FALL-SINCLAIR OIL CONSPIRACY CASE POSTPONED

(Associated Press Leased Wire.) WASHINGTON, May 13.—Trial of the Fall-Sinclair oil conspiracy case was postponed today in the District of Columbia supreme court from May 27 to October 17. Continuance of the case was asked by government counsel so that further effort might be made to serve a subpoena on James F. O'Neill, former president of Pacific Oil and Gas company, described as a "pivotal" witness in the case. Formal report was made to the court that a subpoena had been served on H. F. Blackmer, former chairman of the board of the Mid-west Refining company. The subpoena was served by an American consul on a train between Montecarlo and Nice, France. Owen J. Roberts told Justice Hitz that he assumed Blackmer would appear in response to the subpoena although the long missing oil operator refused to accept the court summons when the American consul tendered it to him. He also refused to accept $500 offered as his expense money for his return to the United States. The testimony of O'Neill and Blackmer is sought in connection with the organization of Continental Trading company. The government has contended that Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, who negotiated the lease of Teapot Dome naval oil reserve to Harry F. Sinclair, oil operator, received $230,500 in Liberty bonds obtained by Sinclair from the company. Sinclair's sentence for contempt of the senate, which was to have been announced on next Monday, was postponed today by Justice Hitz until next Friday. Sinclair's attorneys making the plea that he had important board of directors meetings to attend in the meantime. Sinclair was found guilty of refusing to answer questions of the senate oil committee.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.) NEW YORK, May 12.—The petition of Walter Taylor, Cleveland fight promoter, for an injunction against Tex Rickard and the corporations allied with him to prevent the Jimmy Malone-Jack Sharkey heavyweight fight May 19, was denied today by Federal Judge Goddard.

Taylor sought to prevent the match, scheduled at the Yankee stadium, on the ground that Malone had a prior agreement with him to meet Johnny Hasko in Cleveland on or before May 1. Malone failed to go through with his contract at the request of Rickard, who feared that injury might incapacitate the Boston fighter for the elimination tournament match.

ENGLISH KING'S FORMER AUTO ON ROSEBURG VISIT

Starting from Boston, Mass., in December, 1926, the big English built car that was used by King George of England for many years and on its third tour in the United States, reached Roseburg this morning at 11 o'clock. The car is being driven by Mr. James Teale, of the sales promotion division of the Willys-Overland Co., Inc., of Toledo, Ohio. Mr. Teale is accompanied through Oregon by Mr. Walter Buckler, of Portland, of the sales department of the Alfred Billingsley Motor Co., of Portland. These gentlemen were met at the city limits by Mayor George E. Houck, Chief of Police Vaughn, representing the city; F. W. Chase, local Willys-Overland dealer, and about 40 or 50 citizens of the town. An impromptu parade was organized, led by F. W. Chase in a Whippet sport roadster, followed by the king's car, driven by Mr. Teale. In the royal vehicle was Mayor Geo. E. Houck, Officer Vaughn and a News-Review representative, and following came a number of cars bearing the auto fans who had gone out to meet the stately old vehicle that once wended its way through the streets of London with its royal passengers. Quite a stir was created along the line of "march" as people came out to see what was passing, and after traversing the downtown district the car was parked at the Willys-Overland garage, where it is being examined today by a great many of the city people.

This old relic was built in England nearly twenty years ago. In 1924, after the royal family had come into possession of a more modern automobile, it passed into hands of the American manufacturer, and was brought to America. The first two tours of the county were made in the east and middle west. This is the first time this massive automobile has visited the Pacific coast, and these trips are made primarily to demonstrate the efficiency of Knight, sleeve-valve motor, as this car is equipped with one of the first of these automobile motors. During the time this big sedan, if such it may be called, has been in service, the original Knight motor with which the car was equipped when built especially for the king, has done constant duty. The car weighs three tons, has travelled 197,000 miles, and the motor purred along today up the Deer Creek hill at a slow speed and was practically noiseless. The engine has three speeds forward and reverse, is rated at fifty-eight horsepower, but develops eighty-seven horsepower. While the engine uses a lot of gas, the car being able to make from 6 1/2 to 7 miles to the gallon, it also has a speed capacity of 60 miles, and can do it any time. Mr. Teale says, "Originally the car cost the British people $17,500 when it was bought for the king, and it is equipped with all the accessories that any modern autist would care for. The upholstery is in leather, and there is room for seven or eight—if they are not too big."

At the time this big car was built for King George V it represented all that was desirable in a motor car for aristocracy, but to the people of the United States it looks too heavy for practical purposes, and apparently the royal family found it so after fourteen years of use, and they now have a new one. Well, the king can afford it. But even then he is not half so ambitious as many an American, who blooms out in a new car about every spring.

If you want to see something antique and a real novelty in automobiles, just go down to Chase's and let him tell you the fine points about this old English car.

NORTHWEST ARMY AVIATION FORCE TO BE EXTENDED

General Gillmore, Passing Thru Portland, Tells of Plans; Militia Aid Desired.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.) PORTLAND, Ore., May 13.—Plans for the United States army for the development of the air forces in the Pacific northwest were discussed by Brigadier General William E. Gillmore, assistant chief of the army air service, who passed through here last night en route to Medford, Oregon, where his son, Lieutenant "Bill" Gillmore, will be married tomorrow. Combat squadrons of airplanes are to be moved to the Pacific coast, the air service is to be given the latest type of pursuit and battle planes, and the national guard is to be added in developing aviation, said General Gillmore. "The Chinese situation is going to make us change our national air service department, and that change is going to be of interest to the west coast," he said. "The navy is developing its aviation around Puget Sound, with a fine station at Sand Point, near Seattle. So I think the army will put in its chief air fields in the vicinity of Portland. It would be a natural thing for us to build up our service along the Columbia river. "Some combat aviation is going to be sent here as soon as possible. There will be either pursuit or bombing planes sent first, and we will continue to build up the air forces of the northwest. "Pursuit planes of the latest type are to be sent for use by the Portland reserve fliers, and the army is going to try to interest the Oregon National Guard in putting in an airplane squadron. In addition to the squadrons the regular army will establish.

ELKS INITIATE CLASS
Six initiates were initiated into the Elks lodge last night at the regular meeting of that order. The lodge work and initiation were put on by the recently elected officers. Following the initiation a lunch was served.

Dr. Lucetta Smith left today for Corvallis where she will attend the state convention of the Business and Professional Women's club.

Smiles of Confidence

Mrs. Lloyd Bertrand (left) and Mrs. Clarence Chamberlain, wives of the aviators who are to attempt the new York-to-Paris hop, are confident of their husbands' success. That is, if their thoughts are faithfully reflected by the smiles with which they are here watching a test at Curtis Field, Long Island, of Wright-Bellanca monoplane in which the attempt is to be made. It was the same machine which Chamberlain and Bert Acosta recently piloted to a world's sustained flight record over New York.

Piano Purchasers

We notice that out of town piano dealers are by letters and advertisements informing people that they have in your immediate vicinity, a piano that has been repossessed from some of your neighbors. We also notice that this same information is scattered not only in Roseburg, but Drain, Yoncalla, Myrtle Creek, Glendale, on up to Eugene and in fact, all over the state. This is done merely to get your name so they can send a salesman down with a piano to try and sell it. We would advise you to see your Home Dealer and find out just what he can sell you this same piano for before biting at this scheme. We can probably save you considerable money on the same so-called bargain.
