REGENTS OPPOSE S. P. DEATH EDICT ON AIRLIE ROAD (Continued from page 1.) would send a protest to the Interstate Commission. Records of the service commission show that no protest has been made to the Interstate commission, but that on July 11 a letter was sent to the latter asking that a hearing be held in the case because of numerous informal protests from persons and interests affected by the proposed abandonment. This, it was said at the offices of the commission today, assured a hearing before action is taken.

PRESBYTERIANS ELECT AN ELDER FOR MODERATOR

(Associated Press Leased Wire) EUGENE, Ore., July 21.—Elder J. A. Wilkinson, North Bend, was elected moderator of the Presbyterian synod which opened yesterday in the Central Presbyterian church and will continue until July 27. The election of a ruling elder to this position is unprecedented in the annals of state Presbyterian synods, and is taken as a gesture of gratitude to the laymen for promoting the $15,000,000 pension fund for ministers, which was recently completed.

The only other time that an elder has been given any similar office was at the general assembly in San Francisco some time ago when J. Willis Beard was chosen moderator. Elder Wilkinson has taken an active part in church and civic work. Two years ago he was sent to the general assembly as commissioner from the Coos Bay Presbytery. He represented Coos Bay in the pension plan party, and was one of the first to have his report completed and sent in, according to Rev. J. E. Snyder, pastor at North Bend, who nominated him. Elder Wilkinson also is connected with the Albany college, having served as a member of the board of regents to that institution for several years.

In electing Elder Wilkinson moderator of the synod, the ministers secured a man for that position with a most friendly attitude toward them, according to Rev. Mr. Snyder, who has been intimately acquainted with the new moderator for several years. Elder Wilkinson, who is in the mercantile business at North Bend, has supported the church at all times, not in a financial way alone but through physical effort placed at the disposal of the minister.

PORTLAND HORSE SHOW PRIZES TO TOTAL $35,000

(Associated Press Leased Wire) PORTLAND, Ore., July 21.—The largest stakes ever provided to interest horse fanciers, are to be hung up for the coming Pacific international horse show to be held here October 29 to November 5, according to Manager A. P. Fleming. Stakes, trophies and awards will aggregate $35,000. "Never before has so large a sum been offered to exhibitors anywhere," said Mr. Fleming, and this is the fourth year in succession that the Pacific international show has broken records in that respect.

Portland firms have provided five $2,000 stakes; seven $1,000 stakes; three $500 stakes and numerous trophies and awards. A Seattle hotel—the Olympic, contributes again this year the largest stake ever offered at a horse show—a $4,000 stake for the five-gated horse division.

A de luxe stock train—the only such train in the world—will again cross the continent, Mr. Fleming said, bringing to Portland some of the finest stock to be found on the Atlantic coast. Mr. Fleming, who has been in Portland the past ten days perfecting arrangements for the show, left for San Francisco last night.

Boys Return From Scout Camp At Wolf Creek

The Boy Scouts, who have been spending the past two weeks in the summer camp at Wolf Creek, returned to Roseburg this morning. The camp was one of the most successful the organization has ever held and the boys not only had a good time, but were advanced materially in their scoutcraft. E. A. On the 28th the Campfire Girls will leave for a two-weeks' outing, returning to the city August 11. Young Child Plays Beethoven Sonata

CHICAGO, July 21.—The musical world of Chicago has found a sensation in four-year-old Dorothy Johnson, whose mother brought her here from Honolulu for a musical education. Taken before Mossy Boguslawski, pianist, the child hunched into Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata" and followed with Bach's "Prelude in C Major." Dorothy's mother, a music teacher, said the girl just "picked up" the composition, and Boguslawski called hers the most remarkable imitative talent he ever had seen. Dorothy proved the genuineness of her ability later before a committee of judges, skeptical of her performance.

SWIMMING SIMPLIFIED Confidence and a Little Nerve are Fundamentals of Diving BY JAMES A. LEE Athletic Director, Cleveland (Ohio) Athletic Club

Diving, like any other sport in any field, has its fundamentals. Confidence, form, rhythm, and timing are the most essential points for a beginner to keep in mind. Have confidence along with a little nerve on the end of a diving board, two to three feet from the water, and you should be able to try diving. Stand erect, with toes over the end of the board, hands and feet together, and arms stretched over the head; bend body at the waist line and bring the outstretched arms parallel with the thighs. With the head well bent forward and chin against the chest, proceed to a falling motion. Try to keep the feet on the board as long as possible. Do this quite a few times, and after gaining confidence and overcoming fear, you are ready to take the same dive with a spring from a standing position, and gradually work into a running plain front dive. Although diving is not necessary, it will help one to enjoy swimming, especially where there is a diving board.
