RAIL OFFICIAL IS KILLED, WOMAN IS FATALLY WOUNDED

Clandestine Love Affair and Jealous 3rd Party Theories Advanced by Authorities.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 21.—The theory that a jealous lover shot down A. B. Moore, 40, South-ern railway superintendent of safety and sanitation, and then fatally wounded Mrs. Ruby Thornton, 33, as she fled from the scene of her companion's death on a lonely road near Birmingham, was advanced by detectives today.

The bodies of the man and woman were found Wednesday night where Moore had parked his automobile in a pine thicket near the road. Moore had been killed by a shot gun discharged directly into his face. Mrs. Thornton's body was 75 feet away. She had evidently attempted to flee from the assailant as her wound was in the back of the head.

Mrs. Thornton, the mother of a 3-year-old daughter, had been living with her parents here during the absence of her husband, J. C. Thornton, an insurance agent, who, it was said, had been out of the city several months.

Although Mrs. Moore and her three children have been residing in Chattanooga, Tenn., for several months, Moore's parents denied the couple were separated.

State Press Comment

Army of Tax Eaters
Senator Capper of Kansas recently gave part of the answer to the common question: Where does the income tax dollar go that Uncle Sam collects every year? Uncle Sam uses a large part of it to pay the hired men and women he employs.

There are 2,600,000 names on his payroll today. Before the war, in 1913, the work was handled by 1,785,000 people. The increase in federal workers is significant. It is equivalent to saying that one in every 10 who work for wages in the United States gets his pay check from Uncle Sam.

If you are deceived by the idea that their wages mean nothing to you—unless you happen to be one of the 2,600,000 receiving federal pay—it may surprise you to know that the total federal payroll represents a per family tax for the entire United States of $125 per household annually.

The growth of governmental functions has made increases imperative and inevitable. Senator Capper points out the growth of federal commissions. The national capitol is full of them and congress is to be asked to create 15 more.

Just 20 years ago there were only 14 special governmental agencies in Washington. Today there are nearly 100. They formerly cost the country $1,000,000 a year. Now the annual cost is $75,000,000. And taxes pay them.

An Oregon Movie
There is shown this week in a Portland theatre the fruit of those mysterious activities which last summer brought the Oregon village of Culp Creek to sudden fame. The imperturbable Buster Keaton and his quaint locomotive, the General, perform prodigious feats of valor against a background of Oregon woods and hills that offer a pleasant relief from the unvarying palm and pepper trees of the films.

No picture has better proved the fact that Oregon has a good film face and that its settings may greatly enrich the stage scenery of the screen. We tire of the clean cut outlines which betray California, no matter whether the scene is laid in New York or Norway. Buster's train runs through woods that have a touch of Oregon softness in their tops; the distant hills have fruit mists about them and all the atmosphere of the piece has a new spice that comes from the Oregon firm.

Since the play is supposed to take place in Tennessee, we may forgive one discrepancy which would be inexcusable if Oregon were appearing in her own person. That is the rain. Never was such a rain in Oregon. It is the typical product of a Los Angeles rain maker, a downpouring flood that makes instantaneous drowned rats out of the actors. Fortunately movie audiences are too sophisticated to take movie rains seriously, so that this apparent calumny will be disregarded. Otherwise, people of the Willamette valley will feel at home in the Oregon version of Tennessee and will hail with pride a new product "made in Oregon."

To make room for the new model Chevrolet, we are offering special bargains and terms this week. Hansen Chevrolet Company.

BAN JOHNSON MAY QUIT AS HEAD OF AMERICAN LEAGUE

Coming Clash With Landis
Over Speaker and Cobb
Case May Find Him
Minus Support.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—The growing list of nominations for the job of President Ban Johnson, of the American league, is a bit premature, the founder of the league and its ruler for more than a quarter of a century intimated today.

Asked whether he had given a thought to resigning, President Johnson declined to commit himself, but did remark:

"I have been in harness steadily for thirty-four years."

Under his written contract and a later resolution of league directors, Johnson's presidential authority runs until 1935 at $40,000 a year.

The main issue at next Sunday's session of the American league directors, Mr. Johnson indicated, is to decide what to tell Commissioner Landis the following day about the dismissal of Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker. There also is bound to be discussion around the publication of the Dutch Leonard letters, given the commissioner by the league directors last September.

All but Johnson signed a waiver for the commissioner, authorizing him to use the letters as he saw fit. If the league directors sustain their president in his handling of the Cobb-Speaker case, as they did last September, the possibilities of fire works at the commissioner's hearing the next day largely will be eliminated.

If they vote to withdraw their support from Johnson because of his remarks since the Leonard letters were made public by the commissioner, it may mean the resignation of Johnson, with indications that he may have something more to say in that event.

IN THE REALM OF SPORTS

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
CARDINAL LINEUP INTACT
ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 20.—The world champion St. Louis Cardinals will go into the 1927 season in defense of their title with a lineup virtually intact, except for Manager Rogers Hornsby, traded to the New York Giants.

Douhit, Southworth and Blades, all heavy sluggers, probably will make up the outer defense. Blades, who was out of the game the latter part of last season because of a knee injury, has just left the hospital and is still on crutches but expects to be able to report at training camp.

Except for Frisch, instead of Hornsby at second, the inner cordon probably will be the same as last year. Sam Breadon considers Frisch the equal of Hornsby as a defensive player. And the former Giant batted .315 last season, or one point higher than Hornsby, who suffered a slump after leading the league for six consecutive seasons.

Evennow, considered by many critics as the best shortstop in the major leagues, again will occupy that position, with Bottomley at first and the slugging L. Bell at third.

The Cardinal pitching staff will have its "big four"—Alexander the Great, hero of the world series, Hatton, Sheneal and Rhem—and in addition, Creighton, Keen, Herman Bell and Jimmy Ring, the latter obtained with Frisch in the Hornsby trade.

Bob O'Farrell, newly appointed manager, named as the most valuable player in the National league last season, will be behind the bat. Breadon hopes to sign Snyder this week as sub-catcher. He was obtained from the Giants last season, but refused to report.

The board of strategy has been strengthened by acquisition of Bill McKechnie, former manager of the champion Pittsburgh Pirates, as coach.

wooden stands on Boyle's Thirty Acres, in Jersey City, are to be demolished and on the site probably will rise a huge concrete and steel bowl costing $1,580,000 and capable of seating 100,000 persons, Tex Rickard said today.

The new arena will be constructed, the promoter said, if the New Jersey boxing laws are amended to permit decisions and a top seat price of $50 instead of the $25 limit now in force. He indicated his belief that these changes would be made in the state law.

Boyle's Thirty Acres, a pine structure was erected by Rickard in 1921 at a cost of $346,000 for the bout between Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier.

ENGEL BEATS KARASICK
PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 20.—Heinie Engel, Dubuque, Iowa, took a close decision over Al Karasick, Portland light heavy weight after two hours of class wrestling here last night.

Each grappler won one fall, and in the final five minutes Engel showed enough aggressiveness to win the referee's nod. Karasick won the first fall in one hour and 47 minutes, and Engel the second in seven minutes.
