MARKETS

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 1.—Local wholesale and retail markets opened this morning little changed in general tones and price ranges from Saturday's closing. Country meats and poultry were quoted at steady prices in all lines with trade starting too slowly to effect any immediate changes. However, demand for all lines of poultry is stronger than a week ago and meat receipts were lighter over the week end and this morning, giving dealers a chance to clean out a large part of reserves in coolers. The tone on meats is fully firm. Butter and egg prices are unchanged today on the dairy exchange but curtailed receipts of both with which to meet a fairly active demand portend upward price revision at the exchange session late this afternoon. Prices for most lines of fresh fruits and vegetables are steady but tomatoes continue definitely weaker, retailing for 10 cents per pound for best field run stock. The supply is large. Watermelons have weakened slightly to around 2 1/2 cents wholesale and 3 to 3 1/2 cents retail. Much of the peach supply is off condition, being a little under ripe or showing blemishes from handling enroute. Best offerings in large sizes of any variety sell for 40 cents per dozen, retail but the bulk of supply is ordinary, priced at 30 cents. Raspberries are now scarce on the public market and priced from 10 cents up per box. Loganberries are 8c to 10c.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 1.—Good beef steers strong to 15 cents higher; others steady to strong. Steers 900 to 1100 pounds, good $9.15@9.50; do 1100-1200 pounds, good $9.25@9.50; do medium 800 pounds up $8.00@9.00; do common $6.75@8.00; do fed calves and yearlings 750-950 pounds, good $9.00@9.50; heifers, good $7.25@8.25; do common to medium $6.00@7.25; cows good $6.75@7.25; do common to medium $5.25@6.25; do low cutters $3.00@3.25; bulls, yearlings excluded, beef, good $6.00@6.50; do cutters and medium $4.50@5.75; calves 500 pound down, medium to choice $7.50@10.00; do cults to common $5.50@7.50; vealers, milk fed, good $10.00@12.50; do medium $8.50@10.00; do cults to common $6.00@6.50. Hogs fairly active; butcher stock 10@15 cents higher; heavyweight 25-350 pounds, medium to choice $10.75@11.75; medium weight 200-250 pounds, medium to choice $11.40@12.40; light weight 160-200 pounds, medium to choice $11.40@12.50; feeder and stocker pigs 70-120 pounds, medium to choice $11.75@14.00. "I got the idea from Florenz Ziegfeld"

Behind the scenes at the Ziegfeld Theatre Gladys Glad is remarking to Flo Kennedy between acts of the Follies.

Florenz Ziegfeld, famous theatrical producer, writes:

"As the producer of 'The Ziegfeld Follies' I know full well how important it is for my stars to have clear voices at all times. Several years ago, when I first began to smoke Lucky Strikes, I noticed that my voice remained unirritated after a most strenuous time directing rehearsals. I passed this information on to my stars and now we are all agreed: Lucky Strike is a delightful smoke and most assuredly protects the voice, eliminating any coughing, which often interrupts a perfect performance."

Florenz Ziegfeld

You, too, will find that Lucky Strikes are mild and mellow—the finest cigarettes you ever smoked, made of the finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, properly aged and blended with great skill, and there is an extra process—"It's toasted"—no harshness, not a bit of bite.

"It's toasted"

No Throat Irritation - No Cough.

NEED SHOWN FOR STANDARD GRADES POULTRY PRODUCT OTTAWA, Canada, Aug. 1.—Standard grades of poultry products understood and applicable in all parts of the country are needed in the United States, asserted Rob R. Slocum, of the United States Department of Agriculture, before the World's Poultry congress at Ottawa, Canada. This necessity arises because important areas of production and the largest consuming centers are widely separated. The United States Department of Agriculture has studied this problem in its relation to eggs and has promulgated a set of standards of quality applicable to individual eggs, the quality factors being the condition of shell, yolk, germ, and size and condition of all cells. With these standards as a basis, said Mr. Slocum, the department formulated three sets of egg grades: Buying Grades, Wholesale Grades, and Retail Grades for use at country buying points, in wholesale channels, and in retail channels of trade. A study of standards and grades for live and dressed poultry has been started with a view to issuing them in the near future in tentative form. For maintaining a standard uniform quality in different markets and for settling disputes concerning grades, the department has established inspection facilities, permissive, not compulsory. These inspections are of two kinds: Shipping points and terminal market inspection. When shipments are ready for movement, the inspection enables the shipper to describe the quality to prospective purchasers. After arrival at the market, inspection is used to settle disputes of the commodity. Live poultry inspections are being supervised in one market, New York City, with an annual requirement of 12,000 cars, an approximate value of $69,000,000, practically all of which are now inspected by a supervisor and 11 licensed inspectors. Egg inspections are made in New York City, Chicago, Philadelphia, San Francisco and Petaluma, California, and three points in Missouri. There are three distinct arrangements under which inspection services are operated: Straight inspection, federal-state inspection, and point inspection. Under each arrangement, the appointment of supervisor and inspectors, and the kind of certificate issued conform to conditions of type of inspection. Financing the inspection service also conforms to the arrangement under which operated. In federal inspection, fees collected are paid into the United States treasury and are not available for further inspection until reappropriated by congress. In federal-state inspection the fees collected by the state are placed in a revolving fund from which salaries of inspectors and other expenses are paid. In joint inspections, the fees collected by the cooperating agency are used for salaries of inspectors and other expenses, including payment into the United States treasury of an amount equal to that expended by the department. Less than three years ago egg inspection was begun by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics and that of live poultry only last November, yet in December, 1926, 572 egg inspections involving over 51,000 cases of eggs were made, while during the same month 1,171 cars of live poultry were inspected and 8,814 baskets of live poultry received by express.

Twelve people hurt by wreck of auto stage (Continued from page 1.) Shermer, however, apparently feared questioning and by the time the officer arrived upon the scene he had gone and has not yet been located. No warrant has been issued for his arrest. The Lawson garage wrecker from Roseburg was called and the bus was taken into Yoncalla for repairs. The steering gear was badly broken and the front end of the car badly smashed, while all of the doors and windows on the left side were broken. Etiquette Code of Peter the Great Found. 10 Quaint Commandments Laid Down by Czar for Russian Subjects of His Day. Leningrad, Aug. 1.—Surveys of the official archives of the famous Winter Palace here resulted in the discovery of a novel "Code of Deportment" by Peter the Great. Intended for young men "who wished to succeed at court and in everyday life," Peter's Code embraces ten quaint commandments, the violation of which rendered the social delinquent liable of banishment from the polite society. This is the Decalogue: Never emulate the rustic boor by getting drunk in the daytime. In conversation with a group of others, refrain from spitting in the middle of the group; spit to one side of it. In the church theatre or other public place avoid blowing the nose loudly, or picking the nose with the finger, or drawing the hand across the mouth, or leaning the elbows upon a table, or allowing the hands to stray or shuffling the feet, or licking the fingers, or gnawing a bone, or picking the teeth with a knife, or scratching the head, or crunching your victuals like a pig, or speaking with the mouth full. Don't walk along the street with head poked forward, eyes cast down, or features attuned to superciliousness. Rather preserve an air of advance an air at once cheerful, polite, urbane and firm. On being introduced to a young acquaintance, doff the hat at a distance of three paces. On passing an old acquaintance, see to it that you don't over look that acquaintance. Cultivate courtesy, ease of manner, and the ability to refrain from wrath. Render yourself nice of speech, well-read, capable of taking part in a conversation without either disclosing the nature of your thoughts, or allowing anyone else to forestall your remarks. Be free from diffidence and want of initiative. Acquire foreign languages; master the arts of riding, dancing and fencing. Refrain from dancing in boots. Arundel, piano tuner. Phone 138-1.
