GREAT RECEPTION TO QUEEN MARIE AT RITZ CARLTON

Noted Americans Eager to Kiss Royal Hand So Well Trained With Cigarettes.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Having received the homage of some of America's most prominent citizens who marched past an improved throne, many of them kissing her hand, Queen Marie of Rumania today turned her attention to the Philadelphia Sesqui-Centennial exposition of America's independence.

General John J. Pershing was the first of 700 who were presented to the queen at a reception in the Ritz Carlton Hotel last night. The line formed in the grand ball room, which had been converted into a colorful autumnal forest decorated with Rumanian flags.

Her son, Prince Nicholas, and daughter, Princess Ileana, and a half dozen others were in the receiving line with Queen Marie. She wore a dress which had the appearance of solid silver, surrounding her head and flaring outward at the sides was a tiara of diamonds and pearls, while high in front of the tiara was a magnificent emerald, the size of a walnut. On each side of the tiara was one other great queen stone.

From the regal head dress hung a series of ropes of pearls caught under the chin. She also wore a necklace of large diamonds and bracelets of pearls around each wrist. Draped from her shoulders was a train of brilliant jade green which fell to the floor and dragged a few inches. The train was underlined with silver. The queen carried a bouquet of orchids. After presentations and the supper in the dining room the guests returned to the ball room for dancing. The queen does not dance but Prince Nicholas and Princess Ileana took part and apparently enjoyed it immensely.

Such dissipation has arisen over a recent performance at the Metropolitan Opera which the queen will attend Sunday night that Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, wife of the president of the Guaranty Trust company, named as a patroness, has repudiated her connection with the affair.

The use of Governor Smith's name as "honorary chairman of the reception committee," was unauthorized, it is stated on the governor's behalf.

California Passed Up.
NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Failure of California women to signify intention of attending a reception in honor of women of all the states in the union and the refusal of two railroads to move Queen Marie's private train for a nominal charge were given today as the reasons for California being stricken from the list of states to be honored by a visit of the royal traveler.

The reasons were given by a member of the queen's suite, on provision that the source of the information be withheld.

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad, the informant of the Associated Press said, had provided the queen with a ten-car private train. Requests were made of various railroads to provide power for moving the train over the tracks. All agreed, the informant said, except the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe railroads.

The queen extended invitations to women of all states to attend a reception which was to give in their honor," the informant said. "The women of California did not accept the invitation. Coupled with the fact that the queen has not received an invitation of any importance from any one in California, she decided, after considering the refusal of the railroads that she would not visit California."

HOW much fun you get out of a pipe depends largely on one thing: the tobacco. The pipe itself is the accessory, after all. The tobacco's the thing. That's why the most contented bunch of smokers in the world smoke Prince Albert exclusively.

The instant you open a tidy red tin of P. A., you know this tobacco is unlike any other. That warm, rich fragrance! Only real tobacco could give off such an appetizing aroma. You are completely won to P. A. when you smoke that first load.

Cool as a cove, sheltered from the beat of the sun. Sweet as a breath of clover. Fragrant as fresh-cut flowers . . . fragrant and mild. Yet with a body that satisfies your smoke-taste right down to the ground. A rare combination, Men.

It is a pretty safe guess that, if you smoke one tin of Prince Albert—all of it—you will continue to smoke Prince Albert from then on. That has been the experience of other pipe-smokers. It's worth finding out about. Buy some P. A. today.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, round and half-pound tin tins, and round crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and punch removed by the Prince Albert process.

Blackfoot tribe has made considerable progress in farming in that period and even produced the necessary pumpkins with which to "celebrate the occasion."

The boys and girls are all ready for Halloween pranks, but these copper-colored kids are too sternly held in hand to think of tipping over a tepee or even wishing that Indians used ash cans so they might lug them up the mountain side and turn them loose to roll noise down into the wigwam village.

NO TUBERCULOSIS IN OREGON

(Oregon State Board of Health.)
To eradicate tuberculosis completely from the State of Oregon it will be necessary for each individual or head of the family to be sufficiently informed on the subject of tuberculosis to know that this disease is both curable and preventable. Everyone should be interested not only in tuberculosis, but other diseases which greatly influence the lives, happiness and conduct of so many people. Approximately 600 persons die from tuberculosis in the State of Oregon each year. Nearly 6,000 are sick with tuberculosis part of the time and at least 3,000 are under constant treatment for the disease.

The amount of suffering is incalculable and the economic cost of caring for this large number of patients runs into thousands of dollars annually. Tuberculosis is just as prevalent, if not more so, in other states. Tuberculosis is the most widely distributed of all diseases. Wherever mankind becomes massed in groups tuberculosis appears. It is no respecter of person. It has claimed many of the world's great men and women. It is no disgrace to have been a victim of this disease. It is, however, unforgivable to communicate this disease to others. A tuberculosis patient who follows the sanitary regulations, can be a real asset to the community by establishing good sanitary habits well to adopt. Environment is a factor in which fellow citizen would do significant factor in the production and maintenance of tuberculosis. A large number of cases can be traced to the home. Tuberculosis occurs in households. In actual fact there commonly is an existing source of infection within the household. This may be present in a readily recognized consumptive or more frequently in a member of a household hardly suspected of being tubercular, i. e. the elderly relative with so-called bronchitis.

Tuberculosis is an infective process for the most part of slow, insidious nature. In its earlier stages it is highly tractable. It is easily arrested under suitable conditions of environment, but is correspondingly persistent in the absence of these.

The sanitarium provides isolation facilities in an active stage of this situation serious consideration when he casts his vote at the next election. A vote for the sanitarium is a vote for humanity.
