheels and regulate nets and seines in the Columbia river.

The injunction proceeding attacked the petitions with the contention that they should contain signatures amounting to 8 per cent of the total vote cast for the three candidates for supreme court justice in the election of 1924, which would amount to 29,089 names. Since each voter is presumed to have voted for two candidates the decree holds that 8 per cent of not more than half the total vote would be necessary.

Burden On Plaintiff.

"We cannot approach this case upon the theory that the initiative is a privilege granted by the state to the people," Judge McMahon holds. That people is the state and legislatures are creatures only of the state, restricted by the reserved power of the people.

"It is not, therefore, a burden cast upon the people by law to prove in cases of this kind that they have complied with the law.

"In this case the secretary of state has accepted the petition and the plaintiffs herein seek to restrain him from placing the bill on the ballot. The burden is on the objectors to prove that the law has not been complied with and all doubts must be resolved against them."

There will be another ruling on the number of signatures required when the supreme court hands down its opinion in the housewives council hydro-electric case, which it is expected to do this week.

EXPERTS TO WORK ON THE TANGLE IN OCHOCO DISTRICT

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

SALEM, Ore., July 28.—It was announced by State Engineer Luper yesterday that investigation of the Ochoco irrigation district has been started, to determine the amount of the water supply, value of lands and methods for liquidating indebtedness. The investigation is in charge of W. L. Powers, a soil expert of Oregon Agricultural College; W. M. McLaughlin and L. M. Winsor of the federal department of agriculture and W. H. Lapham, western inspector of soils surveys who has headquarters at Berkeley, California.

The state irrigation securities commission authorized the survey for the purpose of arriving at an agreement between the bond holders and the settlers who have defaulted in interest payments. The district debt includes outstanding bonds of $1,425,000, state interest obligations of $406,545 and outstanding warrants totaling $1,826,000.

COOLIDGE STRONGER THAN EVER, EDSEL FORD THINKS

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., July 28. —Belief that President Coolidge is in a stronger position with the people than he ever has been, was expressed today by Edsel Ford, son of the automobile manufacturer, who is a guest at White Pine Camp.

Accompanying Mr. Coolidge to the executive offices, Mr. Ford received newspaper correspondents, and in response to questions, declared his confidence in the future of commercial aviation, as well as gave his views on political conditions.

The position of the president, he said, was due to "sound politics," especially in the matter of economy. The country, he added, is in a "wonderful condition," and Mr. Coolidge is to a great extent responsible for it.

Bahamas Pact Hard Jolt To Rum Runners

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

LONDON, July 28. — Aridity threatens the Bahama Islands insofar as they are a fountain for thirsty stay-at-home Americans.

The oasis, where the tenants of rum row obtain their supplies to sell off the Atlantic seaboard of the United States, is affected by an agreement reached by Brigadier General Lincoln C. Andrews, head of prohibition enforcement in the United States and British officials.

The British government gives the American prohibition forces certain latitude in the territorial waters of the Bahamas, lying virtually within an hour's steaming distance of the Florida coast.

Although the details of the agreement are being kept secret, it is described as constituting the greatest blow to bootlegging since prohibition went into effect. It is understood that the United States will be permitted to have an intelligence service in the Bahama Islands to trace liquor shipments and also that the British government will supervise carefully the use of the British flag by vessels engaged in carrying alcoholic cargoes and deal with infractions of the law regarding clearances, quarantine and other matters.

THIRTEEN YEAR OLD RIDDLE BOY SHOT IN LEG BY COMPANION

Shot Gun Accidentally Discharged While Boys Are Out on Hunt for Squirrels.

Howard Yarbrough, the 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Yarbrough, well known Riddle residents, was shot in the leg yesterday afternoon, when a gun carried by Herbert Wagoner, aged 13 years, was accidentally fired.

Howard and Kenneth Yarbrough, the latter 12 years of age, together with the Wagoner boy, a newcomer in the vicinity, went out yesterday morning to hunt squirrels along the South Umpqua river near their home. They had traveled about a mile and a half, and were near the Yocum home when the accident occurred.

The three were climbing up a bank, with Howard Yarbrough in the lead, followed by the Wagoner boy, when the latter's gun went off accidentally. It was a small bore shotgun and the entire load was emptied into Yarbrough's leg, just below the thigh.

Yarbrough fainted and his two badly frightened companions carried him to the river, knowing that they had to get water. They evidently were of the opinion that if a little water was good more would be better so they soused the injured lad into the river.

Herbert says that the first he remembers he was crawling out of the water by himself, while his two companions were dashing up the bank to secure help.

The boys ran to the Yocum home where they obtained aid to carry the injured boy back to the road where he was placed in an automobile and rushed to Riddle, the wound being given medical attention by Dr. Oftedal. He was then brought to Roseburg and after an X-ray examination by Dr. Stewart was removed to Mercy hospital.

SUSPECTED GUNMAN GIVES HIMSELF UP

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

CHICAGO, July 28.—Alphonse "Scarface" Capone, chief of the underworld of the turbulent suburb of Cicero, sought since the machine gun assassination of Assistant State's Attorney McSwiggin, was taken into the federal building today by federal agents, to whom he had surrendered.

Bondsmen already were there to arrange for his release, but so was Chief of Detectives William Shoemaker, with a warrant charging Capone with the murder of McSwiggin.

ROBERT T. LINCOLN'S FUNERAL IS SIMPLE

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

MANCHESTER, Vt., July 28.—A funeral service in keeping with the quiet dignity and simplicity of his life was to mark the final rites here late this afternoon for Robert Todd Lincoln, son of President Lincoln.

The Rev. D. Cunningham-Graham, pastor of the Congregational church, had been asked to officiate and pall bearers selected included members of the family. The Ekwanok country club, of which Mr. Lincoln was president for 22 years, closed for the day and a championship golf match that was to have been played on its course was postponed.

INCENDIARISM BLAMED FOR NEW FOREST FIRES

Lookout Reports String of Fires on Myrtle Creek Divide.

CREWS SENT OUT

Firefighters Aroused at 3 A. M. and Sent to Scene of New Fires— Plane Is Used.

Harvey Q. Brown, supervising warden of the Douglas County Fire Patrol, returned shortly after noon today from an airplane flight over the forest fires burning on the Myrtle Creek divide. He reports that he was able to count 11 separate fires on the North Myrtle Creek slope and 25 fires on the south slope. There were other fires, he states, but the smoke was so thick that he was unable to obtain a complete check. There is no question, he reports, but that all of the fires were maliciously set out. They are scattered throughout an area of about 500 acres.

In view of the fact that the fires are burning on both state and government lands both the county patrol and forest service are working in cooperation to extinguish the conflagration. Thirty men were sent out this morning and more are being sent to the scene this evening. Because of high humidity the fires threaten a rapid spread.

Two new fires, located on the lower Umpqua near Yellow Creek, were reported late this afternoon. Men have been dispatched to both of these and no great amount of damage is expected.

A long string of fires, numbering possibly from 25 to 30, were set out last night on the divide between North and South Myrtle Creeks, according to a report made this morning by H. Q. Brown, supervising warden of the Douglas Fire Patrol. The case is one of the most flagrantly incendiary so far this year, Mr. Brown reports, evidences showing clearly that the fires, which extend in a string for several miles, were maliciously set out during the night.

The fires were first reported this morning from the White Rock ranger station, and at 3 o'clock a crew of 20 men started for the scene. The lookout stated that he could spot smoke rising from 25 or 30 places, and that there might be more fires, as it was impossible to make an accurate check of the number burning.

The fires are located on the
