MOVIES

LIBERTY THEATRE

No star on the screen has offered more surprises during his brief career before the camera than Tom Tyler, F. B. O. Western star, in his last picture, "Out of the West," showing at the Liberty theatre for the last time today. Tom springs the surprise supreme! He portrays the role of a cowboy who is hired because he can play baseball, and in order to live up to the expectations, practices whenever he can take the time from his cowhunting, until he finally becomes the best player on the rancher's team. The picture was made under the able direction of Robert J. Lacey and includes such favorites as Frankie Darro, "Sitting Bull," Edna Leidlach, J. O'Connor, Alfred Hewison, Gertrude Claire and Barney Furey.

LIBERTY THEATRE

Music lovers and Screen Fans Anticipating Premier.

Music lovers as well as picturegoers are awaiting with interest the opening of "La Boheme," Lillian Gish's latest starring vehicle, which comes Sunday to the Liberty theatre. Based on the story which inspired the famous opera, it presents the heroine of "The Birth of a Nation," "Romola," and other famous plays in the role of "Mimi," tragic wait of the Paris Latin Quarter, whose story is known and loved by millions. The role is said to be the most nearly perfect vehicle ever selected for Miss Gish's wistful charm. A notable cast is seen in the new production, which King Vidor, director of "The Big Parade," directed.

Colleen in Romance of Big City in New Film Due at Antlers

Promise of a delightful romance of middle class life in New York is made by the management of the Antlers Theatre, where "It Must Be Love," Colleen Moore's latest First National starring vehicle will be shown beginning tomorrow. "It Must Be Love," adapted from Brooke Hanlon's story, "Delicacies," is declared to be one of the most human stories of the year, being replete with heart-throbs as well as the well-known Colleen Moore chuckles. This production presents a cross-section of the kind of life we all know, centering in the situation a girl finds herself in when she gets a beau and is ashamed to bring him to her home in back of a delicatessen store. There are many such cases in our own families, in the families around the corner and on the next block. It is this sense of nearness, this feeling of actuality and everyday humanness which gives Miss Moore the opportunity to draw the most out of her very appealing part as the girl who has to sacrifice living at home for her pride. Malcolm McGregor plays the role of the sweetheart, who never finds

"Ransom's Folly" Splendid Frontier Film

The picturization of Richard Harding Davis' most famous story, "Ransom's Folly" is proving to be an unusually popular attraction at the Antlers Theatre here. Richard Barthelmess is starred with Dorothy Mackall. "Ransom's Folly" recounts the surprising adventures that overtake a young cavalry officer attached to a Western frontier outpost during the sleepy days of the early 80's. Bored to death and craving excitement he holds up a stage coach with a pair of blunt scissiors and soon finds himself embroiled in more complications than he counted on. One of the most dramatic and unique episodes in "Ransom's Folly" depicts an actual military court-martial. This is the first time that a court-martial in full detail has even been presented on the screen. A staff of army experts was in charge of this sequence, and were successful in making it a perfect fac-simile of an actual military trial.

"The Mikado" to Be Presented in City on March 25

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, March 5.—The Oregon Agricultural College Glee club and Madrigal club will give the opera, "The Mikado" in Roseburg March 25, the first presentation on its seven-day tour of southern Oregon. Fifty persons, including the cast, chorus, and orchestra, will be selected from the combined clubs by Professor Paul Petri, director of the conservatory of music at the college. The purpose is to make the trip during the spring vacation.

Stops on this tour will be made at Roseburg, Klamath Falls, Bend and Prineville. Other dates are still pending. With the experience and training the Glee and Madrigal clubs received on tours last year, and with many skilled singers composing the different parts, it is expected that the opera will exceed all concerts given on previous trips. This is the third annual tour which has been made under the direction of Professor Petri, who is director of the conservatory of music at O. A. C. It is the first time, however, that the two clubs have been combined, and it is expected that the Madrigal club will help a great deal in making this season's tour a success.

Miss Evelyn Quine Will Have Leading Role in Opera

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, March 5.—Miss Evelyn Quine, sophomore in music from Roseburg, has been chosen by Professor Petri to play the part of Yum-Yum, the leading role to be taken from the Madrigal Club.

Special busses will be chartered by the clubs for the entire trip, thus eliminating all unnecessary stop-overs and delays.

Professor Petri will take a number of members of the O. A. C. orchestra with him who have been chosen by Marguerite MacManus, professor of stringed instruments and conductor of the orchestra. New Japanese costumes, which will give the opera an effective background, have been obtained for the cast and chorus.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Harris have moved to the Leo G. Devaney home on West Mosher street this week. Mr. and Mrs. Devaney left early in the week for Portland to spend several weeks before going south where they will make their home.

Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Taylor Honored on Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Taylor, whose twenty-fifth wedding anniversary occurred on February 26, were honored by a group of friends that evening at their home on South Jackson street. The group included about 35 members of the Baptist church.

A silver gift was presented them in behalf of their friends, by C. M. Page, who recited an appropriate poem. The evening was spent informally with games and afterward refreshments were served.

PLANE FOUND AT SEA, FATE OF FOUR MEN IS MYSTERY

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

PARIS, March 5.—The seaplane of Major Tadeo Larre Borges, Uruguayan aviator, missing since he left Casa Blanca Morocco, Wednesday in continuance of his flight from Italy to Uruguay, has been found but the fate of the aviator and his three companions was not known late this afternoon. There was considerable conflict in the advice received here following news that the plane had been located. One report from Agadir, Morocco, indicated that the machine had been found floating in the Gulf of Genoa. Another and later dispatch, however, stated that the plane was found wrecked on the land, the cockpit smashed and imbedded in the ground, and the motor 200 feet away. There was no trace of the aviators. It added.

Major Larre-Borges was accompanied in the enterprise by his brother, Claudio Larre-Borges, radio operator; Captain Jose Barba, second pilot, and Jose Figola, mechanic.

Their plane left Marina di Pisa, Italy, February 29.

ROSEBURG WINS FROM GRANTS PASS IN ROUGH GAME

Local Boys Continue Winning Streak on Trip South—Will Play Eugene Tonight.

Roseburg senior high school last night continued its winning streak by defeating Grants Pass, at the Grants Pass gym by a score of 34 to 21. The local team after playing erratically all season has apparently hit its stride in the last few games and is now making a fine showing. Grants Pass defeated Roseburg here a short time ago, but the local boys easily evened things last night.

Grants Pass started off with a jump and took two baskets before Roseburg could get started. The local boys then found themselves, however, and before the end of the quarter were well in the lead. At half time Roseburg was on the long end of a 16 to 6 score. At no time were the local boys in danger, maintaining a wide margin of points.

The last part of the game was very rough and full of excitement for the spectators, but Roseburg still maintained a lead.

Tonight will be the last game of the season when the University high school of Eugene comes here for a return match. Roseburg beat Eugene 26 to 17 at Eugene early in the season, but the Eugene boys have made a wonderful improvement there and tonight's game is going to be as easy, for the local boys are tired from the game last night, and had their rest broken as they did not get home until an early hour today. If they can maintain the pace at which they have been going, however, they will defeat Eugene tonight.

The line-up for the Grants Pass game was as follows:
Roseburg (34) Grants Pass (21)
Moffitt (9) f. Gutchell (4)
Ellison (7) c. Kilson (2)

MARKET RATINGS

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

PORTLAND, Ore., March 5.—Butter prices are sharply lower today. Local creamery men have cut the price of prints 4 cents to 48 cents a pound to the grower. Heavy production with lower levels ruling in outside markets has been a bearish factor for several days now and the decline was well anticipated by the trade.

Forty-eight cent prints should bring the retail price down to the 55 cent level and materially increase the consumption of butter local creamerymen assert. Simultaneously with the cut in print prices, local butter makers reduced their bids on fats four cents a pound to 60 cents delivered Portland and 46 to 47 cents in the country. Offers for butterfat a year ago ranged from 47 to 49 cents.

Cube prices showed further weakness on the dairy exchange today closing a half cent lower on extras, standards and firsts and a cent lower on prime firsts. Exchange prices at the close were: Extras and standards 43 1/2 cents; prime firsts and firsts 42 1/2 cents. This is a decline of 3 cents in the cube prices during the last week.

The fresh egg market was generally steady at the close with a good demand. In the closing session of the exchange first advanced a cent and mediums declined a cent.

Poultry receipts cleaned up along the street today with prices fully maintained. Most lines, heavy hens were firm and in brisk demand at 26 to 27 cents. Light hens readily brought 21 cents.

Country dressed hogs were easier at the close of the week with the general top down to 16 1/2 cents, after ruling at 17 cents up to Friday. Choice light calves held steady at 18 to 18 1/2 cents.

PORTLAND, Ore., March 5.—Wheat: BBB hard white, hard white bluestem, hard 1.35; federation, soft white, western white 1.34; hard winter 1.32; northern spring 1.35; western red 1.30.

PORTLAND, Ore., March 5.—Cattle: Compared with week ago, beef steers fully steady; spots strong to shade higher; steers stock, bulls and yearlings strong to 25 cents higher; market stimulated by comparatively small receipts; week's bulk prices: Beef steers $8.00@8.75; best sale at $8.85; butcher cows and heifers $6.25@6.75; load lots of good cows up to $7.35; old head of beef $7.75; cutters $5.25 down to $3.50; bulls to $5.00@6.50; mostly $5.50@6.00; slaughter calves $8.50@10.50; good to choice vealers $11.50@12.50; few up to $13.00. Hogs: Compared with week ago: Killing classes 5 to 10 cents lower; feeders about steady; bulk light butchers for week $12.35 to 12.80; top 12.85; paid Monday; weight butchers $12.50 to 12.65; with extreme heavies down to $11.50; packing sows mostly $9.50 @10.50; slaughter pigs $12.25 to 12.75; choice light feeders $13.75 to 14.00.

POETS' CORNER

Signed Contributions for This Department May Be Sent to the Society Editor of The News-Review, and Will Be Used as Space Is Available.

Editor News-Review: Early last fall when I first began to walk abroad after my severe illness, I climbed the Hamilton hill south of Roseburg and discovered the lodestone fireplace that stands alone, marking the spot of the old Dr. Hamilton house long since gone.

There was something so weird and ghostly about that old silent fireplace standing there in its loneliness, that it has haunted me ever since.

So last Sunday afternoon I persuaded my wife to go with me again, and we climbed the hill through the mud and stood for a second time, before that old relic of pioneer days in Roseburg.

I came away more than ever inspired to write something of the message it gave me.

Now my wife, Florence Aiken Banks, is the poet of the family. And while on two occasions I have collaborated with her a little in writing a hymn, I have never attempted a poem "all on my own." But the memory of that old fireplace would not down, and I felt that only poetry could properly convey the feeling in my mind and heart. So on Tuesday afternoon, while she took a nap, I set to work and wrote this little poem—possibly my first offense, and had it ready as a surprise when she awoke.

Now, dear editor, if you are willing to be a party to the offense, after the crime, you may print it.

THE OLD FIREPLACE

By Louis Albert Banks

Lines written on the discovery of the old Hamilton fireplace on the hill in South Roseburg. There on the hill where the old settler dwelt, In a house that shone white in the sun, Where father and mother and children all knelt, When the long day's labor was done;

There the old fireplace stands alone now.

DEVICE CHEAPENS POWER FOR FARMER AT LONG DISTANCE

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

"NEW YORK, March 5.—Electric power may be more economically supplied to the farmer and manufacturer from far distant steam and hydro-electric stations through the invention patented by Frank G. Baum, of San Francisco, and assigned to the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

In the development of super power, difficulties have beset the engineers in transmitting large amounts of power over distances of more than one hundred miles. Officials of the Westinghouse company say that the Baum invention adds 75 per cent to the capacity of the long transmission lines.

Its gray hearthstone, with grass overgrown; Solemn and broad, like the old settler's brow, Uprearing its columns of stone.

Fierce fire came on like a thief in the night; Home walls and roof trees were burned to the ground; Laughter and music have taken their flight. But the fireplace gapes on like a wound.

Proud and unyielding, it lifts its gray head; Undaunted it faces the sun; Deaf to the fact that its home joys are fled, Unknowing that its race is run.

God help us, as old age grows apace, That we may keep trust with laughter and youth; Unlike this cold hearthstone, may we, in our place, Keep happily glowing with life's fire and truth.

MARY

She walked among the lowly, And her hands were roughened. By the many things she had to do for those she loved.

But her voice was low and sweet As a silver bell, and when she spoke Her lovely charm was there, And when she sang it touched the heart.

Seeming the very spirit of melody, She walked with those in high places; Her calm and gracious air Shone like the bloom on ripened grain.

And to all who came, each felt, "She is my friend, she singles me alone." For her regard, and the best was none too high for her approval. With sorrow, life touched her hair, With tears her face, with pain her body.

But left her spirit free, And now she walks with God.

THE LIFE OF CHRIST

Every year Joseph and Mary went to Jerusalem for the Feast of the Passover. When Jesus was twelve years old, his parents missed him as they returned home. Going back to seek him they found him sitting among the doctors in the temple asking and answering questions. (Luke II: 41-49)

THE CHILDHOOD OF JESUS

Herod, King of Judea, troubled about the story of the birth of a King of the Jews, inquired of the Wise Men, and sought to find the Babe of Bethlehem. Foiled in his quest, he slew all the children of Bethlehem under two years of age, thus hoping to kill the infant Jesus. (Matt. II)

THE CHILDHOOD OF JESUS

But warned in a dream by an angel of the Lord, Joseph and Mary fled with the young child into Egypt. (Matt. II: 13-15)
