DR. OWENS-ADIR DEAD AT HOME IN CLATSOP COUNTY

money to continue her studies and applied for admission to Jefferson College. The regents were "shocked, scandalized and enraged," Dr. Adair said in her memoirs, by the mere suggestion that a woman be admitted to the study of medicine and she was refused entrance to the college. She went to Ann Arbor and completed her work, obtaining her degrees in two years, finishing her studies with a trip abroad.

In 1884 she was married to Colonel John Adair of Portland, her husband passing away in 1914.

In 1905 Dr. Owens-Adair became an active leader in the movement for sterilization of certain types of criminally insane, and was the author of two bills which were adopted in 1917 and 1919 by the respective legislatures of those years.

In the last few years she has retired to the large home tract in Clatsop county.

She is survived by one son, Dr. George Hill, of Los Angeles.

Her life is one which in its details is an inspiration to those who read of it. Under the greatest of handicaps, but possessed of a determination to achieve, she labored to obtain an education, inured to the hardships of pioneer life, brought up to labor to the limit of her endurance, fighting poor health and a weak constitution, denied youth through marriage to an abusive man at the age of 14 years, cast upon the world without education and with an infant son to support, her later life is an outstanding example of what indomitable willpower coupled with hard work, can achieve. Before her marriage to Colonel Adair she had risen to a high position in her profession, had put her own through medical college and had obtained sufficient wealth to provide for her declining years.

Dr. Owens-Adair, although making her home in Clatsop County, largely because of her large frequent visits to Roseburg, where she had many friends who are grieved to learn of her death. Only a short time ago she visited at the home of Mrs. N. A. Party in this city and renewed friendships and made new acquaintances.

SALEM, Ore., Sept. 13.—Commendation of the life work of Dr. Bertha E. Owens-Adair, who died at her home at Astoria Sunday at the age of 86, was expressed here today by Governor Pierce and Dr. W. B. Morse, a member of the state board of health. Both have strongly believed in the legislation fostered by Dr. Owens-Adair, providing for sterilization of human defectives, as has been said by Dr. R. E. Steiner, superintendent of the state hospital for the insane; Dr. J. N. Smith, superintendent of the state institution for the feeble-minded and Miss Cornelia Marvin, state librarian.

Miss Marvin, for some years has been closely in touch with the work of Dr. Owens-Adair, assisting her in preparing for publication of her book on heredity, and other articles published by the woman doctor. The three latter are out of the city and could not be reached for comment on her work. Miss Marvin, however, was at one time heard to remark that Dr. Owens-Adair would ultimately be recognized as one of the notable women of her period.

For years prior to the successful culmination of legislation fostered by her, Dr. Owens-Adair was an interesting and picturesque figure about the lobbies of the Oregon legislature.

Intent on the work to which she gave the major effort of her life, she was oblivious of all else, manifesting the eccentricities often attributed to genius. Apparently she gave no thought to her personal appearance; no thought of fashion in dress, even detracting from the attention she gave to things she considered worth while.

"SHOOT TO KILL" IS ORDER GIVEN U. S. MAIL CLERKS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Post-office department employees were under orders today to "shoot to kill" to protect the millions of dollars in their care.

The command to the 22,500 railway mail clerks and the other employees of the department was determined upon yesterday by Postmaster General New at a council of war with his lieutenants as the result of the recent Illinois robbery in which bandits stole approximately $135,000 in currency.

It was indicated also that if the new orders fail to protect the mails, the United States marine corps might be called upon, as it was in 1921, when banditry was prevalent.

Salmon with Macaroni

This is another meat substitute dish. Pick one can of salmon into small pieces. Make two cups of ordinary white sauce. Put a layer of boiled macaroni broken into one inch lengths in the bottom of a baking dish, next a layer of sauce, then a layer of salmon and continue this process until dish is filled. Sauce should come last and be sprinkled with buttered crumbs. Bake until brown.

Sliced Salmon Salad

A particularly attractive looking salad is made by slicing the canned salmon with a very sharp knife, laying forty-five minutes, turn on a hot platter, pour either white sauce or Hollandaise sauce over and around it. Serve hot. This dish serves as an entire course for diners.
