Linen Shower Honors Popular Bride-Elect

Miss Thelma Olmstead entertained Friday evening with a linen shower for Miss Jean Singleton, a popular bride-elect, to which a group of Roseburg girls were invited.

The guests chatted and enjoyed music during the evening, and on the lawn under the big trees were served luncheon at one large table, with appointments in pink and white. Centering the table was a large trunk, fashioned of pink crepe paper with trimming of gold design, containing the gifts. A doll, costumed as a bride was a quaint decoration on the trunk, and each guest's cover was marked with a small doll in costume of bridesmaid.

The most list included the Misses Jean Singleton, Elva Westcott, Mona Porter, Lucille Koenig, Gertrude Craig, Violet Houser, Gertrude Craig, Anita Caehella, Gertrude Sinclair, Marion Ness, Bertha Kohlhaugen, Thelma Trefren, Maxine Moore, Alice Ueland, Doris Pickens, Agnes Irwin, Emma Ue of Idaho, and in well known in land, Vesta Beckley, Daphne Roseburg.

Hughes and Helen Falbo. Serving at the pretty table were Little Shirley Jean Vincent and Frances Stuhall, of Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Heinline Entertain at Snuggly Inn

On Monday evening Snuggly Inn, the attractive summer camp of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Heinline, where they have been spending the season and of late the week ends was the scene of an informal dinner party to which they invited a group of Roseburg folk.

Two large tables were placed out of doors and each were covered with ferns, while quaint place cards formed of prunes and maple leaves marked each cover. Spending the evening with Mr. and Mrs. Heinline were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dubar, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Dubar, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Wharton, Mr. and Mrs. Washington Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. Win. Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Waite, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Ness, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Booth, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Falbo, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Riddle, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. The baby weighed 9 pounds at birth. Mrs. Miller is the daughter of Mrs. Leslie Hatfield, Pickens, Agnes Irwin, Emma Ue of Idaho, and in well known in land, Vesta Beckley, Daphne Roseburg.

Club Has Last Outdoor Meeting of Season

The Business and Professional Women's Club held the last outdoor meeting and picnic of the summer season Friday evening at the club house in Umpqua Park, with a splendid attendance of members.

The club is planning to hold their first indoor meeting soon. The first Friday in each month will be given over to noon luncheons and the third Friday will be devoted to business meetings and social affairs. The meetings will be held at the Heinline Conservatory.

The club is divided into several groups which give social affairs to raise money for club activities and the third section will sponsor a bridge party on Monday evening of next week to be given at the Umpqua park club house.

FRUIT GROWERS CONCERNED BY SPRAY RULES

Emergency Meeting Called for City Hall on Next Wednesday.

PEARS ARE REJECTED

Strict Tests for Spray Residue Holding Up Medford Pears in Chicago and New York.

Fruit growers of the country are in a most serious predicament, one which necessitates a great deal of careful consideration, according to J. R. Parker, county horticulturist, who this morning announced an emergency meeting of all fruit growers of the county. The meeting is to be held at the city hall, on Wednesday, August 25, at 2 o'clock. It will be addressed by Clayton L. Lonz, horticultural specialist of the Oregon Agricultural College, who will be able to impart the very latest information concerning the spray residue situation. The meeting will be of special interest and importance to pear and apple growers who are expecting to ship packed fruit to the eastern markets.

Several months ago agitation was caused by spray residue on fruit. Chemists have declared the residue properties to be detrimental to health and as a result marketing rules have been passed requiring fruit to be free from spray residue.

This edict, coming after practically all spray applications were on the fruit, has worked a terrible hardship. Growers have endeavored to meet the condition and have installed mechanical wipers and have followed this by hand wiping, but this has not yet proved satisfactory.

Mr. Parker this morning received a message from Medford stating that out of 20 cars of pears shipped to Chicago 19 cars had been turned back by chemists for residue. Out of 45 cars shipped to New York 47 were held up for conditioning. These pears had been passed through mechanical wipers and then wiped by hand. Some of the cars had been passed at the shipping point by representatives of the U. S. bureau of chemistry.

It has become necessary to treat pears with a bath wash in order to meet market requirements. The situation is just as serious in Washington state, where the growers had 25 carloads rejected at one time.

Buyers handling fruit in several sections of the state have ordered the harvest held up until the condition is improved or some less stringent regulation provided or else some better method of removing the spray is found. Many Medford growers, it is announced, are letting their fruit drop rather than to try to ship it.

The government has put on twelve additional chemists in California alone to test incoming shipments of fruit, and the regulations are being observed to the strictest letter of the law.

Although fruit growers feel that the regulations are too severe and that the tests to which fruit must be subjected are beyond reason, the fact exists that fruit must pass these tests, unfair though they may be, in order to go upon the market. Therefore any grower having pears or apples, which he expects to pack for shipment, must be prepared to put his fruit into condition to stand the test.

Mr. Long has been making a careful study of methods and is now in the Medford district where he is endeavoring to help in getting conditions straightened up. By Wednesday it is expected that he will be in possession of all information and facts to analyze the situation in a thorough manner, and will be able to give the Umpqua Valley growers some very important information. Mr. Parker urges that fruit growers and others interested be

TRUCK DRIVER WINS IN BOUT WITH BULL.

CLIFF WAYNE, Ind., Aug. 21.—Clifford Sinsad has never made a touchdown for Illinois, nor has he any fame as a torador, but he was acclaimed as a hero along his light ice truck yesterday, he pursued an infuriated bull which had escaped from the stockyards and drove the animal away from a group of children. He then chased the bull to the open county, where it finally turned and charged the ice truck. Sinsad stepped on the gas and met the rush and the bull went down under the truck. The ice man kept it pinned there until the farmers arrived with ropes and tied it securely. Two children were slightly injured by the bull.
