

THE WOMAN'S PAGE

SOCIETY

BY GRACE CARROLL
All Contributions to this Page—Society, Women's Clubs, and Personals—Should Be Telephoned to the Society
Editor by Friday of Each Week.

The month of February, replete with inspirations for enjoyable social affairs, holds promise of an unusually busy time and already a number of events of interest are scheduled on the calendar.

For February 14 there will be the St. Valentine's dancing party at the Roseburg Country club in which members of the club are finding pleasurable anticipation. Society will find entertainment in the masquerade dance given by the Women of Mooseheart Legion at the Knights of Pythias hall February 15. The benefit affair is to be given annually by the organization. Mrs. O. H. Shaw, Mrs. C. W. Simmer and Mrs. Ray Allen are in charge of the ticket sale.

Clubs and society matrons will find plenty of variety in the way of entertainment in the middle of the month and Lincoln's and Washington's birthday anniversaries will be commemorated by various events.

An event of the near future of interest to the northern part of the state is the annual ball to which officers and ladies of the Oregon National Guard have sent out invitations for the night of February 18 in the Portland Armory.

Club women of southern Oregon as well as other parts of the state have found much to interest them this weekend in the institute held by the Oregon Federation of Women's clubs in Portland. Branches of the fine arts was the subject for Friday's meeting and at a meeting of board members, department chairmen and heads of committees this morning plans for the convention in Bend were discussed.

The institute was also the occasion for entertaining a luncheon being given at the club house at noon Friday and a dinner for the officers at the home of Mrs. G. J. Frankel, president of the Oregon Federation, in the evening.

Luncheon and Bridge Party Honors Matron Who Is Leaving Soon

Mrs. Grant Osborn and Mrs. A. B. Taylor were hostesses for a lovely one o'clock luncheon and bridge party on Thursday given for the pleasure of Mrs. James T. Goodman, a popular matron who is soon leaving to make her home in Salem. The guests included a group of prominent young women.

Covers were placed at the exquisitely appointed tables for Mrs. James T. Goodman, Mrs. Leo De Vany, Mrs. Arthur Knauss, Mrs. Herbert Quine, Mrs. A. W. Baahford, Mrs. Harrie W. Booth, Mrs. J. F. Dillard, Mrs. Jack Crawford, Mrs. Woodley Stephenson, Mrs. Hor Catching and Miss Eva Rice.

Bridge prize for the afternoon went to Miss Eva Rice and the second prize went to Mrs. Knauss.

Bellview Club Is Entertained by Mrs. Murphy

An interesting meeting of the Bellview club took place Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. A. Murphy and following a luncheon party was enjoyed by the members. Mrs. Murphy accompanied.

An article on "The Birthday Month" was read by Mrs. Beckley and Mrs. Arthur read an interesting incident from the life of Washington. Seated at the luncheon tables afterward were the Mesdames P. W. Beckley, C. Dietrich, W. Agnew, J. O. Arthur, R. C. Lovelace, E. E. Boyer, Fred Boyer, Mrs. Fred Boyer assisted the hostess during the afternoon.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

Mrs. Ralph W. Terrill of Oakland, California, a former Roseburg matron, has been an interesting visitor in the city as the guest of friends. Mrs. Terrill has been spending a month in Oregon, visiting also in Portland. She left Friday morning for her home in the south, stopping enroute to spend a few days in Medford.

Gertrude Lawrence Who Started Nation-Wide Necklace Fad Now Exploiting Coatee

made—lithic, beautifully slender, and feminine in the fifth degree, though she forces to affect an almost boyish simplicity.

By Betsy Schuyler
NEA Service Writer.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—With all the New Yorkers going southward I turned this week to the stage for a little excitement in the matter of clothes.

You can always depend upon certain of our actresses to keep ahead of the mode, and in this class I know of no one who stands above Gertrude Lawrence, the English actress, formerly of "Charlot's Revue" and now in "Oh Kay."

It was she who introduced the little gold necklaces that everyone wore last year, and this year she is exploiting the short little coatee. If there is any woman living who can look more bewitching than she in a perfectly simple chiffon frock, that woman has escaped me, but I'd like to meet her.

Most Chic in New York

I am perfectly willing to go so far as to say I think she is the most chic woman in New York today, because she is absolutely the type for whom modern clothes are

Reducing treatments at least make bank accounts slender.

Club Matrons Are Entertained at Luncheon

Mrs. Washington Hughes arranged a charming one o'clock luncheon at her home at 320 Spruce street on Thursday for the matrons of the Book club and an added guest.

Covers were placed at the attractively appointed table for Mrs. John Rintyan and the members, Mrs. Dean Bubar, Wm. Bell, C. S. Heinline, Chas. W. Wharton, Paul Bubar, M. P. Rice.

Afterward the guests sewed and enjoyed readings from a book.

Business Women Have Guests at Luncheon

At the Business and Professional Women's club luncheon on Friday in the Indian Room of the Hotel Umpqua several guests of interest were present. Among them were Ruth Bradley Keiser, concert pianist of Portland, whose recital last evening so thrilled and delighted her audience at the First Methodist Episcopal church. Mrs. H. E. Cully, Camp Fire worker of this city, was another guest at the luncheon and gave a talk on the work of the organization telling in what manner the business and professional women are able to help the girls.

The matter of the club sponsoring the Oregon players in a series of plays here next winter was opened by Miss Helen Casey and is being held under consideration by the club. The Oregon players have just closed their series of plays this winter brought to the city by the Roseburg Women's club, and are well known to the theatre going public.

Thimble Club Meets for Play on Friday

Mrs. W. A. Jenkins provided a pleasant afternoon Friday for the members of the Woodcraft Thimble club and a few added guests. Tables were laid for the winter play and at the end of the game Mrs. Geo. Reynolds held high score and Mrs. J. B. Pland low.

At four o'clock a dainty luncheon was served at small tables for the Mesdames A. H. Perrin, J. W. Dewell, J. B. Pland, Harry Wheeler, S. J. Cawfield, Geo. Crenshaw, Earl Rhoades and added guests were Mrs. Geo. Reynolds, Mrs. H. Harrison, Mrs. Harrison Folk, F. C. Larreau, and Miss Alice Jenkins.

Matrons Entertain Club at Interesting Affair

On last Friday evening Mrs. J. E. Pickens and Mrs. O. H. Pickens joined in entertaining the members of the Past Noble Grand club at the home of the former, a charming affair following the regular business meeting, guessing games for the guests.

First prize went to Mrs. Hutchings and second was received by Mrs. Emma Lenox. A vocal solo by Mrs. S. M. Kelley was enjoyed by the group.

Afterward at prettily appointed tables the hostesses served to Miss Mae Fisher, the Mesdames W. E. Clingenspeel, A. J. Carman, Wm. Austin, D. H. Morgan, T. B. Busenbark, Emma Lenox, W. W. Ashcraft, Jas. Hutchings, V. T. Jackson, Effie Selwartz, J. H. Clark, S. M. Kelley, Maude Plyler, H. P. Hatfield, C. G. Ferrer, O. L. Johnson, R. L. Russell, G. C. Wilmer, and added guests Mrs. Leona Stephens, formerly of Illinois and Mrs. Ruth Conkey of Independence.

ETHEL

Club Ladies Spend Informal Afternoon

On Thursday afternoon the members of the Garden Valley Women's club were entertained at the home of Mrs. George Bailey with Mrs. W. L. Krantz as hostess. An informal program filled the afternoon following the business, with readings by a few of the guests.

Assisting at the luncheon tables afterward were Mrs. Clifford McKay, Mrs. Fred Parrott, Mrs. Hugh Ritchie, Jr., and Miss Elva Krantz.

The guests were the Mesdames Geo. Bailey, Ed Brown, H. A. Calhoun, R. Evans, R. S. Hutton, E. E. LaBrie, W. D. Love, Earl McCoy, C. McDaniel, Clifford McKay, J. Erwin Page, Fred Parrott, Hugh Ritchie, Jr., J. M. Schneider, John Sinclair and Miss Elva Krantz.

Roseburg Girl Made Advisor of Group

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, Feb. 5.—Ethel McCormack of Roseburg, senior in commerce, has been elected secretary of the advisor's group of the Young Women's Christian association.

The Y. W. C. A. cooperates with all forces of the college and of the community in promoting among women students a well developed life. More than one-half of the women in the college are members of this organization.

Shelco Club Entertained by Mrs. C. E. Melton

Mrs. C. E. Melton on Wednesday afternoon informally entertained the matrons of the Shelco club, inviting them to her home at 307 East Oak street to sew.

Afterward luncheon covers were placed at the large table for the Mesdames H. U. Cochran, Fred Trimble, A. B. Grubbe, Merle Ivie, John Turner and James Soules.

Group Spends Pleasant Evening on Friday

On Friday evening of last week the ladies of Mooseheart Legion met at the home of Mrs. Bolsinger, the members of the losing team in the recent membership contest conducted by the lodge entertaining the other group.

W. C. T. U. Has Regular Meeting

Mrs. Carlos Page invited the members of the Roseburg W. C. T. U. to her home at 540 South Stephens street for their meeting on Wednesday.

The afternoon's devotion were presided over by Mrs. B. L. Eddy. Mrs. J. O. Arthur gave a talk on anti-narcotics. Plans for raising money for the work of the organization were considered at the business session among other things of importance.

Mrs. Ben Chilson Invites Ladies to Sew Thursday

For their meeting on Thursday Mrs. Ben Chilson invited the ladies of the Northside Sunshine Club to her home and following a short business session the group chatted and sewed.

At the tea hour the hostess served to the Mesdames E. P. Ballou, Clair Pettit, B. S. Nichols, Fred Bowen, James Bartley, Robert Chilson, L. W. Ingles, Wm. Fisher, M. Colby, Russell Harness, Virgil Bush, L. Marsters.

Neighborhood Club Has Afternoon of Sewing

The Neighborhood club of Camas Valley met last Thursday at the home of Mrs. Melsinger, and after the business meeting ten towels were made by the ladies, which together, with forty-nine home-made handkerchiefs, will be sent to the Children's Farm Home at Corvallis. Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Edna Reetz. Several musical selections rendered by Mrs. Melsinger on the piano and guitar were very much enjoyed by the guests. These present were Mrs. Mildred Russell, Mrs. J. B. Russell, Mrs. Mabel Wolcott, Mrs. Lucy Dick, Mrs. Winnie Brown, Mrs. Ruth Lawson, Mrs. Edna Reetz, Mrs. D. C. Jones, Mrs. Annie Wood, Mrs. McCann, Mrs. Leebor, Miss Bessie Brown and the hostess, Mrs. Melsinger, and visiting the club was Mrs. Alice Boeson.

Signs and Signs

ETHEL

©1927 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

Sewing Club Entertained by Mrs. E. Rhoades

The Roseburg Art and Embroidery club members were entertained by Mrs. E. Rhoades at her home at 731 West Mosher street on Wednesday, the hostess arranging sewing for the diversion of her guests.

A short business meeting was held and afterward a potluck luncheon was served at small tables. Assisting the hostess were Miss Susie Lewis and Mrs. Henry Snyder.

Spending the afternoon were the Mesdames Ted Bloom, J. G. Stephenson, Walter Stubbfield, S. J. Cawfield, E. E. Morgan, Geo. Reynolds, Henry Snyder, Henry Worthington, W. H. Palm, Alfred Neal, Carl Palm, C. O. Webber, Grace Barker, L. W. Ingles, Jess Hicks, Miss Susie Lewis and Miss Tina Dean.

For their meeting on February 16, Mrs. Cawfield will entertain the members at the home of Mrs. Earl Rhoades.

Mrs. Craven Is Luncheon Hostess for Club Matrons

Mrs. W. T. Craven arranged a charming one o'clock luncheon for the matrons of her bridge club at her home on Corey avenue Monday.

Seated about the tables were Mrs. H. C. Waddell, Mrs. J. C. Ponsler, Mrs. B. C. Zigler, Mrs. H. D. Harris, Mrs. Geo. A. Bradburn, Mrs. Dean Bubar, Mrs. Wm. Bell and a guest, Mrs. John Thorne.

Little was in play during the afternoon and first prize was received by Mrs. Bradburn.

Scouts and Campfire Work Told at Interesting Meeting of Woman's Club

Mrs. W. S. Jost, president of the Roseburg Woman's club, presided over the meeting Tuesday at the L. O. O. F. hall when a very interesting program in charge of Mrs. J. E. Runyan was presented. Doernbecker Hospital Day, which was to have been observed by the club at that time, has been postponed until the next meeting.

Jack Gibbs from the Boy Scouts was presented by the program chairman and gave a talk on the work of the organization, stressing important points with several demonstrations. Several of the groups of Camp Fire Girls took part in the program with songs and short talks and Mrs. H. B. Cully talked on the splendid possibilities which Roseburg has in helping in every way the Camp Fire work in the city. Mrs. Cully pleased her audience with two vocal solos, Mrs. Harrie Booth accompanying her.

Tea was served in the dining room with Mrs. H. D. Harris supervising instead of Mrs. J. C. Ponsler, chairman of the refreshment committee, who was unable to be present.

Hard Times Affair Entertains Large Group

One of the most pleasant of informal affairs of mid-week to supply interest for a large group was the hard times party at which the ladies auxiliaries of the B. of B. T. and O. R. C. joined in entertaining on Wednesday at the Macnebo hall, with the members of the men's organization as guests.

Each guest attended in hard times attire, many of the unique and clever costumes exciting much

(Continued on page 3.)

SPOTLIGHT RAY IS STYLE BEACON

Gertrude Lawrence Who Started Nation-Wide Necklace Fad Now Exploiting Coatee

By Betsy Schuyler
NEA Service Writer.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—With all the New Yorkers going southward I turned this week to the stage for a little excitement in the matter of clothes.

You can always depend upon certain of our actresses to keep ahead of the mode, and in this class I know of no one who stands above Gertrude Lawrence, the English actress, formerly of "Charlot's Revue" and now in "Oh Kay."

It was she who introduced the little gold necklaces that everyone wore last year, and this year she is exploiting the short little coatee. If there is any woman living who can look more bewitching than she in a perfectly simple chiffon frock, that woman has escaped me, but I'd like to meet her.

Most Chic in New York

I am perfectly willing to go so far as to say I think she is the most chic woman in New York today, because she is absolutely the type for whom modern clothes are made—lithic, beautifully slender, and feminine in the fifth degree, though she forces to affect an almost boyish simplicity.

"I love little waist coats, and knitted dresses, and impudent hats," she told me. "I like warm colored frocks under dark fur coats for day. I like black and white for dinner or formal afternoon wear, and I love simple petal-like evening frocks with very gorgeous wraps."

Likes Country Jewels

"In jewelry, I like what I call 'country jewelry,' that is, slave bracelets, heavy gold chains, and colorful modern effects. For evening I like pearls and bracelets to my elbows. Oh yes, I love flowers, they accent a frock."

One of the most interesting gowns she showed me was one she designed herself—of mauve chiffon and lace, a queer combination of sport frock of today and the fragile lace gown of yesterday. The skirt was of finely pleated chiffon on a plain slip top, over which she wore a closely fitting, dark, sleeveless coat of mauve lace. The coat was a cutaway style held together at the waistline, with a diamond ornament, and the edge of the pe-

Gertrude, Looking Her Smartest for Lent

Style Writer Stamps Her Most Chic Woman in New York in Giving Description of Wardrobe

len was bound in sable. Sable also edged the cuffs. On the shoulder was a flower of a very hard bright red and she wore red pumps and stockings that were the identical shade of the dress.

Long Coat and Tight Sleeves

An afternoon frock that was positively French was a three-piece affair consisting of a cut-away coat, skirt and a white velvet blouse. The material was a satin surfaced wool of some sort, like a man's topper. The coat had very long, tight sleeves and a deep shawl collar of ermine wherein nestled a white satin dahlia.

Another stunning ensemble was a black satin coat bordered with red fox and a frock of red crepe with a row of tiny red buttons down the side of the blouse. On the shoulder were two large velvet chrysanthemums, one the color of the frock, and the other a deeper red.

The evening outfit photographed is of a simple straight-line type of frock with an embroidered girdle and skirt embroidered in bold, worn with a wrap of metal cloth lined with velvet the same shade of the frock and luxuriously clad and cuffed in fox.

Learn Simplicity's Value
We can't all be Gertrude Law-

rences, but we all could learn something about the value of simplicity and the importance of grace and motion and what they contribute to present day styles.

Another woman who just landed in our country who knows how to make herself stand out in a crowd of well groomed women is Lady Maud, professionally known as Blaise De Wolfe. I saw her in a minik coat, one of the new helmet hats of gray felt and a small grey veil that stopped after it had interestingly veiled her eyes.

Always I shall remember her at the opera in white satin and emeralds several years ago, before white evening dresses were so generally worn. She stood out with cameo clearness and remains so in my memory though I haven't the remotest remembrance of what anyone else wore that particular night.

Green Favored at Night

For evening, green seems to be coming up in the color list, and for day and sport, particularly among the spring showings, there is much of this new blue that has lots of gray in it. The harder blues seem to be trending. After all, unless you have a complexion that fears no revelation, there is no use in framing your face in sapphire.