COUNTY HEALTH UNIT CLINIC LAST WEEK.

The county health department will conduct a clinic for children under school age on Wednesday morning, August 25, at the county courthouse. The clinic will open at 9 o'clock and continue to noon. It will be supervised by Dr. Thompson, county health officer assisting. The department plans to make these monthly clinics a permanent thing, holding one on the last Wednesday of each month. The clinics of the past have proved very successful and have been a means of much valuable information to mothers in regard to the care of their children.

OREGON FARMERS WILL PLANT MORE WINTER WHEAT

PORTLAND, Aug. 19.—Oregon farmers expect to plant about 6.9 per cent more wheat this fall than was planted a year ago, according to reports received from some hundreds of growers, says F. L. Kent, statistician, U. S. Department of Agriculture. It is estimated that 588,000 acres were seeded to winter wheat in Oregon last fall, hence an increase of 6.9 per cent would bring the prospective acreage to be planted this fall up to 622,000 acres.

For the United States, farmers, through the "Intention to Plant" reports, have indicated a prospective increase over last year of 14.4 per cent. Last fall plantings were estimated at 39,549,900 acres. On this basis the prospective acreage for next year's harvest is 45,932,000 acres.

It should be borne in mind that these "Intentions" will be more or less modified by weather conditions. Should an abnormally dry or an abnormally wet season prevail this fall, the acreage will no doubt be materially reduced from the indicated intentions. Considering the average planted last fall it does not seem probable that the most favorable conditions for fall seeding would materially increase the acreage to be seeded, over the indicated intentions.

It should also be remembered that there is always more or less abandonment of the fall seeded acreage, due largely to winter-killing. Winter loss on the Pacific coast is usually very light. Omitting the year of the disastrous freeze (fall of 1921) the Oregon "abandonment" over a period of five years, averages 2.2 per cent, compared with a United States five year average abandonment of 9.3 per cent. The 1926 abandonment 4.6 per cent for the United States, and 46 per cent for the United States.

An Associated Press release from Washington D. C., dated August 17, relative to the world's wheat supply for 1926 reads as follows: "The world's wheat supply this year, outside of Russia and China, may be close to that of last year, the Department of Agriculture estimated today after compiling the latest forecasts of production. The demand, it is said, may be stronger than a year ago because of lower stocks of old wheat, reduced supplies of rye and potatoes, and short wheat crops in the Orient."

"Twenty-one Northern Hemisphere countries, producing last year 70.9 per cent of the world wheat crop, exclusive of Russia and China, it is indicated, will produce 2,351,000,000 bushels of wheat, compared with 2,239,000,000 last year. Reports indicate the crop of China is not expected to be so good."

SO WILL ITS CRITICS.

Associated Press Special Wire Service, Wash., Aug. 29.

Two million years from now the newspapers of America may be perfect. M. Lyle Spencer, former director of journalism at the University of Washington, told members of the Washington Press association here today.

"Science tells me that it will be two million years before man is fully developed," Spencer declared. "It will be about the same length of time before the press is perfect."

GAINES IS CONVICTED FIRST DEGREE

to show that a clandestine affection existed between them. In weaving its case the prosecution produced a number of witnesses who testified that they had seen a man of Gaines' general appearance near the scene of the slaying the night the girl was killed.

One of the strongest of the state's witnesses was an auto mechanic who declared positively that he had seen the defendant's auto about 200 feet from the scene of the crime about 15 minutes before the estimated time of its commission.

Wife No. 2 Loyal, Gaines testified in his own behalf. He denied absolutely that he killed his daughter. He admitted that he quarreled frequently with her, but declared that the quarrels were caused entirely by her objections to his heavy drinking. Mrs. Elizabeth Gaines, second wife of the defendant, also testified in behalf of her husband.

When the verdict of guilty was returned Mrs. Gaines said: "I believe now as I have always believed, that my husband is innocent."

Edward Townsend, foreman of the jury, said that three ballots were taken before a final decision was reached. On the first ballot the vote was ten to two for conviction, with the two women Jurors favoring acquittal. On the second ballot the vote for conviction was unanimous and the third ballot was taken to determine the guilt in the first or second degree.

Insanity Last Resort. Defense Counsel Robert MacFarlane said that a motion for a new trial filed last night after the jury returned its verdict, would be pushed. Admission of evidence concerning an unnatural relationship between Gaines and Sylvia was improper and prejudicial, defense counsel declared, indicating they would base their argument for a new trial on that point. MacFarlane asserted the state failed to show that this relationship was responsible for the murder.

It was pointed out that if a new trial is denied, appeal could be made to the state supreme court and then to Governor Hartley for clemency, or if these efforts fail, an insanity plea could be offered. Execution of an insane man is prohibited in Washington.

Yes, It's a Punny One

"There are hundreds of practical jokes in this world," declared the Leslie avenue bachelor, "and each one has a bagful of tricks to play on his friends. But there is one they all use that apparently gives them the utmost in pleasure. They play it on the bedridden guest whom they invite out to dinner, by offering him the use of a comb. Being laid myself, I have been forced to chuckle my way through this joke on countless occasions. But secretly, I think it's the zero of them all. And while I don't think there is a chance to eliminate it, I wish it could be done if only to add what I think the respect might be added to a practical joker's effectiveness."—Detroit News.

According to statistics compiled by a life insurance company, it costs $6,167 to rear a girl, and $6,077 to rear a boy to the age of eighteen. The cost for feeding each for that period is placed at $2,500, while a boy's clothing is listed at $912 and a girl's at $1,102.
