CIVIL WAR VET DIES BEFORE NAME CLEARED

Soldier With Three Honorable Discharges Still Held as Deserter.

TOO MUCH RED TAPE

Bill Still Pending in Congress to Clear Record—Served in Three Companies.

Holding three honorable discharges yet classed as a deserter, Henry Von Hess, aged 91 years, a veteran of the Civil War, passed away at the Oregon Soldiers Home last night, death coming before congress took final action to remove the stigma from his name. A stigma brought about apparently through accident and left to embitter a hero's lifetime because of the intricacies of army red tape.

Von Hess was born in Germany and came to this city as a young man, landing in the United States about three months before the Civil War broke out. Fired with patriotism for his new country he enlisted in Company A, 13th Illinois Cavalry. This company was subjected to the most rigorous campaigning and as a result of continued exposure and poor conditions Mr. Von Hess developed an illness which caused him to be discharged for physical disability July 1, 1862.

After a few months he had regained his health and reenlisted in Company M, 14th Illinois Cavalry October 5, 1862, serving with this organization about a year. During the thick of a skirmish a cannon ball struck a tree nearby, and a huge splinter of wood struck his leg and crushed it, so that for more than a year he was moved from hospital to hospital, and finally was discharged at St. Louis, Mo.

He had lost contact in the meantime with his former command and with a hospital discharge in his pocket to supplement the honorable discharge which terminated his first enlistment, he again returned to the war. Seeking a recruiting officer he was advised that it would not be necessary to return to his former company but that he could reenlist and consequently he joined Co. G, 41st Missouri Infantry, serving until the close of the war.

The fact that he enlisted in a Missouri company without a discharge from the Illinois cavalry, placed him in the position of a deserter, a stigma from which he was never cleared, and which embittered the latter days of his life.

G. A. R. and W. R. C. posts for years interested themselves in his behalf, but were never able to penetrate the maze of red tape which surrounded the case.

G. W. Riddle, commandant of the Oregon Soldiers Home, was one of those who endeavored to assist Mr. Von Hess in his task of clearing his name.

"Correspondence shows," Mr. Riddle says, "that Senator Mitchell and Chamberlain had introduced bills for his relief but failed. Senator McNary also introduced a bill, which is now pending, and which, if passed, will clear his record."

"In preparing a statement of his case for Senator McNary I contended that Von Hess was not conscious of wrong doing in enlisting in the Missouri infantry when he had lost contact with his Illinois cavalry company, as he had enlisted under his true name and was wrongly advised by a recruiting officer."

During his last years Von Hess, unable to secure a pension, was destitute of money except contributions from friends, relatives and G. A. R. and W. R. C. posts, which have occasionally provided him with spending money. In the last few years the Roseburg and Portland G. A. R. posts have given him a regular monthly allowance, which, however, was very small.

He was admitted to the Soldiers Home May 21, 1910 and resided there continuously except for a short interval until the time of his death.

A daughter, Mrs. Louise Heimling, of Troutdale, Oregon, and a granddaughter, Mrs. Louise Cole, of Kelso, Washington, are the only known relatives.

LABOR FEDERATION TAKES FIRM STAND AGAINST SOVIET

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

DETROIT, Oct. 13.—Characterizing the Soviet regime in Russia as "the assassin standing over the prostrate body of freedom and democracy," the American Federation of Labor today renewed its pledge to give no quarter "to that regime of enslavement" or its friends and sympathizers in America.

Reporting a resolution advocating diplomatic recognition of Russia by the United States government, the convention's committee on resolutions expressed "full agreement with President Coolidge in holding that American principles are not to be bartered or frowned upon a proposed labor commission of investigation in Russia, and extended "profound sympathy to the masses of the people of Russia in their moral, political and spiritual enslavement."

"We regard the Soviet regime as the most unscrupulous, most antisocial, most menacing institution in the world today," the report said.
