Miss Cook, of the high school, was in charge of the affair.

Bazaar and Dance Monday Evening to Be Gay Affair

An event early in the coming week centering the interest of various groups is the bazaar and dance to be sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Club on Monday night at the Umpqua Park club house. Proceeds from the affair will be used to finance the club's delegates to both the state and national conventions, and any amount left over will go to the club house fund.

Virginia Riggs is general chairman of the affair and has various committees working with her for the features. Several interesting events are scheduled for the evening, among the outstanding being the fashion shows for women, children and men. Styles to be modeled are being furnished by the Ladies Shoppe, the Marksbury Store, the Art and Baby Shop and Hart's Toggery.

Booths are being arranged in the club room and various articles will be sold in these. There will also be several refreshment booths and an old-fashioned fish pond. Door prizes will be given as another feature of the affair.

A short program of music and skits is also planned to precede the dance. The Oriental Gardens Orchestra will furnish music for the dancers.

A committee will direct those attending to the various booths and furnish data for any inquiries concerning the various affairs in progress during the evening.

The road to the club house is reported to be in good condition, and that the road which should have no trouble in getting to the club by auto.

same hoard. Many spectacular scenes with the Golden Lion, a splendid animal which Tarzan has trained as a companion, and the vivid and colorful fight in the Diamond Palace with the gigantic high priest and his cohorts will be long remembered by the audience.

The boundless scenic and spectacular possibilities of the screen as compared to the material and physical limitations of the theatrical stage were never, perhaps, more forcefully contrasted than in the Universal film de France production of Jules Verne's famous melodrama, "Michael Strogoff," which comes to the Antlers theatre on Sunday. To quote the somewhat flowery, but nevertheless sincere, language of a famous Paris cinema reviewer upon witnessing the initial performance of the picture in that city: "Meager decorations of the theatre, what are you compared to the ball at the Imperial Court of the Czar; the invasion of the Tartars, the camp of the Grand Khan, the sensuous dancing of the bayaderes in the tent of Fearful Kahn, the assault by the countless hordes of barbaric tribesmen on the Siberian city of Irkutsk, encircled by a burning sheet of naphtha floating on the surface of the river Angara? What are the limited number of supers in the stage presentations of years gone by compared to the thousands upon thousands of Russian soldiers who defend with their last breath the city of Tomsk against more thousands of fierce Tartar cavalry?"

The perfection of color photography as applied to motion pictures is said to have been reached by a new invention exhibited in this country for the first time in the production.

Smick P. T. A. Has Last Meeting of Year

The last meeting of the school year of the Smick P. T. A. was held on Friday with election of officers of the new year being a part of the important business transacted. Those who will take office in the association next year are president, Mrs. Fred Boyer; vice-president, Mrs. Ross Lovelace; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. P. W. Beckley.

Mrs. Wm. Price, who has been instructor at the Smick school for a period of five years has severed her connection with the school, and a gift of appreciation for her faithful work was presented her by the association.

A musical program, including numbers to observe Music Week, Forest Week and Mothers Day, was enjoyed. A short program was also given by the pupils of the school. Mr. Matthews of the forest service gave an inspiring talk on "The Cultivation and Extent of the Forests," and another feature of the evening's entertainment was the selections of the harmonica by R. L. Whipple, with piano accompaniment by Geo. Gilman. At the close of the program refreshments were served.

Program and Service Arranged for Mothers Day

A special musical program, arranged by Elsie Carleton Strang, in connection with the evening service on Sunday will be a feature at the Presbyterian church in observance of Mothers Day. The public is invited to hear the program and service. The arrangement of the program is unusual in its type, being a song-a-logue. The Scotch sermon, interspersed with suitable hymns, is very interesting and is called "His Mother's Sermon." The sermon was written by Ian McLaren, a Scotch minister.

Daughters of Job Honor Mothers

Members of Roseburg Bethel, Daughters of Job, arranged a delightful evening Friday in honor of their mothers at the Masonic hall. Following the regular meeting of the Bethel a special Mothers Day program was given, including a vocal solo by Miss Evelyn Quine and a reading by Miss Elizabeth Abraham.

Flowers were presented each guest by the girls and at the close a supper was served in the banquet hall.

Music Week to Close With Programs at Hotels This Evening

The close of National Music week will be marked with special musical programs at the hotels in this city this evening, opening at 7 o'clock. The various numbers by local musicians have been arranged by three women from the Douglas county chapter of the Music Teachers' association and will include orchestra selections, instrumental solos and duets and vocal selections.

Mrs. Charles G. Stanton has charge of the program to be given at the Umpqua hotel, Elsie Carleton Strang, the program at the Grand hotel and Mrs. Chas. Brand, the program at the Rose hotel. A 15-minute concert will be given by each of the orchestras opening the programs at the hotels.

State, President Visits Business Women's Club

The visit of Miss Margaret Fleming of Portland, state president of the Business and Professional Women's club, was particularly of interest to the Roseburg club women last evening. Miss Fleming was honor guest at the dinner and meeting of the local club at the Hotel Umpqua last night and was introduced by the president, Dr. Lucetta Smith.

A musical program arranged especially to observe Music Week included:

Ensemble singing by the club, led by Mrs. Marion Brand.

Business Women's chorus made their first appearance and sang a folk song.

Flute solo, by Maxine Moore, accompanied by Mrs. Moore.

Vocal and violin duet, by Helen Casey and Naomi Scott, accompanied by Gladys Strong.

An address was made by Miss Fleming.

After the dinner a special board meeting was called to formulate plans for the state convention and future programs in club work were discussed.

The committees for the next evening meeting are:

Program—Laneta Carpenter, Lucille Lenox, Beatrice Ott, Lucille Sappington.

Refreshments—Hattie Perrin, Edith Gilmore, Bernice Crawford.

Final arrangements were made for the bazaar and dance to be held at the Umpqua Park club house, Monday evening, May 9.

Miss Margaret Fleming of Portland, state president of the Business and Professional Women's Club, was an interesting visitor Friday as the guest of the local club. Miss Fleming is associated in the offices of Judge McNary in Portland.

CHURCH NEWS

The following program has been arranged for the special meeting to be held at the Baptist Church Sunday evening starting at 8 o'clock:

The orchestra.

Hymn Medley.

Vocal solo by Mrs. Charles Brand.

Vocal duet by Mrs. Grace Wickham and Mrs. Grubbe.

Violin solo by Ward Baker.

Sermon by the pastor, Frank B. Matthews.

LARGE SUM BEING COLLECTED TODAY FOR RELIEF WORK

The Mississippi flood relief drive, directed by the Douglas County Chapter of the Red Cross, is going forward rapidly today. The Camp Fire Girls and Boy Scouts have solicited the greater part of the residential district and have met a very heavy response upon the part of the residents of the city. In several instances large donations have been made to the relief of the flood sufferers. The solicitation of the residential district is expected to result in the collection of a larger sum than had first been expected. Tw. Shoemaker, president of the Douglas county chapter, was so well pleased with the work that the youngsters are doing that he today posted a prize of $5 to go to the group turning in the largest collections.

The canvass of the business district will be made the first of next week, probably Monday morning. All banks and drug stores have been authorized by the Red Cross chapter to accept contributions and give receipts for the amounts donated. Persons who have not been solicited and who desire to make voluntarily contributions may do so at any of the banks or drug stores or at the Red Cross headquarters in the office of Dr. H. C. Church.

INDIAN FARMER BEATEN BY TWO MEN AND ROBBED

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

PENDELTON, Ore., May 7.—Police today were investigating the brutal beating and robbing of Anthony Redhawk, Indian, yesterday afternoon by two men. The Indian had hired two men to work on his farm and they were alleged to have attacked him while on the way to the ranch. Redhawk was painfully beaten and kicked about the face and about $250 taken from him. William Barker, a sheep herder, is being held as one of the pair.

the holdup scene.

The court adjourned at noon until Monday morning at nine o'clock.

Jury Has Sick Spell

S. W. Dunham, clerk, 63, of Medford, a member of the jury, was sick throughout the night, according to the bailiff. Dunham was in his seat at the opening of court this morning. The extent and cause of his illness was not announced. A doctor waited upon him twice during the night.

There was the usual packed courtroom for the half day session of the trial.

Pistol Identified

Robert E. Courtney, of Hartford, Conn., a firearms shipping clerk, was the first witness and identified the .45 Colts automatic pistol found in Siskiyou tunnel while the holdup was in progress by O. H. J. Benjamin, a brakeman, as a product of his company. The bill of lading was identified as a shipment to Schwabacher Hardware company of Seattle in January 1922.

The methods of the arms company in keeping records for tracing weapons was explained by the witness and the location of the serial number on the outside.

The witness then located the general number of the pistol—130,763—and showed it to the jury. He testified it was the same as the one chiseled from the outside of the crime weapon. The object of the secret number was stated as "to assist us mechanically and be of assistance to justice."

Many objections were filed by the defense and overruled on the introduction of the evidence.

Under cross-examination, Courtney said the pistol with five others was shipped out in March 2, 1922, and sent to him for identification in November 1923.

Juror Ward, whose fear of firearms has been exhibited during the trial, asked if a cartridge could be retained in the chamber after it had been fired. The expert said "yes" and the juror said his argument had been sustained.

Henry J. Lochan of Seattle, Wash., secretary of the Schwabacher Hardware company, testified to the purchase of the pistols and sale and shipment of the same to Hauser Brothers of Albany, Oregon.

A requisition from Hauser Brothers from one Colts automatic pistol was identified by the witness and testified as shipped on the day of receipt. Numeral notations of the run number on the sale bill were identified.

The defense made no cross examination. Paul Hauser of Albany, Oregon, was the next witness and identified the order for and bill of receipt previously introduced, and produced an invoice for the pistol.

Patrick Sweeney of San Francisco, a Southern Pacific investigator who spoke with a rich Irish brogue, the first witness after the morning recess, testified that on October 25, 1923, near the west portal of Siskiyou tunnel he found a pepper can, in the brush near the railroad track. The state will attempt to show that the pepper can, containing a live brand, was among the goods purchased by the DeArment boys for their campfire trip.

Sweeney marked on a map where the pepper can was found, and where the detonating battery was found.

Juror Haberline asked the witness if he was familiar with the scale of the blue print.

BAND CONCERT HEARD BY SMALL CROWD LAST NIGHT

The Douglas County Concert Band last night played very fine music at the Junior high school auditorium as a part of the observance of music week. Due to numerous other attractions the attendance was very small.

Offering tomorrow at Bible school for Red Cross fund. Please come prepared.

Length of Aimee's Hair Foremost Religious Issue in Los Angeles

Is Aimee's hair bobbed? Here are two views of the Evangelist's new haircut. Judge for yourself.

By DAN THOMAS
NEA Service Writer.

LOS ANGELES, May 7.—Los Angeles religious circles face a new problem—how long is bobbed hair? Since Aimee Semple McPherson, noted evangelist, appeared in her pulpit recently with her long tithan locks "clipped," the Angelus Temple members have been in a turmoil.

Fully a thousand followers, led by Gladwin Nichols, have deserted their leader and organized a new church with the resigned orchestra leader as its head. Nichols resigned after being reproached by Mrs. McPherson for losing interest in his work.

Immediately Aimee's name was again blazoned in newspaper headlines—for the first time in several months. Nichols and the Angelus Temple leader carried on their battle through the press. And despite the loss of many members to the new church, Aimee's nightly congregations started to swell just as they did when she was being accused of almost everything in the papers.

"I could not put my heart in my work when confronted by such a display of worldliness," said Nichols. "I was so astounded that I could scarcely carry on for the remainder of the evening when Sister McPherson first appeared with her tresses shorn. Bobbed hair and other displays of worldliness have no place in a pulpit."

Denies It's Bobbed
"My hair is not bobbed," almost shouts Mrs. McPherson, whenever the subject is mentioned. "I merely had it clipped because it was coming out so fast and I didn't know what else to do. Why, I would never think of having my hair cut short as long as I am leader of the Angelus Temple. It still is twelve inches long."

"I sincerely hope that the new church started by Mr. Nichols is a great success," declares Mrs. McPherson. "There is plenty of room for more churches in this city and the withdrawal of some of our members will not in any way affect the work we are carrying forward."

"Brotherly Love"
"I do think, however, that they are making a poor start. Wouldn't it be better to start teaching brotherly love instead of knowing a church that has already been in existence for four years and has withstood the most severe criticism ever directed toward an institution or its leader?"

Some of the dissension started several weeks ago because of a reported split between Mrs. McPherson and her mother, "Ma" Kennedy. Both vigorously denied that they had any disagreement. But Aimee no longer lives with her mother. She has taken a home at the beach and is living alone.

SIZING HIM UP

Priest: "And have you made out your income tax?"

Parishioner: "Yes, father."

Priest: "Well, my son, you can find me any evening around six o'clock in the confessional.—Le Journal (Paris)."

REVERIE OF A CONDUCTOR

I'm only a conductor
Upon a railway train,
I take up fares while listening to
The rumbling wheels' refrain.

But did you ever stop to think
How many types of life
A railway man may look into
In one day's round of strife?

Just listen to a few of these—
Upon my trip today,
I had some conflict with a lad
Who tried to beat his way.

And one young Miss, who, falling her
To some catatonic back east,
Was hastening there with eager
joy,
To spend a part—at least.

These bits are only a small part
Of what I see each day;
For life is throbbing, throbbing
fast,
As trains speed on their way.

TEMBLORS FELT IN CITIES NEAR FLOODED AREA

Red river, from the west, was assaulting the protecting embankments with the greatest flood in its history, the crest of which was approaching Alexandria. The Ouachita from the north attacked with another huge volume of water. Overland, pools were coming from the Arkansas river with still others streaming from the crevasses in the Mississippi.

Engineers believed that this water would meet in the basin at the head of the Atchafalaya and if the levee line withstood the assault, it would return to the main stream, except such of it as does not move down the Atchafalaya.

Ten thousand and nine hundred square miles of territory already have been flooded, driving 130,000 persons from their homes and 150,000 more to refuge in upper floors, Secretary Hoover estimated in a statement issued at Vicksburg as he returned to the water devastated district.

Hardest Blow Coming
The crest of the flood was just passing Vicksburg and had four hundred miles to go before exhausting its power of destruction, Secretary Hoover said. He appealed for every penny of the Red Cross quotas and as much more as the American people can give.

"There are about six thousand square miles of Louisiana still kept dry by the levees," Secretary Hoover added, "but these levees upon which thousands of men are working have not yet felt the power of the full flood. He estimated that from four to six weeks would be required for the flooded areas to drain out and that virtually the entire 330,000 persons affected must be fed and cared for by charity whether in camps or remaining in their homes. The secretary pointed out that finance companies were being erected by bankers to undertake credit for rehabilitation and arrangements being made to supply farmers with implements, seed, feed and other necessities for replanting crops.

"Due to boat mobilization and control, we anticipate preventing any loss of life in areas being flooded, or if there are more breaks," concluded Secretary Hoover. "Everybody is being fed, or of the full flood. There was a possibility, it was pointed out, that Saint Roman and his flight companion, Commander Mounier, had been picked up by some passing ship without wireless, or landed on a lonely spot on the Brazilian coast. It was recognized, however, that the chances were remote since the course they followed was off the beaten track of shipping.

The possibility of their having alighted on St. Paul's rocks, in mid-ocean or the island of Fernando do Noronha, off the Brazilian coast, was not seriously considered, for the rocks afford no likely landing place and the Fernando do Noronha ground is so broken that a machine lacking pontoons, as is the case with the Saint Roman's plane, could not land without being wrecked.

Two women trying to comfort Each other in their grief. For each had left a mother's grave. To them life's span seemed brief.

Two young folks, happy in their love. Their first love was babe between. Were going back to grandma. To show their child, I ween.

And one old mother—hair just bobbed— Was traveling home to dad. And every now and then she'd say, "I hope he won't be mad."
