CANNED SALMON AND FRUIT MOVE IN HUGE VOLUMES

Shipments From Portland of Oregon Products Represent Large Sums of Money.

Large shipments of canned salmon are moving out of Portland. During the first sixteen days of September 7,876 cases weighing 432,860 pounds, with a value of $79,700.00 cleared for United Kingdom and Australian ports. Shipments up to September 1st were 599,256 pounds. Due to the closing of the packing season and the arrival of large quantities from Alaskan waters, September usually shows a larger movement. The year's volume ordinarily moves during the latter part of the year.

Shipments to Atlantic Coast ports during the same period totaled 7,094 cases, weighing 344,119 pounds, with an estimated value of $69,000.00.

Canned pears will grace the tables in many homes in the United Kingdom during the coming winter. According to a report issued by the Traffic Department of the Port of Portland Commission, 10,356 cases of canned pears weighing 542,525 pounds, with a value of $43,000.00 cleared for United Kingdom ports during the first sixteen days of September. This was in addition to large shipments of other canned goods including 14,423 cases of canned loganberries valued at $63,877.00.

The movement to Atlantic Coast ports during the same period shows a total of 63,656 cases of canned goods weighing 3,259,277 pounds. Canned goods moving to Atlantic and Gulf ports up to September 1st, has reached a total of 16,501,130 pounds.

The local druggists are evidently preparing for a hard winter as a shipment of cough drops weighing ten tons arrived from the Atlantic Coast during the last few days. This supply should be ample to cure many colds.

Municipal Terminal No. 4 is a very busy place during this season of the year. In addition to the large movement of wheat that is being handled by the municipal elevator, the other facilities are receiving their share. The past three weeks, records show the arrival of two shipments of cocoanut oil and one of peanut oil from the Orient. During one day the past week, 22 cars were loaded with peanut oil from the storage tanks destined for points in Eastern Canada.

Two lots of zinc concentrates weighing 4,453,700 pounds, cleared for Belgium during the first two weeks of September. This commodity is handled through the bulk storage facilities maintained on Pier No. 5, unloaded from the cars with the automatic car unloader, carried to the storage bins and from there to the vessel on a belt conveyor.

It is well worth the time of any citizen to spend a few hours at Terminal No. 4 and observe the different operations that are carried on there. Ample space is provided for the parking of automobiles for those who drive and a regular street car service is also maintained.

UMPQUA CHIEFS TO HOLD BANQUET ON WEDNESDAY EVE.
Tickets are now being offered for sale for the banquet to be held Wednesday evening by the Umpqua Chiefs at the Rose hotel. The Chiefs are planning to open membership in the organization for a brief period and take in enough new members to replace those who have been lost through removal, death or inactivity. Membership in the hospitality club is limited and each member is required to be active at all times or he is dropped from the list. The work of the Umpqua Chiefs is such that its members must be willing at all times to devote themselves to the tasks to which the organization is committed. It is therefore a civic unit of much power in planning and carrying out activities for city or county welfare.

At the banquet on Wednesday night a number of prospective members will be present and the work of the club, together with a history of its past achievements as a guide to understanding will be presented. Those who are then willing to accept a position, pledging a willingness to work for the welfare of the city and county, will be accepted as members.

Over two billion smoked a month! —and for just one reason

All headed one way, for natural tobacco taste

NO doubt about it. Over two billion Chesterfields are smoked every month, and even today, after four years of record-breaking gains, Chesterfield is still America's fastest-growing cigarette.

To men who know tobacco, that means just one thing: American smokers have found what they wanted—natural tobacco taste and character. They've found it in Chesterfields only—and the shift to Chesterfield is on!

WHENCE OUR A B C'S?

WHERE did our Alphabet come from? From signs of things—hieroglyphics, symbols? From the six-tent letters of the Phoenicians carried into Greece, thence to Rome and on to Britain? MOVIE NOTES

ANTLERS THEATRE.

"Mantrap" Makes Fine Impression

Hailed as a "different" picture of the great outdoors, "Mantrap," which opens Wednesday at the Antlers Theatre, furnishes something distinctly novel in pictures. "Mantrap" is a powerful love story which ripples with the humor and satire of its distinguished author, Sinclair Lewis, who will be remembered for "Main Street," "Babbitt" and "Arrowsmith."

It is the tale of a summer camping trip taken by Percy Marmont, a young New York lawyer, who is tired of listening to woman clients asking for divorces; and a stocking manufacturer, Eugene Pallette, who proves to be nothing but a grand "Babbitt" at large on a camping trip. Of course, Marmont doesn't get away from women, love triangles or marital infelicity by going to the Canadian woods. Instead he finds himself drawn into a domestic love situation as one of the principal characters. Clara Bow is the girl, and she is nothing short of magnificent. The part was simply cut out for her from start to finish, and how she does walk away with it! As a manieutist in a Minneapolis barber shop, who unexpectedly finds herself married and living in a hum-drum Canadian trading post, Clara has the best role of her career.

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

Ben Wilson Another Smashing Hit

The Majestic Theatre will show Ben Wilson in a new thrilling picture on Tuesday and Wednesday. "Vic Dyson Pays," an Arrow "Great Western," will be enjoyed by all who love the excitement of stirring drama and sweet romance. The title part, played by Wilson, depicts a man with a bitter outlook on life, who changes his views with an incentive—to make a good impression on the sweet little heroine, portrayed by Nova Gerber. "Vic Dyson" tells the villain in all his attempts to trick him out of his ranch, which is wanted as a railroad right-of-way, and after the two men meet on the bridge, where they have a terrific battle, Nova confesses her love for the man she has vowed to hate, thus reaching a conclusion which will be enjoyed by the most critical audience.

LIBERTY THEATRE.

Gripping Scenes in Fine Picture "Silence"

It is 5:30 a. m. The scene is in the death home. The condemned man who is to be hanged at the stroke of six. A young District Attorney is pleading with him, urging him to tell the full story of the murder of which he was convicted. It is apparent he is withholding important evidence which might save him. But even as the hour for his death grows nearer and nearer, the doomed man's lips remained sealed—he maintains his strange silence.

Such is the dramatic opening situation of "Silence," Beulah Marie Davis' thrilling screen version of Max Marcin's famed crook melodrama, which was filmed under Rupert Julian's direction, and which will be shown at the Liberty Theatre for the last time today.

The action is swiftly shifted from the death house back through the years into narrative, which builds up a series of suspenseful but eventually bring the principals back to the death house for the closing scenes, and a terrible fire in the prison which marks the picture's climax.
