County Judge George K. Quine and District Attorney Guy Gordon left this morning for Salem where they will spend several days attending the sessions of the legislature and working in the interest of measures for the benefit of Douglas county.

ENFORCEMENT OF PROHIBITION IS IMPORTANT

years of prohibition. But we have lost some things.

"First we have lost our frequent parties and spells of stagnation when millions of workers would be unemployed. Every country with plenty of legalized liquor saloons still have these said times but America has had no such experience since prohibition came.

"Second, we have lost our red light districts out of our towns and cities. Commercialized vice in towns the size of Roseburg has perished out of America during the seven years of national prohibition.

Old Soak Gone

"We have lost the 'Old Soak.' So long as the saloons remained every town half the size of Roseburg had from one to a dozen men known as the 'Old Soak.' Since prohibition came I have spoken in many hundreds of American towns big and small, and have queried in every part of the country the face of the 'Old Soak,' and I know that in an overwhelming majority of cases the 'Old Soak' of the licensed liquor saloon days has cleaned up and slunk off his slavery to drink and become an honored gentleman.

"Eternal vigilance is the price continued liberty from the liquor saloon.

"A good part of Canada went back to wartime prohibition at the demand of the wets for the government control of the sale of liquor. The Montreal Star says: 'Boisterous drunkenness and licentiousness are common and drunkenness among women has increased 53 per cent.'

"The Vancouver Sun says that the Liquor board detective force declares that in Vancouver, British Columbia, with unlimited opportunity to get pure liquor under government control, there are 7,000 bootleggers; more than 50 to 1 ever claimed to be in Portland, Oregon, under prohibition.

"All that is needed to bring about a sober, peaceful world is for the United States to hold steady for the enforcement of the prohibition law."

Dr. Bank's address was one of the high spots of the program given at the victory institute which marked the seventh anniversary of national prohibition through the 18th amendment. The attendance was excellent and the program presented was excellent. The institute lasted throughout the afternoon and evening, starting at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, with a dinner in the evening at 6:15 o'clock and a lengthy program at night.

Opened with Devotions The afternoon program opened with devotional exercises led by Mrs. B. L. Eddy, county evangelist. She read various passages of scripture pertaining to her subject of "Victory" and made appropriate comments.

Mrs. W. W. Ashcraft and Mrs. A. B. Taylor sang solos, both accompanied by Mrs. Grant Osborn. Mrs. Lillian Davis then spoke on "Registration," saying that it is the duty of all citizens to register and vote, but that usually only about one half of those entitled to vote do so.

Carl E. Wimberly then spoke up on the subject of visiting the courts, stating that it is the duty of citizens to attend court trials and become acquainted with court proceedings and above all to stand firm for one's convictions.

A. C. Marsters spoke on the subject of the "Benefits of Prohibition in Roseburg," and said that when prohibition was first adopted that many people worried because business would be poor, the town ruined and buildings emptied, while grass would grow in the streets.

To prevent the grass Roseburg paved 20 miles of streets and within 30 days after prohibition was voted all buildings were occupied. Rev. Joseph Knotts took the subject "Getting the truth to the people," telling about the Quebec plan of government control, showing how easy it was for the people to get liquor under such a system, but that the bootlegger was not controlled in his illegal business.

Mrs. Foster Butler spoke from the standpoint of the P. T. A. and child welfare, declaring that the parent-teacher associations are most hearty in sympathy with the work of an organization that will be for the good of childhood.

Legislation Discussed Mrs. Buland, of Portland, the institute speaker, then spoke on "Needed Legislation," mentioning the special bills to which the W. C. T. U. should be interested, urging all members to keep themselves posted on the work of both the state and government law making bodies, and also to write to senators and representatives asking their support on important matters.

Lyman Spencer then sang a baritone solo, accompanied at the piano by Miss Carolyn Strang, after which Mrs. D. C. McSheehy spoke on the subject "Our Weapons." She urged all to register and vote and above all to read W. C. T. U. literature and papers and keep in touch with the situations which arise from time to time. She also urged all members to be faithful to the W. C. T. U. pledge and to appreciate the work of local newspapers.

Mrs. V. J. Micelli spoke on the Lillian Stephens Memorial Fund

Mrs. Stephens was one of the first of the W. C. T. U. workers and one of the national presidents for several years. All W. C. T. U. organizations are asked to contribute to the fund.

Mrs. H. R. Ferguson told of the national plans for 1927. The meeting closed with the W. C. T. U. benediction.

A dinner was served at 6:15, with Mrs. Buland presiding. Several interesting numbers were presented for entertainment, the principal address being made by District Attorney Guy Gordon who spoke on "Law Enforcement." Mrs. Emma Faulkner gave a tribute to the honorary members of the W. C. T. U.

Contest in Evening The evening program was a fitting culmination to the splendid institute, opening with the singing of "America," with Mrs. Heintz Mrs. A. C. Marsters presided over the meeting, which was led line at the piano. County President in prayer by Rev. R. W. Achor.

There were a number of musical treats, including a mixed quartette by Messadames Booth and Cully and Messrs Geddes and Whipple, a solo by Mrs. H. E. Cully and a male quartette by Messrs, Geddes, Whipple, Cully and Love, accompanied by Mrs. Heintz.

Dr. Louis Albert Banks then spoke after which Mrs. W. S. Jost, president of the Roseburg Woman's club spoke on the subject, "How are you Selling Prohibition?"

A silver medal contest was then given, Mrs. Maybelle Church being in charge. The contestants were Ollie Lawrence, Joyce Busenbark, Lucille Patterson, Grace Wallace and Eldred Cordon, Miss Busenbark receiving the medal. The other contestants were awarded potted plants. A bouquet was also presented Mrs. Buland.

Hon. H. A. Canaday gave an outstanding patriotic address, speaking of some of the wet propaganda that is being circulated in the community and how ready people are to believe what is said.

Following Mr. Canaday's talk prizes for the recently conducted essay contest were awarded. Myra Hartley and Edgar Howar, high school winners, each read their own essays and received the prize of $5. The other winners were S.A. Annabelle Fisher, Benson school, $4; B.B. Patricia Neal, Rose school, $3.50; S.S. Allen Pierce, Rose school, $2.50; B.B. Dorothy Abbott, Fullerton school, $2. The essay contest work was conducted by Mrs. V. J. Micelli, over 75 essays being submitted from the local schools.

The institute closed with a prayer by Rev. Matthews.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.
Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

IT IS GOING TO BE A DISGRACE TO BE FAT

Dr. Lorenz, the famous orthopedic surgeon who has recently come to our country, was interviewed by a newspaper reporter soon after his arrival. Knowing the universal interest in weight reduction, the reporter asked the doctor if he had any cure for obesity. His answer, according to the paper, was this: "If you are so constituted to be fat, you must be fat; and if you are inclined to be thin, you can eat to the point of indigestion and still not be fat. No medicine taken to either lose or gain weight is of any use, and that American ladies are starving themselves to a point where their health is impaired in their efforts to remain thin."

Now the doctor is a great authority on orthopedic surgery, but if his opinions on weight control, as expressed in the interview, are correct, he is no wiser on the subject than the uninformed layman. And because his professional standing gives weight to his opinions, I think his giving out information on the subject is regrettable.

There were too many thousands who thought they were constituted to be fat or had inherited their fat, who have learned by going on a proper reduction diet that this is not true; and there are still a great many more thousands whose ideas accord with the doctor's and who now will be more firmly rooted in their beliefs, and therefore will make no effort to control their disorder.

Aside from the question of looks, there is the much graver question of greatly impaired health evening out, and early deaths. Joslin and other diabetic specialists are teaching that at least 75 per cent of diabetics after middle age, are obese, and that preventing obesity will prevent this type of diabetes. Certain insurance companies and numerous doctors have shown us that of all the causes of high blood pressure—and with the possibility of apoplexy—obesity is the most consistent, and the reduction of obesity invariably reduces this blood pressure. Overeating, the cause of obesity, is also one of the chief causes for hardening of the arteries (arteriosclerosis) with its resultant kidney and heart disease and apoplexy (stroke), lung disease, disorders of all sorts, skin diseases and flat feet are a few other things that are very likely to follow the wake of obesity.

There is one thing, and one thing only, that causes excess weight, and that is excess food for the needs. When this is fully known, it is going to be a disgrace to be fat. Excess food for the needs doesn't necessarily mean gluttony, not at all! It simply means that the patient is not exercising sufficiently to care for all the energy foods taken, and the excess is stored up as fat. (However, when the overweighters learn the simple foundation of dietetics and count the calories of food they are consuming, they are usually astonished at the amount of the foods they like run to precipitous heights, calorically.)

The doctor is also wrong about gaining, for if there is nothing organically wrong as the cause of the underweight, a change of eating habits more to the line of the fat brother will also cause a gain in weight. As for the American "ladies" starving themselves in their efforts to remain thin, many of them are dying in a laudable effort to get somewhere within hailing distance of normal weight; but I don't believe there are many of them starving themselves to remain thin.

The doctor was partly right on one point, and that is, that no medicine taken to lose weight are of any use. He is not wholly right for most of the nostrums that are advertised to reduce weight will, if persisted in, cause a loss of weight, which, however, will be accompanied by a loss of health.

I admire Dr. Lorenz tremendously and have great respect for his work. But if I should say that a patient with a congenital hip disease must have it, nothing can cure it, the doctor no doubt would jump at me with the same vigor that I have jumped at him.
