As the summer nears an end hostesses are preparing to close summer camps and homes, arranging a few informal affairs for their guests after the delightful season filled with so many interesting picnics, swimming parties and dances, which have proved popular as entertainment during the warm days. Others are returning after the summer spent at the beach and a few are making short enjoyable trips preceding the opening of the winter school which is proclaimed by the approach of early fall.

Members of the younger set will be preparing to enter the universities and colleges at the end of the month. Numerous teas and bridge parties are being sponsored by members of society houses of U. of O. and O. A. C. who reside in the northern part of the state for those who will enter school this fall.

A number of affairs during the past few weeks have honored prominent visitors who have returned home after visits in Roseburg.

Miss Lily Ho, of Nanking, China, who is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Paul, at their South Deer Creek home for two months, is proving a popular visitor and is being widely feted during her stay. Last year she attended the University of Southern California, and plans to re-enter school this fall. Miss Ho and the Misses Paul will be the weekend guests of the Misses May and Margaret Baldwin of Roseburg.

The last weeks of summer, interspersed with a few welcome cool days have suggested the opening of the bathing season and numerous parties of Roseburg folk are formulating plans for an enjoyable few days or week-end spent at the mountains in pursuit of this sport.

The Sports Costume Possesses New Features

Silks and Woolens Appear to Advantage in Interesting

Silhouettes. Tennis Costumes Receive Attention

from Paris. Golf Outfits are Chic

Summer sports and summer costumes are united in the strong arm of fashion and today the game is correctly dressed as well as correctly played. The fairway is made attractive by its feminine devotees of the great game of golf by sports costumes which are the last word in golfing chic.

Tennis is almost a new game to jaded eyes by the interesting costumes which Paris in a moment of inspiration designed for the athletic summer girl.

Swimming is made doubly fascinating by bathing accessories and beach suits of comfort and appeal. Motoring is given a new zest by the smartly outfitted girl in the wheel.

Riding again has become a joy when the wooded trails reveal well outfitted girls in new riding habits.

And above all, walking—both along the sands of the seashore or the mountain trail—has again become an interesting as well as healthful occupation when smart clothes are smartly worn.

The open season for outdoor sports is with us and an all-wise creator of summer styles has seen to it that those sports are as pleasing to the eye as they are to the player.

Tennis, which has created unusual interest because of the matches abroad, has become a favorite game to dress. Learning how to be chic as well as strenuous on the tennis court is an art which Paris has given keen interest to. The one-piece dress which Suzanne Lenglen wears is matched in smartness by the two-piece track favored by Helen Wills.

Almost all materials are to be found in the tennis frocks from the crepe de Chine, which, however, do not wash well for an entire summer season, to the poplins, madras, pongees and broadcloths of more enduring color and wear.

The secret of the correct tennis costume is that it fits as well in action as it does in repose. Styles in these dresses vary and skirts entirely pleated, or kick pleated in front, or plain and attached to a braisier, are all smartly worn.

Jumpers, in the two-piece mode are new as to neck and sleeve, but otherwise are nearly like the ordinary two-piece costume. The occasional player finds the Chinese silks and damasks particularly attractive in colors on the tennis court, but the steady player usually appears in white and relies upon cape or sweater for color.

The one-piece costume allows beautifully for the active moments of the game and is wisely chosen by many.

Golf allows more freedom in selection of clothes. For the cool days there are woolens which combine into smart skirts and jackets, or sweaters and skirts. Two-piece frocks in the knitted materials in bizarre patterns are very chic down the fairway, while the warmer days demand a silken costume in either one or two pieces which is extremely sportswomanlike in its coloring and pattern. The hat which shades the face is an important part of the golf costume and hose of gay patterns and shoes to match the costume all add to golfing chic.

Motoring brings forth all the lovely warm coats and capes in the plaids and stripes of colorful appeal. Soft fabrics in gay tones appear at their best at the wheel and the little pull on hat is entirely in keeping with the picture of well dressed femininity.

Bathing permits a wide choice in either the mannish mode of trunks and jumper or the truly feminine outfit in cretonne patterned silks and damasks. Bathing capes, coats, parasols and bags are to be found in charming color effects and in becoming lines.

Dresses or suits which make for comfort may be found satisfactory for walking and in this costume it is well to add shoes of low heels and comfortable last as well as fashionable cut.

Norma Talmadge, who delights in dressing her sports correctly, possesses an interesting collection of tennis, golf, motoring and bathing costumes—all correct in line, color and detail to the particular sport which they accompany. Miss Talmadge is seen in the First National film, "Kick."

The Well Stocked Laundry

The washing supplies are just as important as the larger pieces of equipment and should be selected as carefully. The wrong kind of bluing or a low grade soap can sometimes do as much damage in a laundry and be more of a nuisance than a leaky tub or a bulky washing machine.

Your Laundry Cupboard

Will Not Be Bare!

The stock of smaller supplies should include clothes lines, clothes pins, a bag or basket to hold the pins, a quart measure, a pan for cooking starch, and starch, bluing, soap and washing soda. If the water has to be softened, a cupboard to hold these articles is almost essential, or at any rate very convenient.

In selecting laundry supplies, a competent housekeeper should use the same good judgment which characterizes all of her shopping; that is, she should choose only good grades and buy in large quantities as storage space will permit.

For general laundry work, a regular laundry soap is necessary and of late years the white laundry soaps are becoming increasingly popular for washing clothes. For preparing the tub of soda, however, clipped soaps are more convenient, and consequently a supply of soap chips should be kept on hand.

To make the soap supply complete and adequate for all purposes, a neutral soap such as Ivory should be included for the washing of silks and woolsens as well as the small fine things which are laundered by hand.

Housewives who are readers of this news paper may obtain free a helpful 32 page "Approved Methods of Home Laundering," by Mary Deitz Paul, B. S., Write to National Household Survey, 555 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

The necessary equipment for washing consists of soap or all of these large articles—tubs or machine, wringer, boiler, board, basket, bench and stove, the selection of each article being based on the individual needs of the household. These should be arranged in the space allotted with an eye to the light as well as the convenience.

When not in actual use, each article should be cared for according to the directions which accompany it.

Club Card Party Delightful Affair

One of the delightfully interesting affairs of the week took form in the card party at the Umpqua Park clubhouse sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's club to raise funds for the club, with arrangements in charge of group two of the club women.

The attractive clubs rooms were colorful with a background of orange and yellow, dahlias and zinnias being interspersed with autumn greens. Twenty-nine tables of bridge were in play in the clubrooms and six tables of five hundred and other card games were arranged on the veranda. The club house, which is specially adapted in its arrangement for the sort of entertainment, was filled with interested players and at the end of the games groups were a buzz with conversation, discussing scores about the tables and in groups around the cozy fireplace.

Mrs. Joseph F. Jones received ladies' first prize and first prize for the men went to V. M. Peterson.

Each table presided over several tables where luncheon was served the groups of players.

Following luncheon several found pleasure in dancing to music from the huge orthophonic victrola. The impression was general among those attending that the function was one of the most pleasing and entertaining of the affairs yet sponsored by the club.

The committee in charge of the affair, headed by Miss Rosa B. Parrott, included the Mesdames Story lies, J. K. Falbe, P. J. Hohl, Gilmore, S. L. Kilder, J. E. Sawyers, the Misses Ethel Webb, Lucetta Smith, Vernita Kohlhaugen, Helen Casey, Gladys Smith and Emma Ueland.

Mrs. S. Smith and daughter, Miss Letta Smith, of Oakland, have returned to their home after spending a greater part of the summer at Fort Klamath.

Visits Here—S. J. Gilly of the Coos Vencer and Box company, is here from Coos Bay and will visit friends for a day or so.

Visiting Here—Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Farquhar of Milo, are spending the week end in Roseburg visiting with friends and attending to business affairs.

Leave For Diamond Lake—C. W. Parker, of the Roseburg Garage, and G. W. Burnett left this morning for Diamond Lake, where they will spend several days enjoying a fishing trip.

Visitor From California—Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Fulton and son Theodore of Oxnard, California, Mrs. Hugh Woodward of Patterson, California, and Mr. W. T. Fulton of Camarilla, California, are visiting several days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Trueblood of West Roseburg.

Leaves For Eugene—Don Radabaugh will leave tomorrow for Eugene, where he will be employed in the accounting department of the central store of the Stames Cash Stores chain. He will enter the University of Oregon this fall, and will major in business administration.

Clinics to Be Held—Two clinics have been announced for next week by the county health unit. One will be a tonsil and adenoid clinic at Mercy hospital on Tuesday, eight patients having been found in need of this treatment. The second will be held on Friday at Glendale, and will be an immunization clinic, where youngsters who are starting to school this fall will be vaccinated against smallpox. Arrangements for the latter clinic have been made by the Glendale Community Group of the health association.

Leave For California—W. M. Bruce and wife departed Wednesday for southern California, where they will locate for the present, though their stay will not be permanent, says the Myrtle Creek Mail. Mr. Bruce, who is a member of the Bruce Land Co., of Myrtle Creek, has gone south to establish agencies in both Los Angeles and San Diego, to work in conjunction with the Myrtle Creek office in promoting land sales. Since coming to Myrtle Creek Mr. Bruce has been investigating land conditions in this county and as far north as Brownsville in the Willamette valley, and he is going back to California with a pretty fair knowledge of land values here, and is confident that he can get many California people interested in Oregon property.
