Even though the summer months have been chosen by a number of the younger maids for their weddings, the latter part of August and early autumn will bring several marriages of importance both in the city and out of town.

An out of town wedding which was recently solemnized and came as an interesting affair to many in the city was the marriage of Howard Zurcher, the son of a former Roseburg family, and Miss Maxine Campbell of Portland. The marriage of Miss Evelyn Batey and Roy Huffam of Roseburg early in the week was a surprise to many of their friends.

Much social interest will center about the wedding of Miss Adele Bemis, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Bemis of Roseburg, and Loren Britt, the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Britt of Corvallis, the ceremony to be a lovely home event of the coming week. Prenuptial affairs are being planned and several are arriving from out of town to be present for the wedding, among those coming this week being Mrs. Andrew J. George, a sister of Miss Bemis, who arrived from San Francisco Monday to be matron of honor.

Out of town visitors were inspirations for much of the entertaining of the past week and delightful indeed have been the variety of social affairs. Late summer continues to see many Roseburg folk leaving on motor trips, among those most recently to go being Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Heinline and Miss Martha Yeo, who are touring to British Columbia.

LAURA LA PLANTE in "The LOVE THRILL" with TOM MOORE
A UNIVERSAL JEWEL PRODUCTION

ANTLERS THEATRE

"Love Thrill" With Laura La Plante Coming to Antlers

A highly entertaining and fast-moving farce comedy is "The Love Thrill," the Universal-Jewel production which opens Sunday at the Antlers theatre, with Laura La Plante as the star.

The action of the picture hinges around the attempt of Joyce to sell an insurance policy to a wealthy man who refuses to listen to her argument.

Joyce masquerades as the widow of Creelman's best friend, who is supposed to have been killed in Africa. Creelman after one look at Joyce, forgets to grieve over his friends' death and spends his time consoling the widow. Joyce goes to his bachelor apartment and discovers that even widows must be careful with wealthy bachelors.

When the "dead husband" makes his appearance on New Year's Eve, the complications that involve Joyce provide more frothy comedy than has been seen in many a day. Tom Moore does some splendid acting as Joyce's "husband."

LIBERTY THEATRE

"Tillie" Has a Marvelous Cast.

In Marion Davies' newest starring vehicle, "Tillie the Toiler," a Cosmopolitan production filmed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, the blonde star is supported by the most able cast of comedians ever assembled in a single film production.

Matt Moore, who has played for years in film farces, or outstanding comedy roles of dramatic productions, is seen as Mac, the whimsical office drudge.

MARION DAVIES in TILLIE THE TOILER

Bert Roach, star of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's comedy hit, "Excuse Me," has an important role as Bill, the habitually intoxicated brother-in-law of the frivolous but lovable stenographer-heroine.

Gertrude Short, who won her comedy spurs in the "Telephone Girl" series of comedies put out a couple of years ago by FBO, has the role of the stenographer in the office next door, and George Fawcett, who has played innumerable comedy roles, including that of the king in "The Merry Widow," has the part of Mr. Simpkins.

"Tillie the Toiler," a screen play by A. P. Younger, based on Russ Westover's comic strip and directed by Hobart Henley, will be seen Sunday at the Liberty theatre.

LIBERTY THEATRE

Thomson Scores Great Success!

Fred Thomson and his wonder horse, Silver King, breezed across the Liberty theatre screen last night registering another conclusive motion picture triumph.

As in previous films of the great West, Thomson wanders off the beaten path in this latest of his starring pictures for FBO "Silver Comes Through" and by virtue of his splendid performance in an unique story wins his way characteristically into the hearts of his enthusiastic fans. "Silver Comes Through" possesses a liberal quota of thrill material developed to the nth degree by the vital performance of the popular Western star, aided by his wonder horse, and A has a well-defined love theme of a most wholesome type.

This young lady will represent Michigan at the Atlantic City contest. She is Miss Margaret Tinney, a 19-year-old stenographer and she's officially known as Miss Pontiac now—though she hopes to be Miss America later.

FORECASTS OF STYLES FROM SARATOGA

Longer Skirts and Tunics Presage New Autumn Modes

Mrs. J. A. Renahan

BY BETSEY SCHUYLER
NEA Service Writer

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Saratoga is just unbelievably lovely this season with its green stretches, gorgeous flower beds and playing fountains forming what I always maintain is the most ideal setting anywhere for gay races.

Every house is taken and the season has a running start towards being Saratoga's best.

Always individual in everything it does and sponsors, Saratoga, I note, seems to inspire the same spirit in all the Newporters and Southamptonites gathered for the races. Undoubtedly they have conserved their most unusual and smartest clothes for Saratoga!

Enchantingly lovely as clothes have been the first few days of the season, they have one discouraging feature. They are, without a doubt, flirting with the longer-skirt idea. It is impossible to find a single chic costume that doesn't at least hint at a middle-of-the-calf length, with sashes, flounces, panels or some fluttering something setting the new low level of styles.

Longer Tunics, Too!

Next to longer skirts, the three-quarter tunics impress me most as being a gesture to new styles. Apparently it is to be a three-quarters length season, not only for tunics but coats and suits.

Printed chiffons, crepes, lace, embroidery and combinations of these materials lead the alluring, colorful panorama. I note with a start that it has taken Saratoga to put the ubiquitous two-piece jumper sports costume of jersey or silk on the shelf, temporarily.

Mrs. John W. Converse summed up the main new style points in her becoming costume Saturday. Ecru lace and eyelet embroidery joined forces to fashion it. Its finely pleated skirt was safely and sanely below the knee and its tunic was at least three quarters, with surplice side fastening. A tight gold belt held it at the waistline.

Mrs. Raymond T. Baker also sponsored ecru embroidery—with scallops edging little tiers that ran round the frock from yoke to hem.

For unusual treatment of soft, patterned fabric, Mrs. McCulloch Miller's costume yesterday won Grace. Of course the former Flora Payne Whitney always had a flair for distinctive touches. This gown was of the softest of grey, slinky crepes, with an oddly polka-dotted border in fuchsia and purples.

Appropriate Jockey Visor

The border varied the size of the dots and had some solid colors and some just outlined so the objectionable regularity of most polka-dots was avoided.

Her hat, too, had its odd touch—a draped beret of French grey felt with just the suggestion of a jockey's visor to give it the Saratoga flavor.

Mrs. Frederick Johnson and Mrs. William Ziegler also sponsored prints—the former favoring the circular skirt mode and the latter getting stepping fullness by side-pleats.

Mrs. J. A. Renahan has one patterned silk that is just delectable. On a white background, splashy orange flowers vie for color dominance with touches of lip-stick red in an outlined flower. Twin white bands hem the pleated skirt and the white blouse has two appliqued flowers livening it—one of the yellow, one red.

Popular Purple Shades

She wore a white wool coat over it that for its pin-line orange check and its cunning cape collar deserved a pat on the back.

Purples are giving a royal touch to Southampton that I have never noticed before. Purple and lavenders are very popular. Mrs. A. Perry Osborne looked regal in a longish tunic frock of purple crepe, with heavy white embroidery banding it. Mrs. Martin B. Saportis has several mauve and lavender costumes, as have also Mrs. Milton Holden, Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt, Mrs. Jorge Andre and Mrs. George Mesta.

Mrs. McCulloch Miller
