The Mode in Furs

Elegance in the Luxurious Wraps Which Appear in the Evening Is Matched in Simplicity for the Daytime

Many of the important points in the winter mode are emphasized in the fur fashions which are exhibited in the smart shops. Shoulders, for instance, in the formal mode have a tendency to turn to dolman sleeves to achieve the new "Barrel" silhouette. In the daytime or sports modes coats show a tailored simplicity of design that is in keeping with the best notes of the winter fashions.

Pelts in the newest coats run vertically and use the horizontal stripes for trimming or a broad effect across the shoulders. Shoulders, in general, are broad and the bloused waist is extremely popular, while the narrow highline and hemline is important.

The luxurious evening wraps show an extreme elegance in both feeling and fur. The richest furs in the most elaborate designs are seen in the formal mode. All coats are supple and designed as if they were cloth. The cape or dolman coat which go to the opera boats most unusual lines. Sleeves are puffed at will, collars are elaborately designed in folds, and in cape effects the bottoms are frequently scalloped into lines of loveliness.

The straight lines, which are popular for the daytime, are found most often in ponskint, stenciled kids, natural muskrat, beavers, sealskins and the ever popular cat family, which include leopard, leopard cat, panther, civet cat and others of mixed coloring. The evening mode, as usual, demands the flat pelted fur such as ermine, mole, mink, squirrel, sable, caracul, chinchilla and kolinsky.

Ermine will always take the lead in formal wraps. It lends itself with flattering results to almost every age and to all designs. Constantine Talmadge, who wears such elaborate fur garments in the First National film, "The Duchess of Buffalo," chooses ermine for her evening wrap.

Mrs. Ralph Weaver, Miss Wilma Talbot and Miss Virginia Van Allen. Covers were placed for the Mesdames W. Raymond, F. Van Allen, Yerkes, H. Dewald, Joe Snyder, J. A. Worthington, Henry Worthington of Roseburg, Alice Green, Cora Beyers, the Mesdames Katherine Eastland of Boise, Idaho, Jessie Newton and Myrtle Buraker.

Mrs. F. H. Churchill, regent of the club, presided, and after the opening ceremony, consisting of the singing of America, pledging allegiance to the flag and repeating of the American creed, a short business session was held.

Mrs. Wm. Bell told of Americanization work at Angel Island and asked that a Christmas box of all kinds of sewing and crochet material and magazines be sent to be used by the women who are detained awaiting their entrance to this country.

Mrs. Churchill, the regent, reported that the year book had been received and distributed to the members and also stated that there will be a joint meeting with the Woman's Club March 14th at which time "The Red Movement" will be discussed. This was followed by a most interesting program which included a paper on immigration Laws given by Mrs. W. E. Boise; Glimpses of Washington, D. C., by Mrs. S. M. Keiley; a flag lesson by Mrs. Wm. Bell, state chairman of Correct Usage of the Flag. By request the flag lessons of each meeting will be postponed.

Mrs. Bell opened the lesson, stating that the word flag is taken from the Anglo-Saxon word, flag or float in the wind. "The word arose back in primeval times," Mrs. Bell continued, "for a sign to distinguish tribes and this later took the form of national ensigns from which we derive our flags."

"The American flag is one of the oldest national flags in the world. It is older than the present British Union Jack, older than the French tricolor, older than the flag of Spain, and many years older than the flags of Germany and Italy."

"It is said that the idea of combining stars and stripes came from Washington's coat of arms. It is also said that the first mention of a star ever made in connection with our flag was a poem published in 1774 in the Massachusetts Spy."

"Our flag has been carried through six memorable conflicts, but has always gone into the battle for the cause of liberty."

"On June 14, 1777 the stars and stripes, by an act of congress became the official flag on the United States. Previous to this at different times and on different occasions, numerous flags—nearly 70 in number—had floated over the colonies."

"On June 14, 1777 the committee reported to congress and the following resolution was passed: 'Resolved, That the flag of the 13 United States be 13 stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be 13 stars, white or a blue field, representing a new constellation.'

"At the time of the adoption of this resolution Washington said, 'We take the stars from heaven, the red from our mother country, separated by white stripes, these showing that we have separated from her, and the white stripes shall go down to posterity representing liberty.'"

Mary Pickford's New Film Her Greatest

Rolling Mary Pickford is back again! The famous little star, whose screen masterpieces have delighted millions throughout the world, has produced another great picture—which has been called her greatest—and it is coming to the Liberty Theatre for 3 days beginning Sunday.

Mary's newest picture is "Sparrows." It deals with the adventures of a band of youngsters on a baby farm. While there is a little message in the picture, as there is in all good pictures, "Sparrows" first of all is entertainment and the sort of entertainment that Mary Pickford fans like.

Mary is cast as "Mama Mollie," the little girl who mothers the forlorn children on the baby farm. She pilots them through many adventures providing much laughter, many thrills and not a few tears.

That is Miss Pickford's unending recipe for an evening's entertainment and in "Sparrows" she is said to have one of the best pictures she has ever made.

The locale of "Sparrows" is in a swampy country of a southern state. Here on an island farm the little scraps of humanity are kept by a cruel keeper and his wife. How they finally overcome the obstacles placed in their path and find their way to a happier life makes up a story as thrilling and as interesting as can be imagined.

Plenty of comedy lightens the more drab sequences and there is action from the opening scenes of the final fade out.

Cast as the ragged little girl, "Mollie" Miss Pickford finds a role that is ideal for her talents. She manages the tots with a skilled hand, and outwits the cruel keeper who thinks more of his pigs than the little children.

Miss Pickford is supported by a splendid cast including one of the most remarkable bands of little children ever assembled in a picture.

Antlers Audience Likes Meighan in "Tin Gods"

With everybody standing on the sidelines and cheering him along, it just had to happen! And it did! Thomas Meighan's newest Paramount feature, "Tin Gods," is a real knockout! At the Antlers, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Supporting Tom, are the two featured women, Renee Adores, heroine of "The Big Parade," and Alleen Pringle, fairy princess of a hundred plots. William Powell, Hale Hamilton and a little boy, Delbert Whitton, Jr., also do capable work.

"Tin Gods" is the old, yet ever new story of "the man who came back." Tom is introduced as the husband of a politically ambitious woman who ruins his love by her lack of interest in their home. Tommy leaves for South America.

There, he forgets home, friends, and job—taking to drink. A dancing girl places him under her care when he succumbs to a tropical fever. Gradually, she shows him the mistake he has made. Soon, he recovers his health, goes back to work, and lives in complete happiness.

But—it doesn't last! His wife, in an effort to win him back, arrives at the construction camp. What happens? It wouldn't be fair to tell, because you'd be surprised.
