THRILL HUNTERS

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

CHAPTER 37.

Long ago—as time is reckoned east of the Palisades—New York sometimes was called the "Cuddlesome City."

For, despite miles and miles of parlor sofas all the way from the battery to the Bronx, it was a tough proposition for a fellow to do a really good job of heading his best girl's hand. Living arrangements, as new, were too compact, too overlapping; the parlor was too squarish under the eyes of pa, ma, and the kids for the romantic isolation in which love's young dream flourishes.

Nor did miles and miles of parlor sofas offer more privacy. About the time the little hand and the bigger hand would draw together and begin to twine, some hoodlum would come wandering off the park lawn and make rhizoid remarks. Or perhaps an obtuse-minded cowboy would loom through the shrubbery.

That, however, was before Clara Eddy came to the metropolis to save her mother, and Dr. Theodore Dean tagged after to save Clara.

By this time, it being the year 1926, there was a movie theatre on nearly every corner. And if a chap can't build both his girl's hands and maybe put his arm around her besides in a movie theatre, what's the good of the peace and darkness there—or of anything for that matter?

Down at the Municipal Bureau they give various reasons having to do with population for increasing number of marriages in Manhattan. One young thing like Ted and Clara know their reasons are all wrong; they know marriage increase because the movie theatres increase. They are the modern temples to Cupid!

Ebhold the pair of them then, sitting throughout the afternoon, each occupying half a chair (why don't they build those seats in pairs with an arm between?), their shoulders pressed together and heads touching, or nearly so. And in the faint, reflected radiance from the screen, the girl's eyes were very blue and bright and the boy's were very green and bright and each face wore a dreamy smile as unmistakably Cupid's own as the aroma of the orange blossoms.

They saw the bill through twice. Then the lights flared up and they sighed and stumbled, pempudly out to the promenade where patrons of the theatre strolled or lounged on divans.

It was there they came upon Amy and Val—and tore apart their lands, blushing furiously. But Val had not seen them yet and Amy's greeting especially to Ted, was so cordial that her daughter could only glare.

"I don't know why you haven't been to see us, Ted," she reproved him with a winsome smile. He looked rather puzzled and blurted out that he didn't think he'd be welcome.

"But my dear boy?" Amy glared at the low, curly tresses. Clara acted, with which she talked to savorily over the telephone. "But my dear boy! I hope I've never given you cause to think such a thing! I'm hurt, Ted, really."

MRS. BASSETT ALWAYS TIRED

Now in Good Health by Using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lansing, Mich.—I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound whenever I needed it. When I first used it I was so bad I could hardly walk across the room without crying. I was through all the time. I think my trouble was coming on me for six months before I realized it. I read of your wonderful medicine in the paper, and my husband bought me a bottle, and after the first few doses I felt better, so kept on taking it until I was well and strong. I take it at times when I feel tired and I believe me, I will always have a good word for your medicine and tell anyone what good it has done me. I recommended it to my neighbor for her girl, who is sixteen years old, and it was just what she needed. She is feeling fine now, and goes to school every day.

—Mrs. E. F. HANSTED, 216 South Hartford Avenue, Lansing, Michigan.

Do not continue to feel all run-down and half sick when Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is sold by druggists everywhere.

ANTLERS THEATRE

Replete with thrills, beautiful photography and splendid acting by a notable cast of principals. "The Barrier," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer photoplay of Rex Beach's novel, opens Sunday at the Liberty Theatre.

Beach's stirring novel of the Alaskan frontier, where the veneer of civilization dropped from men through their lust for gold, has been transferred to the screen with painstaking fidelity by director George Hill. The work of the director is aided seconded by such popular screen stars as Norman Kerry, Lionel Barrymore, Henry B. Walthall, Marjorie Day, Pat Harmon, Bert Woodruff and others.

So well do these players acquit themselves that they fully deserve the title of the season's best cast.

COOLIDGE KEEPS MIND AT EASE IN FINDING JAUNTS

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Although President Coolidge is receiving numerous visitors and spending much of his time at work in the executive office, he manages to keep his hand in a fishing, his favorite vacation recreation.

Hardly a day passes that the chief executive does not angle for at least a brief interval in Osgood lake, either casting from the foot bridge in front of the summer White House or trolling from a boat in the company of his guides.

Many of these adventures with rod and reel take place early in the morning, before Mr. Coolidge goes to his desk, or between visits to the office. The number of fish taken from Osgood lake, however, either by the president, his guides or other members of his party is known to be not as large as earlier in the summer for pike and bass are not now as responsive to lures.

CALIFORNIA FIRE DEMANDS MORE MEN

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

REDDING, Calif., Aug. 12.—A forest fire on Capitol creek, which has sold over a million copies in book form has been carefully adhered to by the star and his director, William A. Selter, and the result is a screamingly funny situation comedy.

GLENDALE MEN HAVE CLOSE CALL IN FOREST FIRE

A forest fire that started just above the John Rostermund place on the Ferrvale road Sunday, dangerously periled the lives of Homer Martin, Billy Nall and his brother Perry Nall, when the three men were trapped in flames while trying to get a stationary engine and other equipment out of its path, says the Glendale News.

Seeing that the fire was beyond control, Mr. Martin and the Nall brothers attempted to save the engine and

In 1910 I had typhoid fever; since then severe stomach and liver trouble, which no medicine or doctor touched until two years ago. # TURKEYS WHEN THEY SUBDUED RATLER

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

LA GRANDE, Ore., Aug. 12.—Mrs. Richard Drake has killed 44 rattlesnakes with help of a flock of turkeys during the summer season on her ranch near Imnaha, in Walla Walla county.

The ranch is midway between a snake-infested rock cliff and a stream. The rattlers, in going to the water, cross ground over which 250 turkeys range. When the turkeys discover a passing snake they form a ring about the intruder, humming him in, and at the same time set up a great commotion. This is the signal for Mrs. Drake to say, for her to arrive with a weapon and kill the snake.
