THE CHINESE CHAOS.

We who sit back and watch Lindbergh, the pennant races, the Sacco-Vanzetti demonstrations, with interest perhaps, have not been able to realize fully the charnel house of human agony that China has become. Shantung, great rich province, is beset by the demons of anarchy. Chinese are pitted against Chinese, working oppression, havoc and banditry, looting and slaying and laying waste.

Deserters from one army pass to another. Stronger forces beat down the weaker. Deserters pass back and forth with the tides of fortune and battle. It is every man for himself in the hour of terror. We have watched the line of the Kuomintang or Nationalists move from the south across the face of that torn country.

While the anti-foreign rage continues, Chinese go on killing, robbing and plundering themselves. What a vengeance to wreak upon those from outside who have wronged them!

PITY FOR PESSIMISTS.

"Pity the foolish, blind pessimist." That was one of the life rules of Elbert H. Gary, head of one of America's greatest corporations, United States Steel.

His was a life of optimism, the life of a builder. And at the hour of his death the other day, Wall Street carried out the principle that guided all Judge Gary's affairs.

There was a feared moment when it was announced in the New York Stock Exchange that the great leader was dead. It was the hour for bears to strike. Here was an opportunity for the professional pessimists to clean up on an ordinary joyful stock, United States Steel, seizing the depression of the instant and converting it into profits.

But Judge Gary's associates had prepared for that moment and mobilized their millions to fight it. Blocks of United States Steel were offered and snapped up. Officers of General Motors met the same ready response. Bankers and their agents on the floor stood with a mighty array of martial money, ready to beat back a wave of selling that would depress the market.

No more dramatic conclusion could have been written to the life of the man who lived optimism and who imparted to countless others faith in the future of American industry.

of the marriage had not been set, but both she and Krause believed in long engagements. Krause said he met the actress in Berlin in 1921 when he was on a trip around the world.

With seats at a premium and people standing, the largest crowd which has ever filled Bible Standard Temple, listened to Richard Hendrick, noted child evangelist, last night, while he masterfully presented his subject, "Sign Post."

Back of the "Little Minister" on the platform, were sign posts, donated by the Southern California Auto Club. These were graphic illustrations of many of his points.

He used Christ's "Sermon on the Mount" as a foundation for his sermon, giving interesting stories to make his subject clear.

Jack Lockwill at Summer Camp

Judge talked privately to Saunders, later in the day. When Buke came out, he still wore a sullen air. "Didn't know but the old fool would fire me out of the camp," he said to two of the boys.

After that, the bully found himself shunned by the young campers. No one paid any attention to him, and, blaming Lockwill, he brooded over it bitterly.

When night came, Saunders was still absent, and he failed to answer the roll-call in the morning. In the afternoon, Jack went into the woods to look for the missing fellow.

REPENTANCE

Text: 2 Samuel 12:1-10, 13. And the Lord sent Nathan unto David. And he came unto him, and said unto him, There were two men in one city; the one rich, and the other poor.

The rich man had exceeding many flocks and herds: But the poor man had nothing, save one little ewe lamb, which he had bought and nourished up: and it grew up together with him, and with his children: it did eat of his own cup, and lay in his bosom, and was unto him as a daughter.

And there came a traveler unto the rich man, and he spared to take of his own flock, and of his own herd, to dress for the wayfaring man that was come unto him; but took the poor man's lamb, and dressed it for the man that was come to him.

And David's anger was greatly kindled against the man; and he said to Nathan, As the Lord liveth, the man that hath done this thing shall surely die: And he shall restore the lamb fourfold, because he did this thing, and because he had no pity.

And Nathan said to David, Thou art the man. Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, I anointed thee king over Israel, and I delivered thee out of the hand of Saul: And I gave thee thy master's house, and thy master's wives into thy bosom, and gave thee the house of Israel and of Judah; and if that had been too little, I would moreover have given unto thee such and such things.

Wherefore hast thou despised the commandment of the Lord, to do evil in his sight? Thou has killed Uriah the Hittite with the sword, and hast taken his wife to be thy wife, and hast slain him with the sword of the children of Ammon. Now therefore the sword shall never depart from thine house; because thou hast despised me, and hast taken the wife of Uriah the Hittite to be thy wife.

And David said unto Nathan, I have sinned against the Lord. And Nathan said unto David, The Lord also hath put away thy sin; thou shalt not die.

When Repentance is Late. Nathan drove home the truth to David fearlessly and clearly. David showed his greatness in the sincerity of his repentance.

It is only the small man who justifies himself when his fault and his sin are made plain. Possibly most of us are small men. Our natural course when we are accused of wrong that we have committed is to seek in some way to excuse our fault or justify ourselves. The way of repentance is not only the right way, it is the way of strength and courage, and it is the only way to the real restoration of life.

Unfortunately, even repentance, sincere as it may be, and powerfully as it may accomplish the restoration of the sinner, cannot re-establish the things that sin has destroyed. David was repentant, but Uriah was dead. How much better is that repentance of soul which keeps a man from sinning before it is necessary to turn from the havoc of sins already committed?

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Aug. 28. Repentance: What it is and What it Does. 2 Samuel 12:1-10, 13.

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D. Editor of the Congregationalist.

David, as every Bible reader knows, had in him the capacities of a great sinner as well as those of a great saint, and the Biblical story reveals the seriousness of his moral lapses as well as his finer aspects as poet and singer.

Probably in few characters in history have good and bad been so strangely blended. The man, who has become known in history as the "sweet singer of Israel," the zealous young patriot who slew Goliath in the hour of his country's danger, the king who so glorified the national life of Israel that he might almost be spoken of as the founder of Israel's political history, was, in plain words, an adulterer and a murderer.

Leston Seldom Realized. The lesson of this, while it is sufficiently obvious, is not always realized by men and women in their life conduct. So many times the sins of life seem easily justified, or are so pleasant and alluring that men and women are almost trapped into them before they realize the way upon which they are entering.

It is remarkable in history how closely adultery and murder have been associated. Let us remember, also, that the finer aspects of David's love for Bathsheba, and the evidences of a deep and permanent affection between them that transcended momentary temptation and gusts of passion, did not alter the evil of their course or the fact that their illicit love led to the death of Uriah, a man whose only fault was apparently, that he was too trusting and too loyally devoted to his soldierly duties to play the part of a gracious and easy-going husband.

The record indicates that he was a good and faithful man, yet David deliberately had him placed in the thick of the fight that he might be killed.

Thank God for his prophets and ministers in every age who have not hesitated to speak the truth even in high quarters where their own safety was in danger. Thank God for a prophet like Nathan who did not hesitate in the form of a clear and unmistakable parable to condemn the Brooklyn Dodgers winning 4-3. The Yankees added insult to injury at Detroit, turning back the Tigers for the third time in succession, 5-6.

New York today was 15 and one-half games ahead of Detroit. Washington lost its tenth game in a row, Cleveland beating out the Senators again, 5-7.

Sammy Gray was in rare form and held St. Louis to give hits to chalk up a 7-0 victory, while the Mackens pounded out ten hits. Thomas held the Boston Red Sox to three hits as Chicago came thru with a 2-1 win.

COAST LEAGUE RESULTS (Associated Press Special Wire) Winning 3 to 1 for the second straight victory, Sacramento evened the series on Portland yesterday. Max Rachac kept the hits well scattered.

The Seals defeated Seattle 5-2 and the series is now even up. In a double header the Missions and Los Angeles split even. The Bells won the opener, 9 to 4, and dropped the second, 5 to 2. In the first game John and Brazil hit home runs for Los Angeles.

The Hollywood Stars nosed out the Oaks, 6 to 5; Wilbur Cooper, on the mound for the Oaks, was given poor support.
