With delightful dinner and bridge parties, informal luncheons and dances to fill the round of pleasure during the holidays and a number of visitors in the city, the week past has been a gay part of the winter's social calendar, while entertainment has been centered around New Year's eve, numerous pleasant affairs being arranged to herald the new year.

Two prominent events of Friday evening were the New Year's Watch Party and Frolic at the Roseburg Country Club for members, and the New Year's ball at the Oregon Gardens. The Midnight Frolic at the Antlers theatre was also an entertaining affair sponsored by the Umpqua Chiefs. Churches in the city held joyous watches, with a social time for the young folk during the evening, and lodges and clubs had various programs.

Next week will see the return of the younger set to college and school and the winter schedules of the business and social clubs, whose meetings were postponed over the holidays, will be resumed.

Advent of New Year Marked by Delightful Affair at Country Club

New Year's eve was not without merry-making crowds in attendance at various affairs everywhere in the city to mark the advent of 1927, and none could have been more delightful than the New Year's Watch Party and Frolic for members of the Roseburg Country Club at the club house, which was transformed with gay holiday decorations combined with evergreen boughs and holly.

Cards were the diversion from 8:30 to 10 o'clock, this being followed by dancing, with a good orchestra providing music for the dancers. The evening was interspersed with favor dances and gay stunts to surprise the guests. Midnight supper closed the evening's program which was one of the most successful and enjoyable social affairs to be given by the club this season.

Mr. C. W. Wharton was general chairman of the affair and groups assisting her were, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Thorne, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lockwood and Frank Clements, who were in charge of the dance program; Mrs. Geo. A. Bradburn, Mrs. Geo. T. Bolter, Mrs. Harry Hildebrand, Mrs. Irvin Brun, in charge of refreshments; Mrs. L. J. Broadway, Mrs. Joseph E. Jones and Mrs. Nathan Fullerton, arranging for the cards.

Miss Florence Wharton who has been the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. W. Wharton at their home on Chadwick street over the holidays, left today for Boise, Idaho, where she is instructor of physical education in the schools.

L. F. T. Club Gives Christmas Dance

L. F. T. Club's Christmas dance and supper was among the larger parties of the week and proved a unique and pleasant affair Tuesday evening at the K. P. hall, which was attractive with profusions of evergreens and bright holiday decorations.

Two favor dances were featured, one being the means of drawing supper partners. An exchange of gifts at the time was an interesting feature of the entertainment and was followed by supper in the banquet room.

The club is planning another pleasurable affair for this month to take place on the evening of the 25th.

Mrs. Ivan B. McKinney of Portland has been an attractive visitor in the city as the guest of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Fred Haynes, spending Christmas with them. Mrs. McKinney returned to Portland Thursday.

Niece of Roseburg Folk Weds San Franciscan

Miss Mildred W. Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hall of Portland, and Harris B. Sproules of San Francisco, son of Mrs. L. Sproules, were married Sunday afternoon at a simple service at the First Christian church, Rev. H. H. Griffith officiating.

The bride wore a gown of light green georgette combined with gold metal. Miss Felice Hansen, her only attendant, wore a frock of coal satin. Watson Barr acted as best man.

After a month's wedding trip in California, Mr. and Mrs. Sproules will make their home in San Francisco, where Mr. Sproules is in business—Portland Oregonian.

The marriage is of interest to a number of society folk in Roseburg who will remember Mrs. Sproules during her visit in the city some time ago. She is the niece of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Williams of Roseburg and made a number of friends during her stay as their guest. Mr. and Mrs. Sproules passed through the city Tuesday on their way south.

Charming Dinner Honors Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Bates

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Crawford entertained at one of the attractive dinner parties of the week complimenting Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Bates, who leave soon for an extended motor trip to California, asking them to their home on Thursday evening.

The table appointments were in red and white, carried out with candles, quaint red favors and a low bowl of carnations used as centerpiece. Covers were placed for Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Bates, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Fullerton, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schwartz, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Brun, Mr. and Mrs. Ben C. Zigler, and Mr. and Mrs. Crawford.

Following the dinner hour tables were placed for bridge with Mr. and Mrs. Brun receiving first prize and Mr. and Mrs. Zigler second at the end of the game.

Miss Grace Lloyd, who was the house guest of her sister, Mrs. Fred Donner over Christmas, left the first of the week for her home at Sausalito, California.

Club to Elect Officers and Have Party Next Week

That their meeting might not interfere with the holidays, the Business and Professional Women's Club meeting and party, which was to have been held Christmas week was postponed and will take place on the evening of January 9 at the studio of the Heinline conservatory, a business meeting at 7:30 o'clock to precede the social program. Nomination and election of officers as well as reports will make this part of the evening important to members, who are urged to be present.

A good program and interesting entertainment, in charge of Virginia Riggs, will be a part of the informal evening to follow the business session.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Heinline have as their house guest over the holidays Mrs. Sarah Eldridge of Portland.

Attractive Visitor Complimented at Bridge Party on Tuesday Evening

Complimenting Miss Kathleen McClelland of Ponca City, Oklahoma, who is here for the holiday season, her mother, Mrs. C. M. Lloyd, and Mrs. Wayne E. Jones entertained at the home of the former on East Lane street Tuesday evening, inviting a group of young matrons and maids for bridge.

High honors went to Miss Bertha Kohlhagen and second prize was received by Miss Virginia Riggs. Low score was held by Mrs. May Byron.

Mr. and Mrs. Heinline Are Dinner Hosts Sunday

An attractive holiday dinner of the week was that at which Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Heinline entertained a few of their friends at their Laurelwood home Sunday.

Holly and a tiny Christmas tree formed the table's centerpiece and covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Cully, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Canada, Miss Florence Yeo, Miss Martha Yeo and Mr. and Mrs. Heinline.

Kid and Leather Are New

Coats for Sportswear Are Popular in All Colors of Kidskin. Kid and Fur Combination, Too, Are Seen

The sports coat will, of course, be seen throughout the winter season. The passing of the football period has in no way dimmed the popularity of the sports fur or leather coat that went so proudly to the gridiron. Indeed, the football season but served to introduce the serviceability and smartness of the truly chic sports fur or leather coat.

Trim lines are accentuated in the sports models. There is a dash and straightness of line to the informal coat that marks it for youth's own. And the leather or kidskin coat has entered into a season that demands the unusual in its wardrobe with so much style that at least one coat should appear in the young person's wardrobe.

Kidskins come in natural tones or may be dyed almost any shade. With kashas favored for linings in the sports coat, there is a great chance to introduce color to the sports world. Leather coats strikingly lined in reds, greens, orange, rose and blue appear almost everywhere. These eye linings frequently appear, adding a colorful note to the leather coat in either lapel, collar, cuff or in a general banding effect that is highly satisfying and new.

Black kidskin lined in scarlet presented one of the smartest pictures recently at a sports event, while the white kidskin coat worn by Alice White in her first National film, "The Runaway Enchantress," is no less distinguished. It possesses an attractive feature in its black fox collar, which furthers the popularity of that always becoming combination of black and white.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Henry Surprised by Group

A pleasant affair of the week was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Henry of Umpqua, a group of their friends surprising them on Wednesday evening. Games were enjoyed and the evening was spent informally. Mr. and Mrs. Henry were presented with two lovely gifts for their home by their friends.

A buffet luncheon was served the Mesdames Margaret Hannan, M. E. James, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Roadman, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Parrott, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Bacon, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Henry, the Misses Lorraine Bacon, Virginia Leatherwood, Nelda Roadman, Thelma James and Jacob Thornburgh, Ted Roadman, Carl Broszio, Delbert Leatherwood, Calvin Henry, Jack Parrott, Gerald Bacon and Bruce Parrott.

Younger Maids Entertained by Miss Dorothy Marsters

Miss Dorothy Marsters invited the girls of the Standard Deacons to her home one evening last week for an informal affair, arranging an exchange of gifts at a prettily decorated Christmas tree and other entertainment for her guests.

Included in the group were the girls' advisor, Mrs. Richard Slater, the Misses Wilma Davis, Margaret Hewitt, Elizabeth Abraham, Pauline Hughes, Vera McClintock, Pauline Bubar, Shirley Knight, Helen Bergh, Hazel Marks, Jessie Judd, Phyllis Shields, Pauline Steg, A. M. Sieg, Joan Whitney, Lucille Germond, Hazel Marshback, Hazel Strickland and Frances Butler and the hostess.

Golger-McKenney Nuptials Solemnized at Pretty Holiday Wedding

At a pretty ceremony on Christmas eve at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Golger in Roseburg, Miss Mary E. McKenney of Astoria, Washington, and Henry Bertram Golger of Tenille were married, the affair being attended by members of the families of both couples. Evergreen boughs and holly formed an attractive background for the marriage service, which was performed by Rev. Joseph Knotts. Miss Narcissa Golger was the bride's only attendant and Emery McKinney of Astoria, Washington, was best man.

Mrs. Golger is an attractive young woman and visited in this city for a few months last summer. She is the daughter of Mrs. Sarah McKenney of Astoria, Washington, and attended school in Washington and Idaho. Mr. Golger is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Golger of this city and attended school at Forest Grove, Washington. Mr. and Mrs. Golger will make their home at Tenille.

Daughters of Job Tea Is Delightful Affair

One of the attractive social affairs of the week was the Daughters of Job tea for the matrons of the Daughters of the Nile Club on Tuesday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock in the Masonic reception room, which was prettily decorated for the occasion.

Mrs. Ed Deardorff and Mrs. Geo. A. Bradburn presided at the tea table and a group of girls assisted in the room. Several vocal numbers by Miss Evelyn Quine, who is spending the holidays with her parents, Judge and Mrs. Geo. K. Quine, were enjoyed and Miss Edress Judd, who is also home until after New Year's, gave several delightful piano numbers.

J. O. Watson is returning from Portland Sunday after spending the holiday season in the metropolis as a guest of his mother.

De Molays Give One of Pleasant Dancing Parties of Week

DeMolay chapter of Masonic lodge entertained with one of the festive dances of the season, inviting a large number of guests for the holiday affair taking place at the Moose hall Thursday evening.

Entertainment combined with the dancing provided diversion for the guests during the evening. Ott's orchestra providing music for the dancers. This pleasant affair of the chapter will be followed by other dances during the winter.

Local Veterans and Guests Banquet Thursday

A group of local veterans who attended the Coos Bay American Legion convention held this year in Marshfield, held a banquet in the Indian room of the Hotel Umpqua on Thursday evening of this week, inviting their wives and a few additional guests. The banquet table was decorated to commemorate the Coos Bay convention and place cards bearing a cartoon likeness of each guest caused much amusement. Following the party was a dance to the Roseburg club house, where dancing was enjoyed during the remainder of the evening. Enjoying the pleasant affair were Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Crafton, Mr. and Mrs. James T. Goodman, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Denn, Mr. and Mrs. Woodley Stephenson, Mr. and Mrs. Bert G. Bates, Miss Maxine Sykes, Miss Doris Jackson, Mr. Charles Patchett and Mr. Oscar Berrie.

Members of Cobb Family Guests of Dillards

Carrying out a tradition established several years ago the members of the Cobb family united in their entertainment of Christmas day, this year Dr. and Mrs. L. A. Dillard entertaining a few in the afternoon and others at dinner in the evening.

In the afternoon covers were placed for Mrs. S. E. Cobb, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Cobb, Miss Lois Cobb, Mrs. L. A. Dillard, Mrs. Dillard and Dr. and Mrs. Dillard. Guests for the evening were Mrs. T. J. Critser, Mrs. S. F. Cobb, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cobb, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Cobb, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Cobb, the Misses Hildred Cobb, Naomi Cobb, Helen Cobb, Virginia Cobb, Lois Cobb, Lucien Cobb and Eldred Cobb.

Unique Program Given at Christmas Party Thursday Afternoon

South Circle of the Ladies Aid of the First M. E. Church Christmas party was a delightful occasion for Thursday afternoon, when the members were entertained by Mrs. W. R. Irie and Mrs. H. E. Cully at the home of the former at 808 South Main street. A green and red color motif prevailed in the floral motif in the rooms and at luncheon later in the afternoon.

Mrs. Dunlop of Hibbing, Minnesota, and Mrs. Cave of Medford, attractive visitors in the city, were additional guests at the affair.

The program was a most entertaining and unusual one, each feature being named a part of a Christmas menu. The first, called the entree, was general conversation among the guests, and was followed by bread, a scripture reading. The menu then was prayer and tiny sweets were 15 little children, members of Mrs. F. H. Churchill's primary department in the church, who gave a most unique Christmas entertainment. This was followed by combination vegetables, otherwise business of the meeting. Dickens' "The Birds' Christmas Carol" given in condensed form by Mrs. H. A. Canada, was the favorite salad course of the menu. Assorted fruits, which really was the distribution of gifts to guests, proved one of the most pleasant parts of the program and afterward the matrons were served luncheon at daintily appointed tables.

FAMOUS SCULPTOR TELLS HOW TO MAKE OR MARRY BEAUTY

Brenda Putnam, woman sculptor whose works have won numerous medals and the acclamation of art critics everywhere, thinks that women spoil the contour of their faces by the wrong use of make-up, but bobbed hair and short skirts add to the graceful lines of the body, according to Hildegarde Fillmore who interviewed Miss Putnam for the December McCall's.

The famous sculptor is quoted as saying: "To me, our everyday way of looking at beauty is only a small part of it. Most people think of beauty in terms of a beautiful face. The angle, the set of the head with relation to the rest of the body is the secret of so much that is either lovely or unlovely about people. I would venture to say that by looking at the set of a head we could often learn far more about our neighbors than by looking at their faces."

"Of course," Miss Putnam continued, her large eyes turning restlessly from one sculptured piece to another, "faces, too, interest me intensely. I am struck first by the things that women do to their faces. Take such a superficial thing as make-up. Now, there is nothing wrong with make-up, as such, but I find that there is every-

Just Folks, and Faces.
I have met a lot of people in this big world of ours,
I've met them in the city, and in the country bowers.
Most of them were human in their actions and their mind,
But some of them were beastly, and just naturally unkind.
Now when you meet a fellow man who greets you with a smile,
And you know for sure he means it you'd walk for him a mile.
Or do any thing in reason to help him on his way.
Go back him to the limit in any thing he'd say.

But if you meet the beastly kind,
And note his sneaking grin,
You naturally would watch him, and expect some dirty sin.
For nature prints our faces as plain as any book,
And those with eyes can read them if they will only look.
A man may be a preacher, and yet be foxy, too,
A man may be a cowboy, and still be truest blue.
No matter what his job may be, he for himself, must stand,
'Tis he, who's just a sneaking thief, or he who's simply grand.

So watch the faces one by one,
That pass you day by day,
And read therein the story of what their features say.
Be sure you have their number, and watch their every move,
If they're honest it won't hurt them, and their honor only prove.
But if they're knaves and rascals, and you see their little game,
The story in their faces will help to warn you just the same.
So learn to read the faces, we all of us are folks,
Some are honest, some are knaves, and some are only jakes.
D. L. MAXWELL.

thing wrong with the way so many women use it. I see girls who deliberately blur and spoil the contours of their faces by the wrong accent—or by too much. To any one who has worked with clay, these faces seem to be twisted out of shape. I want to mold them back to beauty.
"Well, speaking of things that we spoil, I'd like to make a plea for feet. As for most of our ankles, no Greek sculptor would have called the fashionable slim ankle beautiful. They always make their ankles strong and firm enough to bear the weight of the body.
"But if we have offended the matter of feet, we are kinder to ourselves in the matter of our clothing. Short skirts, with the freedom of movement and the grace which they allow, are a joy to me. And the lines of our silhouettes seem to get nearer to a sculptor's idea of beauty.
"One aid to graceful lines is bobbed hair. As a sculptor, I am glad that it is no longer freakish. Too short hair is apt to be ungraceful, but there is a just-right length which contributes definitely to beauty.
"It frightens me sometimes to discover how much clothes have to do with beauty. When we wear workaday and unbecoming clothes, when our noses are shiny and our faces go unpowdered, we sink into the unnoticed millions. 'Tis hard for a sculptor to have to admit it, but the right clothes do make us beautiful in the eyes of the world. If this be treason, we women must make the most of it."

The following poem was composed by Mrs. S. E. Burroway of this city and was written to her grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Penron, who are doing missionary work in Korea:
You live in old Korea,
So far away, you two,
But we are sending you a present
To last the whole year through.
It comes from the U. S. A.,
The State of Oregon;
The papers will be numerous,
But read them just for fun.
We send to you our love
And our best wishes, too;
Also Bruce Pickens,
But not the kind you chew.
Now when you are lonesome
And don't know what to do,
Just sit down and rest awhile
And read the News-Review.

The Christmas Spirit.
There are hundreds and thousands of presents absurd
That are given with never a care
For the good Christmas spirit, and make true the word
'The gift without giver is bare.'

So let us take heed on this great Christmas day
And search in our hearts' deep recess
And find the true spirit to help us
And love and His kindness express.
